The Printer's Devil.

BY TYP. O. QUAD.

Ink bespattered,
Clothing tattered,
With his broom in hand,

'Neath the eaves,
Type and spaces—
Tumbled where they fell—

By his plate
Doomed to go to
Printers' leather "hell."

Running hither,
Darting thither,
'Till of all the staff,

Out and in doors,
Doing all chores,
Bringing telegraph.

Runs for copy,
Nor dare stop he
For his paper hat;

All the journeymen,
Save the foreman,
Yelling for some "phat."

Proves the galley's
Then he sallies—
On Satan's opinion,

From the news room—
To the sanctum—
Part of his dominion.

And the bosses—
Often cross as
Bosses when their holes—

Make the devil
Find his level
Stirring up the coals.

Washing roller,
Bringing out or
Lugging water pail;

'Till he wastes no
At the paste pot,
Wrapping up the mail.

When the week's done,
Then he seeks no
Where the greenbacks lay,

There to settle
For the little
Devil is to pay.

In this spirit
There is merit,
Far from taint of shame;

Often gaining
By his training
Good and honored name.

Legislators,
Great debaters,
Scientific men,

Have arisen
From the prison
Of the devil's den.

—Printers' Circular.

A Husband Who Couldn't Appreciate the Dolly Vardens.

If husbands are to be mistaken in "Dolly Varden" dresses, as was an unfortunate husband in Philadelphia, the sooner the fashion is squelched the better will it be for the peace of society.

Rising, the man said, "Madam, whom do you wish to see?" and then said aside, "Poor thing she's crazy." That last remark settled the business for him, as the weird female made a bolt and tightly grasped his Adam's apple, and choked him until his face assumed the color of a banner of the Commune.

"You can't blame me, madam, for supposing you an insane woman, and now that I know you are really the mother of these interesting children, will you have the kindness to retire to the sanctity of your chamber and peel yourself of that piece of furniture chintz, or window curtain, or whatever it is you call it?"

"Madam" replied the husband, "we may be out of our head, but if that is a Dolly Varden, we are most decidedly out of pocket. Why, it looks like a circus dress; and the idea of a woman at your time of life!"

"My time of life!" "Yes, your time of life. The next thing, I suppose, you will be practicing the trapeze act in the back yard. Why, it is enough to give a man the delirium tremens to look at it. Who ever saw such a pattern? It's flash wall-paper run mad. You look like some Japanese tea-sign. And now just bounce out of here with that Pejee bat-to-bag, or you'll scare the baby to death."

There was an ominous pause for a moment, and then the eldest daughter said: "Why, you ought to be ashamed of yourself father. It's all the style, and I am going to have one, too; there now." "Yes, and I want one; all the girls have got them." Thus spoke Maria, the second eldest. "Any more?" gasped the husband; "are there any more? Hadn't the baby better have one? I guess I'll get one myself. How do they make up for pantaloons? Ha! ha! ha! (demoniacally). Let me have a Dolly Varden. Let me clutch it. Bring me a pattern of monkey sealing lampstons. How would a Chinese puzzle look, or a map of Fairmount Park?" All the rest is a blank. The unhappy husband has just been liberated from an asylum, and pronounced cured. But the only way they managed it was to dress him up in a Dolly Varden, marked out with the ground plan of the streets of Boston.

Nettles—Wiseacres and seers are already busily engaged, remarks the Baltimore Gazette, in casting the political horoscope of the coming President. The shadowy shape conjured up by the first reveals the imperial lineaments of Grant, while the benevolent countenance of Greeley is clearly discerned by the latter. When the Democratic party has spoken it may yet be that both sects will exclaim, in the language of the Irishman who hailed another as his very dear friend and found himself mistaken, "we looked closely and behold it was neither of us!"

Henry Peard is the fastidious editor of a certain western paper. Upon a late electioneering tour he slept at a farm house with two others in the same bed, and the next morning the daughter of the lady of the house, enquired how they slept. "First rate," answered one. "I slept behind, Bill slept before, and Henry Peard in the middle." "Did he?" exclaimed Susan.

"What makes you so glum, Tom?" Because I've just had to endure a sad trial to my feelings. "What on earth was it?" Why, I had to tie on a pretty girl's bonnet while her mother was looking on."
