The Farmers Bank of Weston
Established 1891

Although the war may be practically over insofar as hard fighting and heavy sacrifice of life are concerned, still the need of funds is great; and the banks have already been asked to subscribe heavily to Treasury Certificates in anticipation of the next liberty loan. It will therefore be necessary for all to conserve their credit, and prepare for the next loan.

"We don't want to miss a copy," writes Will Graham, in remitting for the Leader from Reedsport, Oregon.

I am charging 10 percent interest on all past due accounts. Better pay now and save money. W. L. Robbins.

Lloyd J. Killgore, young Weston sailor, has just completed a course in the government fuel oil school in Philadelphia.

The G. DeGraws and the S. J. Culleys motored to the state line New Year's day to take dinner with Mr. and Mrs. A. Larson.

E. E. Faust and family have moved to town from the uplands, and Mr. Faust enrolled in the force of railroad workers here.

A. W. Lunell has been appointed district agent for Umatilla county of the General Accident Assurance Co. of Perth, Scotland—the largest concern of its kind in the world.

After for all too brief a period bestowing the light of his countenance upon Weston and sundry of its fair inhabitants, Pody Duncan has returned to Vancouver, Wash., where he is employed in a garage.

It is reported that John Hager and Billy Hoch lately trapped a silver fox in the vicinity of Bingham Springs. The silver fox is especially rare as far south as Oregon. Its pelt is quoted high in the fur market.

Orell McPherrin, driver of the Weston-Pendleton auto stage, announces that until further notice the stage will make but one round trip daily as follows: Leave Weston 9:45 a. m. Leave Pendleton 2:30 p. m.

"I see that Lawrence Lieuallen of Adams is advertising for a lost bull," quoth J. P. Lieuallen, well known local cattleman, the other day. "Well, he's welcome to hunt for the critter around my place, but I'd advise him to look for a steer."

F. G. Lucas has received from the Pythian grand chancellor of Oregon a commission as district deputy grand chancellor for Umatilla county. It is the intention of Mr. Lucas to make an official visit to every lodge in the district during his term of office.

Roy Hyatt, who has the doubtful distinction of being the only flu patient—past or present—in the Weston uplands, is reported to be improving. The disease appeared in a number of households in the Basket uplands, where all the patients are reported out of danger.

W. L. Rayborn, Thomas L. McBride and Wm. M. Brown have been summoned from the Weston neighborhood to serve on the jury for the January term of court, which convenes the 13th. Grand jurors from this bailiwick are R. E. English and G. W. Staggs. Mr. English is foreman of the body, which meets January 6.

The following were members of a Weston theater party who motored to Walla Walla Saturday in Mr. Culley's Hudson to see one of the latest farce comedy successes: Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Culley, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Nelson, Mrs. C. H. Smith, Mr. R. G. Saling. In another party were Miss Eunice Wilsey and Miss Lola Key, Messrs. Lewis Van Winkle and Fred Greer.

G. A. R. McGrew is back behind a prescription counter, having gone to Redmond, Oregon, to conduct the Redmond Pharmacy during the illness of its proprietor, which terminated fatally. Mr. McGrew had an arm broken in a recent accident, but is now improving. Among the pleasant features of his stay at Redmond has been a nice chicken dinner on the alfalfa farm of Rev. N. D. Wood.

The cold nights have converted the large reservoir lake on Pine creek two miles above town into a very satisfactory skating pond, and the local Young America have been making full use of it. "Sliding down hill" is also a timely amusement, and several good coasting places are offered in the town limits. The unfortunate operation of the law of gravity against sliding up hill is all that prevents this form of winter sport from becoming popular among the older population.

The Weston schools were scheduled to reopen next Monday after losing the fall's work, but the probability that they will do so is now regarded as exceedingly remote. Even the superintendent of the Weston schools, F. C. Fitzpatrick, is among the latest victims of the flu, and Mrs. Fitzpatrick is also ill. Other patients reported for the week in this neighborhood are Mr. and Mrs. Sam Nelson and child at Weston station, of which Mr. Nelson is agent; Blanche Thorson and three younger children in the Soien Thorson household. It is feared that Mrs. Thorson is also coming down with the contagion.

Mayor John Banister, pioneer farmer, has embarked in the sheep business with a fair measure of success. His blanket sprouts have already begun to increase. The first lamb came December 4 and since then he has had seven, with more to follow, from a band of 15 ewes. To be sure, his sheep holdings are not so extensive as Bob Stanfield's, but John claims the earliest lamb crop on record in this section.

Theodore F. Howard, well known architect of Pendleton—of which city he has been a resident 44 years, was in town Saturday. Mr. Howard was lured to Weston by the report—which he found to be correct—that one can get excellent graham flour and corn meal at the Hodgson mills.

Clarence Wright is visiting here from Alberta. He was preceded to Weston by his family.
