THE "OLD GUARD'S" VICTORY.

If the republicans win the November election it will not be because of the strength of their position but because of the greater comparative weakness of the democratic position. And if the San Francisco convention affords a more depressing spectaçle than the Chicago convention, it will be because the rival democratic leaders have clubbed out each other's political brains.

We attach little importance to the "third party" movement. Its leaders are by no means political heavyweights and we do not think it will appreciably affect the result, since whatever disgruntled and radical vote it is able to command will be drawn perhaps equally from the ranks of both of the real contenders.

Commenting upon the case, of a speeding Portland motorist whose recklessness cost a human life, the Oregonian says: "It is incomprehensible, as it is true, that motorists find speeding the subject for jest and count it a most felicitous day when they evade arrest, though openly violating the law. To any one of them, these unpunished offenders, may come a breathless, terrible momentsuch as came to the man now serving sentence. And the contrition of a lifetime will not retrieve the error or efface the memory."

Based upon an article in the Boston Transcript, the Literary Digest prints the information that expenditures for wars, past, present and future, absorbed during the year just passed almost 93 percent of the largest income ever received since the government was founded. Accompanying the article are charts to show where the money went. A beggarly one percent was spent for research, education and development. The effect of statistics of this sort is startling, amazing-almost stupifying-on the average intelligence. The figures are incredible, but are set forth with such precision of detail that they must be believed. The cost to the government in 1920 for
