PRAYER OF THE POOR.

There is a cry upon the ear. A cry of want and woe; A cry from our miles vast From hamlets lone and low; Where fields our commerce laden waves, Where fields of verdure spread, Above the still unaltered prayer— Give us our daily bread.

The voice of woe is in the air, Of childhood early stricken, Of famine, rained bones and bones, Which time can never repair; Of age, upon whose downward way, No genial lights are shed; All are blended in the prayer— Give us our daily bread.

Oh! fair and fresh the early Spring Her budding earth displays, To all the wide earth promising, The joys of harvest days; Yet many a waste of wavy gold Hath bent above the dead; Then let the living share the joy— Give us our daily bread.

THE LITTLE PEOPLE.

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER.

A dreary place would be this earth, Were there no little people in it; The song of life would lose its truth, Were there no children to begin it;

No little forms like birds to grow, And make the admiring heart surrender; No little hands, on breezes blown, To keep the thrilling love cords tender.

The sterner soul would grow more stern, Unfeeling nature would be more inhuman; And man to soul outdone in form, And woman would be less than woman.

Life's song indeed would lose its charm, Were there no babies to be born; A doleful place this world would be, Were there no little people in it.

Queen Victoria as a Spiritualist.

[From the Golden Age.]

A great deal has been said about Queen Victoria's indisposition, which assumes one form and now another, ranging all the way from an ordinary sore throat to insanity.

But the truth is that, aside from the ordinary ills that common flesh is heir to, and of which she has her share, she is a Spiritualist; and the eminent, respectable and thoroughly stupid English public contemplates such a belief with repugnance bordering on dismay.

The thing seems to those materialistic, matter-of-fact people so utterly incredible, that the only way they can account for it is by supposing that her mind is laboring under a hallucination, if, indeed, it is not permanently disordered.

She has a firm conviction that Prince Albert is always present with her, and that she can hold communion with him. Her private rooms are arranged as they were when he was alive. His chair is placed opposite to her own in the library, and the books which he delighted to read to her are arranged lovingly, in order, upon the table.

In some of her moods she will converse with him for an hour together, conducting her own share of the conversation aloud, and with the vigor and interest of old times. He had taught her by his example the success of his business enterprises—especially by his management of the duty of Cornwall—to superintend, as much as possible, all her private affairs herself; to reduce all unnecessary expenditures, and to forbid extravagance.

Hence the greatest simplicity is observed at the Queen's table, and she imagines that her husband looks on well pleased. At times, when she is more than ordinarily impressed with a sense of his presence, it is said she will order a knife and fork to be placed on the dinner table for him, and cause the attendants to place every course before the empty chair as if the master still occupied it.

Every morning a pair of boots are cleaned and set down against the door of the chamber which he once occupied; and at breakfast, when in Scotland, she will often sit a long time in silence, waiting for the Prince.

A BANKRUPT STATE.—A special dispatch to the Charleston News, from Columbia, says: The State is perfectly bankrupt, and a draft of one dollar on the State Treasury to-day was dishonored. Judges, school teachers, and other State appointees, are clamoring for payment, and selling their warrants at ten and fifteen per cent. discount. The worst feature of the situation is the absence of financial officers of the State, and the studious suppression of facts by those who remain. The largest tax-payers and the leading bankers of this city are wholly ignorant of the State finances, and the securities of the State are offered at ridiculously low figures, and no takers. The interest of the State bonds, due on the first of October, has not yet been paid, and the bankers of this city, at their last meeting, agreed to have no further dealings in the State securities.

ALEXIS AT THE "HUB."—Our readers may translate the following. It is good sentiment. Alexis was so overcome at the Boston committee's invitation that he replied in his native Russian as follows: "Ort toldst ush, yuken sornai legor, butt telli ush bioski lifur Boston. Gityur ro manviski lifur otcetti bomerz redi, anian otcetkayevnait downonyu lykca neksemno onat allakand."

A pious Louisville editor trusts that when H. G., in a recent agricultural address, alluded to the Almighty as "the author of all things," he did not mean to "involve his Maker in any responsibility for the book about farming."

The Farm and Kitchen.

HOW MUCH MAY A HORSE EAT.

An acre of ground retained expressly for hay yields on average not more than one and a half tons of vegetable food; an equal space planted with carrots or rutabagas will yield from ten to twenty tons—save fifteen tons—which is by no means a high average, and has often been attained without any extraordinary attention. It has been ascertained by careful experiment that three working horses, fifteen and half hands high, consume hay at the rate of 200 pounds a week, or five tons and 1,040 pounds per annum; beside one and a half bushels of oats per week, 78 bushels per annum. By a repetition of the same experiment it is found that unworked horses consume hay at the rate of four and a quarter tons per annum. The produce, therefore, of nearly six acres of land is necessary to support a working horse for one year; but half an acre of carrots, 600 bushels per acre, with the addition of chopped straw, while the season of feeding them lasts, will do as well if not better. These things do not admit of doubt, for they have been the subjects of exact trials, as some of your agricultural friends will testify. It has also been proved that the value of one bushel of corn together with the fodder upon which it grew, will carry a horse in good order for a week. An acre planted in corn and yielding sixty bushels will be ample to keep a working horse in order one year. Let the farmer then consider whether it is better to maintain a horse on the product of half an acre of rutabagas or carrots, or upon the produce of an acre of corn; or on the other hand, the hay and grain, as above. The same reasoning might be made use of in the feeding of cattle and sheep.

SHEEP ON A POOR FARM.

Some farmers feel an antipathy to sheep, for the reason that they "bite close." We consider this our only bite close where the pasture is short, and the pasture is short only on a poor farm. A poor farm will necessarily be encumbered with briars, weeds, and brush in the fence corners. Under such conditions we would say to the farmer who has twenty dollars or upward in cash, for credit for it, and then let him borrow the amount and pay one per cent. per month for the use of it, invest it in as many ewes, not over three years, as you can get for that money. Put them in such a field as we have described, and give them, in addition to what they can pick up, a pint of wheat bran and oat meal daily, with free access to salt and water. They will first go for the briars, and clean them out; every portion of that field will be trodden over and over again, and the weeds will have no chance. Fold them on that field during the winter, and carry to them sufficient feed to keep them thriving. Get the use of a good buck in season—South Down would be preferable—and in the spring, if you have good luck (that means if you give them proper attention, and feed regularly), you will raise more lambs than you have ewes, the money will be more than doubled, and the wool and manure will pay for their food and interest. In the spring you may put that field in grain, with a certainty of reaping a good crop.

WELSH BARBET.

Put into a frying-pan a quarter of a pound of cheese, cut into thin slices; pour on it half a pint of sweet milk; stir in an egg that is already beaten up, and add one-fourth of a teaspoonful of mustard, a little less red pepper, already ground, and a teaspoonful of nice butter. Stir this mixture all the time. Then add, lastly, a few crackers, well broken up, and after thoroughly incorporating them into the mixture, turn it all into a heated dish and cover it.

A RICH DESSERT.

Boil one pound of rice to a thick pulp; add a little salt to a pint of sweet milk. Take ripe peaches, pare, halve, and sugar well, spread the rice on white muslin, size of a common dumpling, place in each a peach, wrap and secure each dumpling with a few stitches; put into a pot of hot water, boil from three-quarters of an hour to an hour, then remove the cloths and eat, while hot, with sweet cream and sugar.

TO COOK AN OLD FOWL.

Dress and stuff, as for roasting; then boil three hours in a covered pot, with one quart of water, to which add two table-spoonfuls of vinegar; then take it from the water, rub over with a little butter, sprinkle over some flour, put the fowl into a bake-pan, and bake it in a hot oven one hour. Use the liquor in the pot for gravy and to baste with. This vinegar makes it very tender, but does not taste at all.

SPOICED APPLES.

Eight pounds of apples, pared, four pounds of sugar, one quart of vinegar, one ounce of stick cinnamon, half ounce of cloves. Boil the sugar, vinegar and spices together; put in the apples when boiling, and let them remain until tender—about twenty minutes. Take them out and put them in a jar. Boil down the syrup until it is thick, and pour it over them.

Energetic efforts are at work in St. Louis to rebuild the Lindell Hotel. It is thought they will be successful.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

One widely known as the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruption of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities, or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blisters, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and Internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Headaches, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhoea, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poison.

It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.

PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass., Practical and Analytical Chemists. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

HAIR VEGETABLE GROWING HAIR RENEWER.

Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation, which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring GRAY OR FADED HAIR to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical HAIR DRESSING ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance. A. A. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says: "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."

To the Afflicted. DR. W. K. DOHERTY returns his sincere thanks to his numerous patients for their patronage, and would take this opportunity to remind them that he continues to exercise at his Institute for
