Hamp Booher sold eight head of hogs the other day to Jack Read of Athena for sixteen cents a pound—or $271.20 for the bunch. These porkers were fattened on stubble. Later on Hamp will feed his cows and pigs on eighty-pound squashes raised with only a few drops of rain from the time they were planted. Such is our wonderful climate—as the late Charley Besserer was accustomed to saying.

Ray W. Clark, 20 years old, and J. J. McDonald, 40, were electrocuted Friday while working below Umapine. The cable of a derrick they were using came in contact with the power line and Clark tried to pull it free. He was instantly killed, and in trying to release the body McDonald also fell dead. Burning and smoking, both bodies had to be left in the road until the power could be shut off at Walla Walla, when they were released from the deadly wires.

A most delightful reception was recently given at the Methodist church in honor of Rev. S. E. Powell and family. A very enjoyable program was given. Piano solos were rendered by Miss Ruby Price, Miss Hope Beeler and Miss Ruth Shangle of Milton. Miss Compton of Columbia College delighted her audience with several appropriate vocal selections. Mr. Landell sang two vocal numbers in a pleasing manner. A substantial silver offering was presented, after which the ladies served lunch to about one hundred people.
