The Farmers Bank of Weston has received a new supply of Liberty Bell savings banks and has arranged a display window which proves exceedingly attractive to local Young America.

L. Halseth of the Weston Mercantile Co. was absent a few days this week on a business visit to Yakima, Wash.

The City of Weston has closed a lease with the heirs of the Lewis McMorris estate for part of the Pine creek dam site occupied by the city when the dam was built.

Nelson H. Jones was a recent visitor in Portland, where he bought an attractive line of holiday goods for the Jones & Jones emporium. The enterprising journalist who conducts the "Those Who Come and Go" column for The Oregonian ran across him and had this to say: "Nelson Jones, mayor of Weston, says that although collections are slow in his county, every one is prosperous and the farmers are satisfied with the past year. Mr. Jones is the proprietor of the largest hardware and farm equipment store in Eastern Oregon. It occupies a full city block and is new and up-to-date. 'Mr. Jones is at the Multnomah."

While on a recent trip to town, J. E. McDaniel left a mountain turnip weighing 10 1/2 pounds on the counter at the Farmers bank.

Weston has acquired a new citizen in N. B. Foster, well known as a mountain and reservation farmer. Mr. Foster is occupying the Shaw cottage which he purchased on Pomeroy street.

John Davis has been called home from Camas, Wash., by his mother's illness.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Harl Williams, Miss Ruby Price and Lyle Webb motored to Walla Walla Wednesday evening to see Henry B. Walthall and company in Ibsen's "Ghosts."

Sunday, November 28, the wedding of Miss Sylvia C. Banister and Mr. John E. Stacklie was solemnized at the home of D. B. Banister in Athena. To sweet strains of music the couple took their place beneath a large white wedding bell, where the impressive ring ceremony was read by Rev. W. S. Payne. They were attended by Grace Haynie and Harry Keller. Mr. and Mrs. Stacklie left Monday for Marshfield, where they will make their home.

While Frank Williams was engaged in leading some horses near town the other day, the bunch came into collision with an automobile. Frank was knocked unconscious and was carried in that condition to Dr. McKinney's office. He soon revived, and it was found that he suffered principally from shock.

A shipment of books for the Weston school library was received this week from the county superintendent's office.

Jack Githens, well known at Weston, was in town the first of the week from Milton, where he now conducts the business of the Reliable Motor Repair company. He is installing a modern machine shop.

Three convivial Weston young men looked upon the moonshine when it was presumably pale yellow, Saturday night, and gave such visible evidence of its potency that they ran afoul of the chief of police. As a result, each was booked to pay a fine of $5.00 in the recorder's court.

F. J. Greer has taken a position as salesman in the Jones & Jones hardware establishment.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Adkins entertained their children and grandchildren on Thanksgiving day, the fortieth anniversary of their wedding. All of the family were present with the exception of one son, Allen Adkins of Kansas City, Missouri. Gathered around the Thanksgiving board were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Adkins, Marvin Adkins and family and John McGibbon and family of Weston; Mrs. Tena Adkins, a daughter-in-law, of Latour, Mo.; and a niece, Mrs. Archie Lyles, and family of Emmett, Idaho.

Mrs. Sarah Rowland was hostess to the Saturday Afternoon club November 27 at the social room in Memorial hall. Decorations in pink and white, the club colors, gave the room an attractive appearance. The business session was followed by program numbers including a paper on Sir Walter Scott by Mrs. Fisk, and a discussion of Scott's life by Mrs. Phinney. Roll call was answered by quotations from Scott's ballads. During the social hour a light lunch was served by Mesdames W. S. Price and H. Goodwin. Mrs. Emory Staggs was welcomed as a new member at this gathering. Mrs. W. S. Payne will entertain the club at her home the afternoon of December 11.

Ferguson Bros. were among the busiest of the mountain potato men last week. They dug and hauled potatoes in all kinds of weather, and delivered 500 sacks to The Peoples Warehouse at Pendleton during the week. The spuds were hauled with Service trucks, which proved entirely equal to the task, although sometimes running axle deep in mud. The Fergusons had an average yield of more than 120 sacks of potatoes to the acre from 15 acres.

Stanley Fisk, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Fisk, has been quite ill the past week, but is now improving.
