WATTS & ROGERS

ATHENA, OREGON

At the Standard Theatre

Following the Columbia, Portland's premier theater, the Standard will show the "big twelve" Paramount-Argo's big super specials for the year. Two of these pictures, "Male and Female" and "The Miracle Man," have been exhibited. These will be followed in series with "On With the Dance," Saturday, May 8, and on each succeeding Saturday evening until the twelve great pictures have been screened. Prices will be the same as charged at the Columbia, 25c for children, 50c for adults.

The series includes "Why Change Your Wife?" "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," "Everywoman," "Huckleberry Finn," "The Copperhead," "Treasure Island," "Sea Wolf," "Toll Gate," "The Silver Herd," etc.

The program heretofore produced on Saturday nights has been transferred to Sunday, and the Sunday night program to Wednesday nights and occasionally a special—not super—will be shown on Thursday nights, all at regular prices of admission. Orchestral music will be furnished by Mr. Eager's orchestra at all super-special shows.

To illustrate that the Standard is in the front row of motion picture theaters, the fact is cited that in Portland last Sunday, pictures were run at the Columbia, the Majestic and the Liberty which will be screened in Athena's little theater within the next four weeks, two of them at regular prices of admission.

Federation President Here

Members and friends of the Saturday Afternoon club assembled in the club room of Memorial hall Tuesday morning to greet Mrs. Ida B. Callahan of Corvallis, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, and the following Pendleton ladies: Mesdames S. P. Sturgis, E. T. Wade, James Johns, and Miss Sabra Nason. A thorough inspection of Memorial hall and its equipment was made by the visiting women, and many flattering and encouraging remarks were heard concerning the first building of its kind in the state. Mrs. Callahan, who is a charming speaker, addressed the ladies upon the work of the federation in its various departments, and gave information concerning the state meeting to be held in Enterprise in June. Mrs. E. T. Wade talked briefly upon the higher educational tax measure that will appear on the ballot in the forthcoming primaries. At 10:30 the meeting was concluded, leaving the Weston women inspired and refreshed by the contact with such prominent leaders in enterprises looking to the betterment of our state and its communities.

It is quite patent to the taxpayer that good roads cost much money—especially under present conditions. But even so, it would be questionable economy to compel the state to abandon its comprehensive road-building program. This it will have to do if the measurer increasing the constitutional limit on state road bond indebtedness from two percent to four percent of the assessed valuation of all property in Oregon, fails to carry at the May 21 election. Unless this amendment is ratified, the existing two percent limitation would hold the bond issue down to $20,000,000, all of which has either been issued or has been contracted for in state highway work to be completed during 1920. If the amendment fails, then the state roads will have to be completed, if at all, by means of direct taxation. If it carries, motorists and gasoline users will pay the entire bill, and the general taxpayer will be out nothing. The annual revenues from the present auto license fees and gasoline tax will amply finance both principal and interest of the entire $40,000,000 in bonds that have been and can be issued under the four percent limitation.
