

Air-O-lite Gasoline Lamps

Air-O-lites are safe, economical, convenient and ornamental. Gasoline Lamps long ago passed the experimental stage and the Air-O-lite is perfected. It makes and burns its own gas from common gasoline, giving a fine, bright, white light of 300-candle power. Costs about one cent per night to burn.

The price of the regular model is $8.00. This has a large, heavy nickel-plated brass fount of 4 pints capacity, a 10-inch corrugated opal shade and comes complete with two mantles, lighting torch, wrench, pump, etc.

The No. 324 has a 3-pins fount and an exposed instead of concealed filler plug, but has a new automatic burner cleaner, an improvement which is much appreciated by new users. Has a fancy shaped opal shade and is completely equipped for use. Price $7.75.

We also have these fine lamps in brackets, in chandelier and in lantern form. Any lamp or lantern sent postpaid on receipt of price. Full stock of repairs carried.

Best quality Mantles, 10c; 2 for 25c; 90c per dozen.

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Culley are moving from Walla Walla to the Culley ranch south of town, where Cliff will assist his brother Sin in farming operations.

Frank Price, manager of the Weston Warehouse Co., is at Portland this week attending a convention of Northwest grain men at the Multnomah hotel. Their meeting has to do with the new grain grades established by a federal commission, which is meeting with them.

Ed DeMoss was seen to be capering around on his office floor the other day with all the grace and liveliness of a pachyderm. When asked the occasion of his joy he replied that the town was rid of its worst pest for awhile anyway. "Anybody ought to be able to guess who," he added.

Robert Michael has gone to the Spokane neighborhood to take charge of an eight acre orchard for C. S. Howlatt, and will be followed by his family at the close of the school year. Mr. Howlatt is field representative of the National Builders Bureau of Chicago, with headquarters at Spokane, and was here Monday making a contract with Mr. Michael.

John Sheets, at one time a football warrior of the old Weston Normal, has taken a job in Snider's blacksmith job. Even before going to school here Mr. Sheets had been a blacksmith—which helped some on the gridiron if not in the class room. He expects the arrival of his family soon from Pendleton. They will occupy the Powers residence on Water street.

Frank Snider has added to his blacksmithing equipment a 1525-pound triphammer bought of a California firm. It will strike 350 blows a minute with a 75-pound hammer head, and saves a lot of muscle in plow sharpening and heavy forging. We recommend that Snider try it out on Kernel Boyd's adamant cheek—if he isn't afraid of "busting" the hammer.

A dozen or more Weston "Camp" men went to Athena Monday evening and saw the Royal Purple degree conferred upon six candidates. They are enthusiastic over the clam bake served by the Athena brethren—saying that it was in all respects a gastronomic triumph. Eighty men are said to have eaten 300 pounds of clams, and Mayor Best of Pendleton is credited with having individually assimilated three heaping plates full of the delicious bivalves.

Miss Ethel Waddingham writes from San Francisco under date of February 11 that the Tribune excursionists are having the time of their lives, and have been royally treated everywhere. The last day of the boat ride, she says, all the girls enjoyed, but were not so enthusiastic concerning the earlier part of the voyage. Possibly the ocean fishes enjoyed it more than the girls, but as to this Miss Waddingham is eloquently silent. On the day the letter was written the party went out to the Cliff house and the beach.

A St. Valentine's party was given Wednesday, February 14, in the Masonic hall by the Bachelor Girls. The evening was spent in playing games, after which a dainty two course luncheon was served—the last course following out the club colors, pink and white. Those present were: Misses Ruth Read, Josie Lavender, Ruby Price, Manie Barnes, Leola Duncan, Blanche Beamer, Lottia Brandt, Theima Au-erson, Aline Noren, Lucile Cogswell, Odessa Kirkpatrick, Zella Gould, Lois Porter; Mrs. Gladys McFadden; Messrs. Lowell Duncan, Joe Read, Rubin Smith, Virgil Lundell, James Beamer, Curran McFadden, Elmer Tucker, Frank Smith, Carl Brandt, Lincoln Haffner, Ray O'Harra, Orell McPherson, James Kirkpatrick, A. F. Sempert.

Charles Marshall, a farmer of the Reed and Hawley uplands, has had the misfortune of losing all of his work horses—four good animals all less than four years old. He reported the symptoms of the malady causing their death to the Oregon Agricultural College, and has been advised that it was spinal meningitis. This is ascribed to eating moldy vegetation, or to drinking water that has seeped through such vegetation. The disease resembles stagers, and is said to be invariably fatal unless physic is administered within less than 24 hours by injection after the first symptoms are manifested.

Saturday, February 24, has been designated as "Mothers' Day" by the Saturday Afternoon Club. An open meeting will be held and the public and particularly the mothers are cordially invited to attend. An address will be given by Miss Frances Gardiner, Dean of Women at Whitman College. The meeting will be held at 2:30 p. m. at either the opera house or the Masonic hall—this to be announced later.

Substantial appreciation of the Weston Leader—the kind that gives a jingle in the palm—was received during the first two weeks of February from the following subscribers: H. A. Walker, R. Lieualen, W. M. Carter, W. H. Case, L. C. Christenson, Henry Pinkerton, G. A. Brutscher, Rufus Brutscher, J. A. Ross, Mrs. L. McMorris, Jesse Reeves, Earl Dudley, Linus Anderson, Fred McGrew.

More Athena brethren were here Wednesday evening at the meeting of Stevens Lodge than were mustered from the local ranks of the order. Walter Williams was made a full fledged knight, and the second rank was conferred upon R. L. Reynaud. The usual "feed" followed, at which Bill Dobson acquitted himself with his accustomed distinction.

With Frank Greer as auctioneer the basket social in district No. 11 on the Wild Horse Friday evening netted the gratifying sum of $28.25. Prior to the auction an interesting program was given by the school, under the direction of the teacher, Mrs. C. L. Pinkerton.

Ask our sage friend DeGraw, our conservative Cashier Smith, the versatile Dr. Smith, the facetious Joe Hodgson, our new friend Nelson or anyone operating the celebrated Horton motor washer. Two more sold this week. Watts & Rogers.

Miss Ida Winder, 18 years old, died at Pendleton Tuesday of tuberculosis. She was the daughter of William Winder, formerly a resident of the Reed and Hawley uplands.
