Miss Vida Staggs, stenographer in the law offices of Peterson, Bishop & Clark, was here from Pendleton this week for a vacation visit.

Master Alvin Phipps, a Pendleton schoolboy, was in the city Sunday, visiting at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Will Payne.

L. H. Curtis went to Walla Walla Tuesday to attend the funeral of his friend, the late Private Dan Levens, who was wounded in battle overseas and died in hospital. Private Levens was an Oregon boy and enlisted at Pendleton. His remains, together with those of a number of other soldiers, recently reached Portland, after shipment from foreign soil.

Millard F. White, a well known Pendleton architect and builder, was in town for a short time Tuesday, looking Weston over for old land marks. He went to school here as early as 1877. Mr. White is now engaged in selling building material.

Mrs. Ida Coffin arrived the first of the week from Lebanon, Oregon, to visit and attend her mother, Mrs. I. E. Saling, whose serious illness continues.

Sam Banister, former Weston farmer, was here on business during the week from Enterprise, Walla Walla county. Monday he accompanied Mr. and Mrs. John Banister on a motoring trip to Walla Walla.

Roy Key and Miss Geneva Lieualen, Weston young people, were united in marriage Monday at Walla Walla. They have gone to house-keeping on the J. H. Key farm northwest of Weston.

C. F. Bulfinch returned Monday from the Mayo Bros. hospital at Rochester, Minn., where it was decided not to operate. He was found to have an ulcer of the duodenum, the throat trouble from which he has suffered being an effect of this condition. A course of dieting was prescribed. Mr. Bulfinch was more fortunate than many other patients, having been accorded the privilege of seeing one of the Drs. Mayo personally.

The Weston lodge of Odd Fellows was well represented at the big district convention held Saturday in Heppner. Among those who motored down to attend the affair were S. A. Barnes, Leon Lundell, Luther Shellenberger, Linus Anderson, Jess and Frank Powis, Ruford Price, J. A. King, J. E. Stanfield, W. A. Barnes and Eldon King.

The Ed Tuckers were up from Holdman Saturday to spend the week end with the W. H. Gould and Sidney Tucker families.

Main street, which was covered with mud from the wheat fields during the rainy season, is now in a presentable condition. The mud was scraped off Wednesday by a large force of workers under the direction of Superintendent Avery, and dumped into the library lot.

R. H. King came to town yesterday in a somewhat crippled condition, a horse he was riding while engaged in farm pursuits having been inconsiderate enough to fall on him. He feels fortunate, however, in being able to discard his crutches.

Weston reported over the top on schedule time in raising its quota of $500 for Chinese and Armenian relief. Weston and Helix were the first towns in the county to report, others being behind with their quotas. Frank Price and J. A. Lumsden, who had charge of the local campaign for funds, did yeoman work in this community, and few indeed escaped their friendly yet persistent clutches. That Weston took first honors in this great and worthy relief movement is due largely to their efforts. They were assisted by J. H. Price and S. A. Barnes.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Miller of Medicine Hat, Alberta—who were married February 21 in Calgary—are visiting Mr. Miller's sister, Mrs. R. E. English.

Mrs. Christina Beeler has been a sufferer during the past two weeks from a very painful attack of blood poisoning in the left arm, resulting from an unknown cause. Mrs. Beeler is now at the home of her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Juday, in Ione, Morrow county.

Mrs. Edith G. VanDeusen, home demonstration agent of Pendleton, addressed a representative body of Weston women at Memorial hall last Saturday afternoon. Plans covering various phases of community work were thoroughly discussed. Rev. Mark A. Phipps was chosen as project leader for the child's welfare conference to be held March 3 and 4 for the purpose of weighing, measuring and examining children. Mrs. Newton O'Hara will act as leader for the millinery school to be held March 24 and 25.
