

BREVITIES

Cash for chickens. J. R. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Staggs and little daughter of Ferndale were Sunday guests of the J. M. Ashworths. Miss Jessie Davis, accompanied by Miss Mary Yox, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Davis on north Water street.

Special services are announced for each evening of next week at the U. B. Church, beginning Sunday evening. Preaching by the pastor.

Milk customers wanted. Jersey cow. Harry Beathe.

A most interesting feature of the conference at the M. E. Church, South, was the able sermon Wednesday evening by Bishop Du Bose. A special song service was enjoyed.

"The Soul of Youth" is the title of a splendid seven-reel super special to be screened at Memorial hall next Tuesday evening, Feb. 22, for the benefit of the Weston schools. Judge Lindsey and his juvenile court are featured. "Captain Kidd and His Kids" is the comedy offering.

The Bachelor Girls met with Miss Vira Morrison Wednesday evening and were very pleasantly entertained. Superstition was braved by a guest list of thirteen. Cards, music and fancy work were the diversions of the evening, and a two-course luncheon was served.

See me for pure-bred Holstein, Jersey, Poll Angus, Durham and Guernsey calves. C. E. Hall.

One of the most pleasant social events of last week was the dinner given Saturday evening at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert O'Harra in honor of the birthday anniversaries of Mrs. M. W. Pedersen, Mrs. Albert O'Harra and Mrs. P. C. McCauslin. A period of lively conversation and congratulations was followed by the presentation to the honor guests of gifts in variety and profusion. The guests were then seated at tables made attractive with spring flowers, candles and heart-shaped place cards, and partook of a delicious four-course dinner. A charming feature of the feast was the tiny individual birthday cakes, topped with candles, placed at each cover. Those bidden to share in the hospitality extended were: Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Pedersen, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. McCauslin, Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Osborne, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Winn, Mr. and Mrs. Newton O'Harra, Mr. and Mrs. Albert O'Harra, and George Ott.

Lost—On south Water street, a jeweled comb. Kindly return to Mrs. J. E. Stanfield.

A most delightful social evening was given Monday by Stephanie Temple, Pythian Sisters, at its castle hall. An elaborate banquet was followed by diverting pastimes.

Iven O'Harra has been kept at home part of the week by illness.

Athena-Weston Post, American Legion, is sending out invitations for a dance at Weston, tomorrow evening.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Proebstel, Jr., were up from the Thompson ranch near Pendleton Monday evening and attended the social of the Pythian Sisters.

Miss Wilma Harbour, who is attending the Cheney, Wash., Normal, is much pleased with her work and surroundings there and is entering into the spirit of school activities. A recent number of the school paper contained a clever little poem by Miss Harbour in praise of the basket ball team.

George Ott was host Saturday evening for one of the jolly card and dancing parties in which Pea Ridge residents take keen delight. Time passed swiftly and merrily until midnight, when a delicious lunch was served. The guest list included: Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Gafford Osborne, Mr. and Mrs. Newton O'Harra, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lumsden, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. McCauslin, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Lundell, Mr. and Mrs. Albert O'Harra, Mr. and Mrs. Tim McBride, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon O'Harra, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Pedersen, Misses Ruby Price, Vira Morrison, Wavel O'Harra, Messrs. Lyle Webb, George Blomgren and Herman O'Harra.

J. C. Dearth, late of Pendleton and formerly from the east, arrived this week preparatory to taking a position with the Weston Mercantile Company the first of March. Mr. Dearth is accompanied by his wife and infant daughter and they have secured apartments at the E. W. Achilles residence. He is a salesman of ability and experience in all departments of general merchandizing, and specializes in window dressing and card writing. Mr. Dearth prefers to locate in a small town, and has found Weston and its leading store very much to his liking.

Mrs. Hattie Wilsey motored to Walla Walla Tuesday evening to attend the concert given by Anna Case, famous grand opera star.

Wednesday afternoon the local library circulated 100 books among its patrons.

Novel Club Party at the Fisk Home.

Mrs. C. E. Fisk dispensed delightful hospitality Monday evening when she entertained at her spacious suburban home the Saturday Afternoon club members and their husbands. The house was elaborately decorated with evergreen ropes, hearts, cupid, arrows and other emblems of the Valentine season. Following a series of novel contests, a Husbands' Exhibit was staged, men of the party constituting the entries. A committee of judges after careful deliberation awarded prizes as follows:

Character, Richard Morrison.
Most Fine Points, Ellsworth L. Woods.

Best All Around Husband, John F. McNee.

Most Elevated, C. E. Fisk.

Disposition, Claud Price.

Most Becoming Haberdashery, Iley Winn.

Good Looks, Rev. Mark A. Phinney.

Most Entertaining Husband, J. A. Lumsden.

A moving picture scenario was then filmed, embodying the following scenes and characters:

Jack Spratt, M. W. Pedersen.

Mrs. Jack Spratt, Mrs. Iley Winn.

Portia, Mrs. M. A. Phinney.

Shylock, Ellsworth Woods.

Desdemona, Mrs. C. E. Fisk.

Othello, John F. McNee.

Romeo, C. E. Fisk.

Juliet, Mrs. M. W. Pedersen.

A "Vamp" scene: Theda Bara, Mrs. Ellsworth Woods; Her Victim, Emory Staggs.

Antony, Rev. Mark A. Phinney.

Cleopatra, Mrs. J. A. Lumsden.

Popular vote awarded the prize to the last named act.

At midnight a delicious three-course supper was served, guests being seated at tables carrying out the valentine motif in all appointments.

Compliments are being showered upon the committee in charge of the affair, which consisted of Mesdames Ellsworth Woods, J. A. Lumsden, Iley Winn, Emory Staggs, Leon Lundell and M. W. Pedersen.

The Mystery As Yet Unsolved.

Mrs. Mabel Carmichael continues to improve under treatment at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Kennard, and is expected will in due time recover from the effects of the exposure resulting from her singular experience on Dry creek. Mrs. Carmichael is still unable to shed any definite light upon the manner in which she reached Dry creek, although she has a faint impression that she was brought by two men in a car and put out somewhere "in the dark," afterward finding herself in flood water. She left Seattle Monday of last week, while suffering a raging headache. The train was crowded, and she was unable to get a berth. She sat up in the chair car, and after passing North Yakima partially lost consciousness. She has a hazy recollection of alighting at the station in Walla Walla, but subsequent events, until she encountered the cold waters of Dry creek, are almost a complete blank to her.

Louis Dowd Married.

Louis H. Dowd, formerly a leading farmer of Weston mountain and now of Washouga, Washington, was recently united in marriage to Mrs. Jessie M. Wood of Whitehall, Wisconsin. Mrs. Wood is a sister of the late Mrs. Dowd.

Mrs. I. E. Saling is reported to be seriously ill at her home on north Water street.

WORK ON OREGON TRAIL IS NEARING COMPLETION

Unfinished Macadam Base Totals Less Than Forty Miles, States Alexander the Booster For Good Roads.

With stretches totaling under 40 miles yet unfinished, the road work on the old Oregon Trail from Umatilla to Huntington, will be completed by August the first, is the statement made by A. F. Alexander of Up-to-the-Times Magazine and well known exponent of good roads building.

Mr. Alexander, who was in town yesterday, said that Wilson & Co. has a force of fifteen men at work on the Cabbage Hill-Kamela division at present. A 24 foot macadam base is being laid, of which the company has five miles completed and eight miles yet to finish, which will complete their present contract, and which will give a finished road from Pendleton through the mountains to Kamela. On the other side of the divide, there yet remain nine miles of unfinished roadway between Kamela and La Grande.

Further on east, there are small stretches of unfinished road between Haines and Baker and between Baker and Huntington. Including the Weston-Milton gap and a short stretch near Arlington, Mr. Alexander places the estimate at less than 40 miles of road yet to be finished in the present schedule of construction pertaining to the old Oregon Trail and under supervision of the state commission, exclusive of the hardsurfacing.

Mr. Alexander is familiar with the entire system of road development in Eastern Oregon and Southeastern Washington, and was one of the first, supported by his Up-to-the-Times Magazine, to go before the commission and advocate the selection of the Oregon Trail for permanent improvement.

BOARD OF REVIEW PASSES ON BEST PICTURES OF THE YEAR

The National Board of Review has given out its report, in which it gives the forty best motion pictures produced for the year 1920. Of the 40 best pictures as selected by the Board the little Standard theatre has screened 14, as will be found in the list following. Two others, "The Devil's Pass Key," and "The Mark of Zorro" are scheduled for February 27 and March 6th, respectively, and others are booked.

"Each picture, in a way peculiar to itself, tells an effective story," says the Board of Review. There has been no attempt in the listing to analyze the unusual qualities or defects of these photoplays. The following list is arranged chronologically and not in the order of importance:

Mark of Zorro—Devil's Garden—Last of the Mohicans—Sin That Was His—Girl of My Heart—Way Down East—Godless Men—Leopard Woman—Over the Hill—Passion—Deep Waters—Homespun Folks—Earthbound—If I Were King—Jack Knife Man—Something to Think About—Conrad in Quest of His Youth—The Great Redeemer—The Soul of Youth—Dwelling Place of Light—Jes' Call Me Jim—Crooked Streets—Invisible Divorce—Humoresque—Fighting Chance—Devils Pass Key—In the Days of St. Patrick—Bottom of the World—Desert Love—Toll Gate—Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde—Down on the Farm—Shore Acres—Treasure Island—My Lady's Garter—Copperhead—Stronger Than Death—Cup of Fury—Bloomin' Angel—Huckleberry Finn.
