FOR THE LEGISLATURE

The Leader is inclined to favor the election of Lou Hodgen and E. P. Dodd to the Legislature—and this entirely without disparagement of their respective running mates, of whom it hears excellent report. Mr. Hodgen has a record of good service to recommend him, and his personal character and qualifications are beyond criticism. With his re-election the East End will be directly represented. Mr. Dodd is fully representative of the growing irrigation districts of the West End and their logical candidate, as he is president of the irrigation league organized by the respective towns in that country. The central part of the county will have Roy Rittner in the upper house—and perhaps Norborne Berkeley, who is a popular, well informed and able Democrat, a pioneer resident of Eastern Oregon, and may possibly beat Eberhard for the joint senatorship of the Nineteenth district. In these circumstances it is our view that Ella Terpening, although described as a woman of unusual ability, is rather handicapped by her place of residence. So also is Brownell of Umatilla, although for different reasons. He lives in the extreme west end, and unlike Dodd, in a sparsely settled locality. In Dodd, Berkeley and Rittner—Rittner is unopposed—what we may describe as the geographical amenities will be well preserved and the county will be assured of an able and hard-working delegation.

MAC, YOU'RE RIGHT

In optimistic mood after somehow managing to collect enough simoleons to pay the printer, Bro. MacLeod of Up-to-The-Times Magazine cheerfully spills the following:

Stick around and live until "after the war;" it is going to be worth it. You are going to see all kinds of good times throughout this inter-mountain country "after the war." You will see town and country real estate come back; you will see much building and industrial activity; you will see an improved order of farming and livestock raising; and best of all, you will see a program of good road building started and maintained that will be the real thing. Don't neglect and grow careless of your mental and physical possibilities; stick around and keep as busy on the job as you know how; keep every vestige of hookworm out of your system. After the war—and for some years after the war—there will be much doing in this interior northwestern country and the opportunities for half-way up-and-doing and wide-awake folk are going to be many.

At one time Colonel Roosevelt admired Taft as little as he now admires Wilson—which is rather better evidence than not that both men are really admirable.

A record of long and faithful service is never a handicap to an employe of a successful business enterprise. Corporations and captains of industry never dismiss a member of their working forces simply for the purpose of "making a change." Nor do we think Umatilla county will dismiss Sheriff Taylor on such a flimsy pretext. Brave, active and resourceful, he has a record as a culprit-taker second to that of no other sheriff in the state, and the clerical affairs of his office have also been well administered. To replace this tried and true officer with another man for the alleged reason that he "has held office long enough," would be in the nature of a foolish and shortsighted experiment.

We fear the President has only succeeded in peeving the g. o. p. without making many votes for Democratic congressional candidates.

As the Democrats cannot win much of anything without the aid of Republicans, our view is that it is better to try and catch them with molasses rather than with vinegar.

Since the Kaiser "will not desert his poor people," it's about up to them to desert the Kaiser.

A genuine critic has his uses, but Roosevelt qualifies principally as a scold.

After all, we may just as well expect corned beef without cabbage as a campaign without partizanship.

We look for a pronounced improvement in this week's Athena Press, as Kernel Boyd has been absent on a hunting trip.

Whether or not he has sprung a political faux pas, Woodrow Wilson is destined to live in history as a great war president and a world statesman.

Literally by the million, the Russian people are facing death this winter from freezing, famine and pestilence. The Prussian war-makers indeed have much to answer for.

Any excuse that may remain for Kaiser Bill's existence is rapidly evaporating.

Mitteleuropa has lost its middle and is throwing a fit at both ends.

The war having been won—which is all that matters now—the Leader is willing to admit that the clumsy old elephant worked pretty well in double harness with the nimble jackass.

Von Ludendorf has resigned, but without resignation.

"The return of a Republican majority to either house of the Congress would, moreover, be interpreted on the other side as a repudiation of my leadership."—President Wilson.

"If President Wilson were my bitterest enemy I would beg the America voters to support him at this critical moment."—Ambassador Gerard.

The Versailles war council adopted Wilson's fourteen peace principles, but may not have heard from Colonel Roosevelt and certain obstreperous Republican senators.

The pronounced distaste toward each other of Austria and Hungary is wholly explicable.

Our idea of the uttermost limit is a Bolshevik Hun.

We rather think that Weston will give a substantial majority to the normal school bill, but with no hope or expectation that the Eastern Oregon Normal will be restored to this community. Although a state plant is already here to house the school, the cards are stacked against us.

We will venture to suggest to Hindy that white would be a most advantageous color just now for his regimental flags.

The route of the Austrian army is largely determined by—err, err; forgive us, please—the rout of the Austrian army.

The news that the Turkish and Austrian armies are surrendering, it seems to us, is worth a paragraph.

We are still vainly waiting and hoping for news of a violent death in the Hohenzollern family.

BREVITIES

Expert dentistry—prices reasonable. Dr. Sponogle, Athena.

If you would see ten tire bargains, go to Watts & Rogers.

C. P. Strain, county assessor, was in town Tuesday from Pendleton.

The City library will be closed until the influenza epidemic subsides.

Mrs. W. H. Beathe is reported to be much improved, after quite a serious illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Warren left this week for Pendleton, where Harry will engage in garage work.

Mrs. Fannie McBride left Monday for a visit with her sons on the McBride Bros. farm south of town.

The last piece of barley remaining on the Basket uplands—belonging to Ernest March—was threshed last week.

We have ten new tires of standard makes, all guaranteed, we will sell for cash at one-quarter off—25 percent discount. Come early. Watts & Rogers.

Glenn, the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Staggs, is ill at their home on Washington street. For a time his fever was as high as 105, but he is now improving.

The T. J. McCarty's are moving soon to Burbank for the winter. Mr. McCarty having secured a contract there for clearing sagebrush land. He lately invested in a Buick car.

The first snow of the season fell last week in the Blues and covered the summit with the customary "mantle of white." A slight precipitation took place at Blue Mountain sawmill.

Mrs. Marty Luckenbill, who is among the influenza patients in the J. S. Harris household, is reported today to be in an alarming condition. Mr. Luckenbill's mother succeeded yesterday in getting a nurse for her from Walla Walla.

For some reason "cats" are out of favor this season in seeding operations. It is reported that a number of large Athena farmers have discarded these machines and gone back to the good old reliable horse and mule power while seeding.

Mrs. Sidney Tucker arrived Sunday from Amethyst, Alberta, for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gould. Mr. Tucker followed later, having been held up at the border to comply with a formality with regard to his passport. The visitors say that all passengers on Canadian trains now wear masks as a protection against influenza.

It is reported that the Winder potato crop on the Reed and Hawley uplands was dug last week by neighbors, who volunteered in force for this kindly service. Two machines dug the spuds, it is said, and 15 men picked them up—the job being finished in short order. Mr. Winder and six others in his household have been sick with Spanish influenza.

The Chautauqua program announced for November 9-14 at Weston has been postponed, in common with other sessions throughout this section, because of the "flu" epidemic. The Ellison-White people say in a letter to the Leader that this is the first time in ten years they have been compelled to change the schedule of their attractions for any reason. An entirely new supply of publicity matter will have to be gotten out when the new dates are decided upon.

J. M. Banister, mayor of Weston, has been letting his administrative duties take care of themselves the past week or so while out seeding on the Banister farm. To hear Mayor John tell it, he never enjoys himself so much as while gazing at the rear elevation of an eight-mule team and blithely putting in the crop while following them around the field. Even making speeches at the pioneers' reunion is a joyless experience in comparison—and we all know that the mayor loves to make a speech.

Joe Henderson came home Saturday from Erie, Pennsylvania, to visit his mother, who is seriously ill at her home in the uplands. Joe has been employed in the clerical department of a big turbine factory at Erie. With 100,000 people, that bustling city contains no less than 400 manufacturing enterprises, and many of the workers get big pay. Wages of $115 per week are not unusual, and one skilled worker drew down $134 in a week of active industry. Girls are making from $6 to $8 daily, and never before have the working classes fared so well.
