

July Money Savers

Buying when values offer big savings over regular prices is true Thrift. Just like getting big interest on your money.

MANY OUTSTANDING VALUES await the July Shopper at Davis-Kaser's. Some of these goods were bought many months ago and hence are priced far below present values. Some are extra values that we have been able to pick up here and there; while yet others are goods from stock on which we have made special price reductions in order that July buyers might find more than the usual inducement and attraction.

FOR THE THRIFTY CANNERS OF FRUITS we have dozens of articles that will add materially to your savings during the canning season if purchased now. Canning supplies of all kinds are priced very low for July selling.

Every Department in our Large Store has values to offer in everyday necessities that will make it profitable buying for the Thrift-wise who make the most of the opportunity afforded by

G. W. Staggs returned Saturday from a visit to the holdings of the Staggs company in the Rattlesnake Flat district, where he says the crop prospects continue good. A recent letter from Herman Staggs says that a good rain fell one night this week.

Until August 1 I am paying $10 for old iron. J. R. Reynolds.

Rollie Compton left last week for southern Idaho to look after his land interests.

Col. F. G. Lucas left this week for Edmonton to make the final examination of 190,000 acres of Alberta land. He was accompanied by a party of prospective buyers from New York and Chicago. One of them is Charles McCarthy, a New York millionaire.

Andy Barnett contributes to the local stock of porcupine anecdotes the tale (not the tail) of one of these animated pin-cushions that invaded his kitchen Sunday night. The little beast was left to work his will, Mrs. Andy insisting that she did not want the job of pulling quills out of her husband's hands. The visitor walked around on the kitchen table, messed up things in general and ruined a lot of butter.

Henry Beamer has rented the valuable quarter section of his father, John Beamer, near Weston for a term of four years, and has bought his father's stock and outfit. The transaction is reported to have been based upon two-fifths grain rent. John Beamer will retire, after successful farming operations extending over a period of 30 years or more.

Mrs. G. H. Fontaine left Saturday on her return home to Great Falls, Montana.

A local Wild West show was pulled off Sunday in the Lumsden alfalfa patch below town. A wiry little outlaw from Thorn Hollow twice tossed Jimmie Storms, but Gus Johnson succeeded in riding him. Next Sunday there will be another and more elaborate show, with an ambulance detachment and a corps of Red Cross nurses in attendance, so 'tis said.

A horse belonging to Frank Haviland was shot through the shoulder the other day while in pasture on Weston mountain. The shot is ascribed to careless hunters.

Mr. and Mrs. William Singer came up this week from their place near Touchet after farm stock for harvest. Mr. Singer figures on a $5000 crop of wheat from his holdings in that neighborhood.

R. R. Proebstel came up this week from his ranch near Echo, and will again work for the Pacific Coast Elevator Co., having charge of the Cayuse warehouse. Mrs. Proebstel is sojourning at Hiaway springs.

Will NorDean leaves today to take charge of the Portland office of P. F. Collier & Co., having been promoted to that responsible position because of his success in field work for these well known publishers. As Portland sales manager he will have charge of all the Collier agents in Oregon and Idaho. Mrs. NorDean and little Lois will remain in Weston a couple of weeks, until he secures a residence for them.

The Warren Construction Co. has been notified by the City of Weston to repair the hole in Main street bridge made last week by one of its trucks. Overloading and reckless driving are charged.
