BREVITIES

Charles Wilson and Fred Greer left this week for Spokane to attend business college.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Maloney have gone to Walla Walla, where Mrs. Maloney will submit to an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Price and Mrs. J. E. Stanfield motored to Walla Walla Wednesday for a week-end visit.

E. E. Zehm has disposed of his stock and leaves tomorrow for Spokane, where his family is residing.

R. G. Saling left today for southern Idaho to look after his ranch interests, and will be absent about a week.

A recent casualty list contained the name of Private Frederick W. Compton of Milton, who was severely wounded.

A daughter weighing nine pounds was born Thursday morning to Agent and Mrs. S. S. Nelson at their home at the O-W. depot.

Willis Kutch is compelled to get around on crutches at his home in the Basket uplands. He was quite badly hurt while unloading logs.

We are herewith going to mention Bud Nelson's new electric sign—but not for the purpose of advertising it, as it advertises itself.

J. H. Padberg has been appointed administrator of the R. Lieualen estate. The appraisers are S. A. Barnes, J. H. Price and G. W. Staggs.

Mrs. Jane Penland Quick of Halsey, Oregon, was a guest this week of Mrs. Martha W. Van Winkle. The two were neighbors in the Willamette valley fifty years ago.

Patriarchs, Attention!—There will be a meeting of Wenaha Encampment No. 73 on Tuesday, October 15. Work in Patriarchal Degree. Come. H. L. Hedrick, Scribe.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Padberg were here this week from their home in Morrow county, having come to attend the funeral of Mrs. Padberg's father, the late Ransom Lieualen.

J. H. Clodius is in Lane hospital, San Francisco, recovering from an operation for the relief of stomach trouble. This proved highly successful, and his continued improvement is looked for.

Frank Hildebrand has so nearly recovered that he will be brought home in a few days from St. Mary's hospital, where he has been a patient with typhoid pneumonia for the past four weeks.

Earl Lieualen, who is taking the radio course at Washington State College to equip himself for special war work, was here Sunday to attend the funeral of his grandfather, the late Ransom Lieualen.

Glenn Smith has enrolled from Weston in the Tanks corps at Portland—an army organization in which resourcefulness and daring are prime requisites. He is a son of H. P. Smith of Dry creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morrison of Long Beach, Calif., were here during the first of the week on a wedding trip and were guests of the Richard Morrises. Robert and Richard Morrison are brothers.

A horse belonging to W. H. Warfield of Basket mountain was struck by lightning and killed during Sunday's storm. The animal had the distinction of meeting death from a cause unique in this section of the country.

Mrs. A. M. Johnson and little son of Starbuck, Wash., and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Cowan of Walla Walla were visiting this week at the home of Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Storms; Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Cowan are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Storms.

G. A. R. McGrew came up from Portland Wednesday to lend a helping hand to "the boy" on the McGrew ranch. Bob really likes to get into a suit of ranch togs and labor long and lustily. Next to ourselves, he is the most industrious man we know.

Services will be conducted Sunday, October 13, at 3 p. m. at the Episcopal church in this city, by Rev. Alford Lockwood of Pendleton. This is the first of a series of services to be held the second Sunday of each month at the Episcopal church during the fall and winter.

The public is invited to attend a white shower given for the Red Cross at the Red Cross rooms by the Honor Guard Girls Wednesday evening, October 9. Refreshments will be served and a silver offering taken. A very special invitation to be present is extended to the men.

Greetings!

HOWDY! HOWDY DO! HOW ARE YOU?

We all have been GOING SOME for the past four months and in "High Gear" much of the time.

We have ordered an extra box of STOGIES and wish to come in and have one on us.

HARDWARE GALORE, IMPLEMENTS AND WAGONS ALWAYS,
LUMBER BY THE THOUSANDS, and
Goodyear Tires

SMOKE THIS FACT AND FIND AN EQUAL:

A Hudson Super Six received late last November, equipped with Goodyear fabric all-weather tread tires, carrying a load that required reinforcement of springs to hold, goes over the Rocky Mountains, arrived at distant end (Detroit, Mich.) of journey with speedometer reading 4635 miles and CONTAINING THE SAME AIR STARTED ON.

Again, today the speedometer reads 9013 miles—having crossed the Rocky mountains a second time—and all four tires are still holding good. On return part of trip there was some inner tube trouble but not one minute delay because of outer casing failure.
