

The Weekly Enterprise.

Published by request. OREGON.

Oregon! we love thee so glorious and grand. As thy beauty shows forth on Pacific's strand.

The rivers flow proudly—on, on, to the sea? Thy mountains are decked with an ever-green tree;

The valleys are lovely, teeming with flowers. Made bright by May's golden showers.

On thy lakes scarce a ripple is seen, Save when sweet zephyrs disturb the silvery sheen;

Thy orchards are as fragrant when blossoming out. As the lovely magnolia; the pride of the south.

The middle States of Mississippi may boast; Then to noble Columbia will be the next toast;

When people say Saratoga will do invasions good. We will show that our land, there is no place like Mt. Hood.

Your farmers are honest, they work with a will. They've nothing to do with the last Congressional bill.

Here the fields are as green and the skies are as blue. As the ladies are pretty and the gentlemen true;

As the birds sing as sweetly and the rose is in bud. As the fir tree is graceful, that towers o'er her head.

My love she wore a simple dress. Her hair in waving curls. They called her lovely blue-eyed Jess, caressed and kissed her curls.

My love she had become a "blonde" When next I saw her face; And where she once grazed her head, I saw the blue of a lake.

The Farm and Home.

HOW TO KEEP LAND IN GRASS PERMANENTLY.

The proper management of grass lands will be, before long, if it is not now, the key to successful agriculture in America.

STEAM ENGINES OR STEAMERS. Steaming feed for stock is now becoming a common practice, and many inquiries are arising as to the superiority of an engine over a steamer.

FEEDING STRAW. Straw, if properly managed, can be made to serve a more profitable purpose than mere littering, or to add bulk to the manure pile.

CLIPPING HORSES. It has been found that the practice of clipping the long, rough coat of horses in the winter season is a benefit in more ways than one.

TO PREVENT TURNIPS FLAVORING MILK AND MEAT. When turnips and mangel-worms are fed to milk cows and to fattening sheep and hogs, the milk and butter and meat will have a decided flavor of the roots.

WASHING ROOTS. It is frequently asked if it is necessary to wash roots before feeding them to stock. It is quite unnecessary to take this trouble; in fact it is injurious to do so, as stock thrive better for the small portion of earth which adheres to the roots.

BAKED APPLES. Cure some Baldwins, Pippins, or any other fine flavored tart apple. Sprinkle sugar on the bottom of a deep dish, and set the apples into the dish, with two or three on top.

TO MAKE COMMON HARD SOAP. Put into an iron kettle five pounds of unslacked lime, five do. soda, and three gallons of soft water; let it soak over night; in the morning pour off the water, then add three and a half pounds of grease, boil till thick, turn into a pan until cool, and then cut into bars.

TO DRY PUMPKINS. Peel and cut, as for cooking; then slice them very thin, spread on tin or other driers, and expose to a moderate heat in a stove oven. Thus dried the pumpkin will retain its natural flavor. To prepare it for cooking, soak it in hot water a few hours.

TO MAKE CLOTH WATER-PROOF. In a pail of soft water put half a pound of alum; stir at intervals until it becomes cool, then pour it into another pail and put the garment therein, and let it remain in twenty-four hours, and then hang it up to dry without wringing it.

TO CLEANSE BLANKETS. Put two tablespoonfuls of borax and a pint of soap into a tub of cold water. When dissolved, put in a pair of blankets, and let them remain over night. Next day rub out, and hang them out to dry. Do not wring them.

To Make Boys Good Farmers.

The American Agriculturalist says: Induce them to take an interest in the farm, in the implements, and the stock; tell them all your plans, your success, and your failures; give them a history of your life and what you did, and how you did it when a boy; but do not harry too much on the degenerate character of the young men of the present day.

Prize them when you can, and encourage them to do still better. Let them dress up in the evening, and not sit in their dirty clothes in a dirty room. Provide plenty of light. Thanks to kerosene, our country homes can be as brightly lighted as the gas-lit residence in the city.

Encourage the neighbors to drop in evenings. Talk agriculture rather than politics; speak of the importance of large crops, of good stock, liberal feeding, and the advantages of making animals comfortable, rather than of the hard times, low prices, and high wages. Above all, encourage the boys to read good agricultural books. Papers are well enough, but an intelligent boy needs something more. Get him some good agricultural book to study. Read it with him, and give him the benefit of your experience and criticism. When he has mastered this, give him another. In our own case, we owe our love for farming principally to the fact that our father told us of everything he was doing on the farm; answering all the questions, and encouraging rather than rebuking our childlike desire of helping him to plow, to chop, to let off water and fire the brush heap.

STOCKS.—Whenever you see a boy who gets all staid in on waa leg, except the old gander, and he chawing his cud, look out for a southwest wind tomorrow, or the next day, or the day after, or at some fewer time. Whenever dogs are seen traveling around with nothing to do, and old maids refuse their tea, and hop vines won't climb, and grindstones won't grind, then you may expect a little crop of oats, and beans won't pay for harvesting.
