A Spring Coat

AT LESS THAN WHOLESALE PRICE

We are fortunate in having received a shipment of spring coats that have been used for samples by traveling salesmen. We bought these up for far less than their value and now offer them to our customers at less than cost of manufacture--in all about two dozen snappy, pretty models, no two alike--a rare opportunity.

Special Showing of Middies

All white---some trimmed in dainty pink or navy blue---all of excellent material, serviceable, pretty, desirable garments; the accumulation of the past two seasons; many of them worth twice what we ask. But we desire to close them out and have made two lots. All values up to $2.50 will go for $1.19. All that sold formerly for $1.00, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50 will be placed on the table at 89c.

For Her Graduation

The season of the year is gradually drawing near when we are reminded of the Commencement occasion, and the pretty girl and young man graduates come in for the major share of pride and admiration--even temporarily placing the community house in the background. For an appropriate present allow us to suggest:

JEWELRY--FANCY PENCILS, PINS, RINGS, CHAINS, LAVELIERS.

DAINTY IVORY IN BRUSHES, MIRRORS, NOVELTIES, COMBS--HUNDREDS OF TOILET ARTICLES.

The S. Wyatt place on Pine creek above town, about 200 acres, has been sold to a Mr. Cable of Madras, Oregon, who will soon occupy it with his family. The deal was made by A. W. Lundell, local realty operator. Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt and Mr. Drew are said to contemplate moving to Weston to reside.

The visit of F. W. Settlemeir of Woodburn, grand master of the Masonic order, was greatly enjoyed at Weston Tuesday evening by a goodly number of local and visiting brethren. After an instructive address by the grand master on Masonic topics, the members were regaled with an excellent lunch by the ladies of the Eastern Star.

Another Weston soldier, Zeke O'Hara reached home this week, after serving a little more than six months in France with the engineers. Zeke's admiration of the gallant struggle made by France does not include a preference toward that devoted land as a permanent place of abode, and he expresses himself unqualifiedly as glad to get back home.

How a Weston Soldier Died

The manner in which a Weston soldier met death at the fighting front is thus described by Colin V. Dymont in one of his interesting articles in the Morning Oregonian:

"A shell that lit in a shell hole with a trio of men killed three more machine gunners instantly early that morning--Acting Corporal Robert Bracken of Weston, Or.; Private Clarence Chevoys of Fresno, Cal., and Private Freeman E. Rose of Washtucna, Wash. They were in a hole just forward of the crest of 269 instead of behind it, and had chosen that hole because it was deep, although they had previously started to dig one of their own on the reverse slope. Next day the company--A of the 347th machine gun battalion--was to open fire on the approaches to 288. In the morning three warm bodies were found in the shell hole. Chevoys's head was off, Bracken's arms were shattered, Rose was badly cut up."

Captain Fred Lieullen will address the people at the Umatilla county pioneers' reunion in Weston Friday, June 6, and Lieutenant Frederick W. Steiwer will be Saturday's speaker. Says the committee: "These officers did heroic service in France and will relate personal experiences and the experiences of their commands on the firing line. This will be first-hand information and just what we have all wanted. The committee feels very fortunate in securing these speakers and knows that all will enjoy them."

Jess Doss, who lived in Weston when a boy, more than a third of a century ago, came back for a day or two this week to look the old town over and renew acquaintance with the few boyhood friends who yet remain. Mr. Doss has spent most of his life in California since leaving Weston, and has lately been employed in ship building at Yallejo. He is on his way to Twin Falls, Idaho.

O-W. engineers have set the grade stakes for the depot road improvement, and everything is in readiness for grading and graveling. The work will be done by the community of Weston at an estimated cost of around $1000. The railroad company has agreed to contribute $500. Drain pipe has been ordered.

You feel different the minute you take it--a gentle soothing warmth fills the system. It's a pleasure to take Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. Helps purify the blood, drives out the germs of Winter, gets you hustling, bustling, full of life and energy. 35c. H. Goodwin--Adv.

The exercises in commemoration of Decoration Day, May 30, will begin at City park at two o'clock in the afternoon. The program will consist of choruses, songs, music by the Weston Concert Band and an address by Rev. Alfred Lockwood of Pendleton.

The Weston cemeteries will present a very creditable appearance on Decoration Day, May 30, because of the faithful work of the sexton, W. H. Gould. Never, in fact, has the "silent city" on the hill been more beautiful.

Members of Stevens Lodge No. 49, Knights of Pythias, met last evening at Athena with the brethren there. Alva Wurzer was received into the order, prior to going to Alberta.

Scott Banister drove out home last evening in a handsome Willys-Six seven-passenger touring car, bought of the local agent, Dr. Kennard.

You'll be delighted with "All-of-Sudden-Peggy" at Memorial Hall next Tuesday evening.
