MAKE YOUR MARK.

DAVID BARKER.

In the quarries should you toil, Make your mark; Do you delve upon the soil, Make your mark; In whatever path you go, In whatever place you stand, Moving swift or moving slow, With a firm and honest hand Make your mark.

Should opponents hedge your way, Make your mark: Work by night, or work by day, Make your mark: Struggle manfully and well, Let no obstacle oppose; None, right shielded, ever fell By the weapons of his foes;

What though born a peasant's son, Make your mark; Good by noor men can be done --Mike your mark. Peasant's garbs may warm the cold; Peasant's works may calm a fear-Bester far than hoarding gold Is the drying of a tear; Make your mark.

Make your mark.

Life is fleeling as a shade-Make your mark; Marks of some kind must be made-Make your mark. Make it while the arm is strong, In the golden hours of youth; Never, never make it wrong-Make it in the stamp of truth; Make your mark.

THE MAGE IN THE NIGHT.

see a maiden in the night, Beside a parapet of gold; Her face is patient, calm and white. wondrous heavy sad and sweet, As moonlight swathing clouds that meet long years I've seen this maiden stand, With glances ever fixed on me; She moves not either arm or hand, And at her leet there seems to be I river, plankt with flowerets, wide, Jpon whose breast no shadows ride.

She sties not, but is ever still As saint in some stained window seen, When sunbeams all its features fill Wish an unwavering diamond sheen; but there are changes in her eyes, Like throbs of stars in midnight skies.

Only to me her form appears -In darkness I can see her best; ometimes I fancy there are tears As white as pearls upon her breast, That she has shed because I'm here. And she's in heaven-sh, happy there!

I loved on earth long, long ago; Whose memory in my heart is laid, There burried-burried sweet and low She'll watch me all my life is o'er, Say, what can love, true love, do more?

Fearful Disclosures.

[From the S. F. Examiner.] Senator Schurz recently, in the Senate alluded to the shameful extortions that have long been practiced on the merchants of New York. His language left no doubt that he aimed his denunciation at the President himself, to whom he ascribed a knowledge of the wrongs being inflicted on the importers of that city, to the loss of honest merchants and to the detriment of the public service. We give the language employed on that occasion by the Missouri Senator:

"It was intimated to some of the witnesses that Mr. Leet, who pockfrom that business, had some connection with the White House; but General Porter was examined, Mr. Leet himself was examined, and they both testified it was not so, and counting the number of the form a different conclusion.
