Protect your wife and family in The Bankers Reserve Life Insurance Co. Geo. House, Weston, Ore.

Special services will begin next Monday evening at seven-thirty o'clock at the Baptist church in Weston, under the direction of the pastor, Rev. W. R. Storms. Mr. Storms will be assisted by Rev. and Mrs. R. H. L. Hoslam, who are "real evangelistic gospel singers." They have been with Mr. Storms at Lone, Oregon, where special meetings have resulted in 40 conversions and will close Sunday evening.

Investment in well-bred calves is a wise insurance policy which increases in value daily, matures early and yields a handsome income when matured. Note my display ad, Chas. E. Hall.

Mrs. Walter Webb was a visitor in Pendleton Saturday.

Harrison Case, well known pioneer and civil war veteran, was able to amble down town Tuesday for the first time in several months.

George House of Weston wrote more insurance during February for the Bankers' Reserve Life Co. of Omaha, Nebraska, than any other of the company's agents in the United States. The company gets out an Agency Bulletin in which is published a star list of the ten leading salesmen for any given month. Mr. House heads the list for February, during which month he wrote $61,000. The Bulletin pays him a neat compliment, and says: "A little bird tells us he's aiming to retain first position throughout the year."

Kellogg eye-bearing strawberry plants at $1.50 per hundred. C. W. DeGraw.

Early and late seed potatoes for sale. J. R. Reynolds.

William R. Beaton has announced a picture show to be given in the near future at Memorial hall, at which a new Ford touring car will be given away. Numbered tickets are being sold at 50 cents each, and will be good for a chance at the prize. Continuous afternoon and evening shows are planned. Part of the proceeds will go to Memorial hall.

Final settlement was made Saturday in the probate court of the estate of the late Jesse Reeves of Weston. The administratrix, Mrs. Mary E. Reeves, was discharged.

Charles Price has again shown his interest in the birds. Last week he noticed a strange brown bird with long tail and white barred wings, flitting about his yard. He reported his discovery to Mrs. Mary C. McNee, local observer for the U. S. Biological Survey, who in turn wrote the description to Mr. William Finley, former state game commissioner. Mr. Finley classifies the bird as the Townsend Solitaire, a thrush, very rare in North America and especially so in this section of the United States.

Joe Lewis, former Westontite and later an extensive Helix farmer, was over from Walla Walla Monday.

To the ladies of Weston and vicinity: While shopping in Walla Walla leave your hemstitching with Mrs. Mansfield at Hanger & Thompson's. All mail orders given prompt attention.

Action on the petition of twenty-one property owners for the paving of Water street was postponed by the city council until next Monday evening, in order that plans may meanwhile be matured for financing the city's share of the work. The cost to the city of paving the street intersections on Main and Water street is estimated at $3000. One plan under consideration proposes a bond issue to take care of the work not only on Main and Water streets, but for the improvement of the intersections on other streets which property owners want macadamized because of the bad condition they were in during the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lumden and their family of six children arrived in Weston Wednesday from Stony Point, North Carolina, to make their home in this section. As the Weston district has gained a number of good citizens from the commonwealth made famous by what its governor once said to the governor of South Carolina, the new arrivals are being cordially welcomed. Mr. Lumden is a brother of our fellow townsman, J. A. and John.

Eugene Foster, the six-year-old son of N. B. Foster, was brought over from Milton Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Miller, with whom he makes his home, for a visit with his father. This week his father is returning the visit. Eugene has displayed remarkable talent and aptitude as a child violinist, and played well in recital Tuesday evening of this. They will reside during the summer week at Columbia college. Before long he will be taken by Mr. and Mrs. Miller on an extended trip to tain.
