

FOR PRESIDENT, HORACE GREELEY, OF NEW YORK.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT, B. CRATZ BROWN, OF MISSOURI.

Presidential Electors. GEO. R. HIGGINS, of Linn County. N. H. GATES, of Wasco County. L. F. LANE, of Douglas County.

Democratic State Central Committee.

THE MEMBERS OF THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF OREGON are requested to be present in person, or by proxy, at a meeting of said Committee to be held in the City of Portland on Monday, September 2nd, 1872, at 10 o'clock, a. m., at the office of Judge Price, by order of the Chairman, J. A. CHAPMAN, Portland, August 16th, 1872.

The following are the names of the gentlemen composing the above Committee:

Table with 2 columns: Name and County. Lists names like J. A. Chapman, Multnomah; Benj. Raymond, Jackson; W. H. Jackson, Douglas; Wm. T. Emerson, Curry; A. L. Waldron, Josephine; J. C. Avery, Benton; G. W. Gray, Marion; N. H. Cranor, Linn; W. A. Bailey, Washington; W. A. Musgrove, Columbia; A. Van Dusen, Clatsop; W. T. Threlkeld, Wasilla; H. C. Paige, Yamhill; A. C. Craig, Union; J. D. Haines, Baker; W. W. Johnson, Grant; H. N. V. Holmes, Polk; J. H. Upton, Yamhill; J. A. Walton, Jr., Lane; W. L. White, Clatsop; W. H. Fayette, Tillamook.

Bigoted Prejudices.

Both U. S. Grant (alias Hiram U. Grant) candidate for President, and Henry Wilson (alias Jeremiah Colbath) candidate for Vice President on the Radical ticket, have placed themselves upon record as being men of narrow souls and bigoted prejudices.

HEADQUARTERS THIRTIETH ARMY CORPS, DEPARTMENT OF THE TENNESSEE, OXFORD, MISS., DECEMBER 17, 1862.

The Jews as a class, violating every regulation of trade established by the Treasury Department, also department orders, are hereby expelled from the department within twenty-four hours from the receipt of this order by post commanders.

And Henry Wilson, in open Senate, replying to Senator Benjamin of Louisiana, made the following coarse and ungenerous allusion to the same race of people:

"His bearing, the tone of his voice, his words, all give evidence that the spark of patriotism, if it ever existed, was extinct in his bosom; that his heart was in this land and wracked that to dismember the Union, to overthrow the Government of his adopted country, which gives equality of rights even to that race that stoned the prophets and crucified the Redeemer of the world."—The Congressional Globe, Feb. 22, 1861.

The above documents show that both these men are fitting exponents of the illiberal Radical party, which legitimately sprung from the Tories of the old Know Nothing party, and which is even now paving the way in public sentiment for the commencement of a religious crusade, so soon as it succeeds in completely subjecting the white people of the South.

The Radical papers have made great ado over the fact that Stanley Matthews, temporary chairman of the Cincinnati Convention, has announced his support for Grant.

A story is told that a prominent Grant politician of Eugene subscribed for twenty copies of the Day Book for gratuitous distribution among Democrats, not doubting but that that sheet would contain his opposition to Greeley. When the first copies came to hand he was surprised and chagrined to find the name of Greeley and Brown as its candidates for President and Vice President.

Evidence of Treasury Frauds.

Instead of going to North Carolina and instigating the brutal negro population of that State to kick wide open "the bloody chasm," Secretary Boutwell had much better have staid at home and endeavored to close up the "chasm" that exists in the reports of his own Department. Notwithstanding Congress has allowed the Treasury Department to tinker with old accounts, dating back to the formation of the Government, for the purpose of covering up frauds and discrepancies, yet, in spite of all the tinkering, fraud is written as plainly in the official reports of the Government as villany was ever written on the visage of a scoundrel.

Williams for the Senate.

A Washington dispatch to the St. Louis Republican, of August 14th, states: There is no question now but that Attorney General Williams is a candidate for the United States Senate in Oregon, to succeed Corbett, whose term expires this winter.

Blanton Duncan.

We have been at a loss for some time to know who and what this individual was. The Chicago Tribune has furnished us the following sketch of him, which we ask our patrons to read.

Important Letter from Hon. Jas. H. Slater.

Sir: Through the columns of your paper I desire to say a few words to the people of Eastern Oregon upon the subject of rail road communication. I am fully aware of the anxiety of the people upon this subject, and know that they are earnestly hoping that at an early day provisions will be made for the construction of a rail road from Portland to Salt Lake.

State Items.

There are no vacant houses in Salem. Senator Corbett is making a visit up the valley. There is a natural bridge on the Rickard in Polk county.

Williams for the Senate.

It is thoroughly believed by sailors that rats have the sagacity to leave a sinking ship just prior to its last fatal voyage. The venerable old political rat spoken of in the above dispatch, evinces the same kind of sagacity.

Flaxbrake on Mules.

A telegraphic dispatch of the 22d ult., says that "some time ago Gen. Pillow, late of the Confederate army, sent a letter to the Secretary of War, asking the value of 200 mules seized by the Union troops at Helena Arkansas. The letter was referred to Attorney General Williams, who has given an opinion holding the claim not good, the property having been seized in a State which attempted to withdraw from the Union and belonging to a party not loyal to the government."

Evidence of Treasury Frauds.

Instead of going to North Carolina and instigating the brutal negro population of that State to kick wide open "the bloody chasm," Secretary Boutwell had much better have staid at home and endeavored to close up the "chasm" that exists in the reports of his own Department. Notwithstanding Congress has allowed the Treasury Department to tinker with old accounts, dating back to the formation of the Government, for the purpose of covering up frauds and discrepancies, yet, in spite of all the tinkering, fraud is written as plainly in the official reports of the Government as villany was ever written on the visage of a scoundrel.

Williams for the Senate.

A Washington dispatch to the St. Louis Republican, of August 14th, states: There is no question now but that Attorney General Williams is a candidate for the United States Senate in Oregon, to succeed Corbett, whose term expires this winter.

Blanton Duncan.

We have been at a loss for some time to know who and what this individual was. The Chicago Tribune has furnished us the following sketch of him, which we ask our patrons to read.

Important Letter from Hon. Jas. H. Slater.

Sir: Through the columns of your paper I desire to say a few words to the people of Eastern Oregon upon the subject of rail road communication. I am fully aware of the anxiety of the people upon this subject, and know that they are earnestly hoping that at an early day provisions will be made for the construction of a rail road from Portland to Salt Lake.

State Items.

There are no vacant houses in Salem. Senator Corbett is making a visit up the valley. There is a natural bridge on the Rickard in Polk county.

Williams for the Senate.

It is thoroughly believed by sailors that rats have the sagacity to leave a sinking ship just prior to its last fatal voyage. The venerable old political rat spoken of in the above dispatch, evinces the same kind of sagacity.

Flaxbrake on Mules.

A telegraphic dispatch of the 22d ult., says that "some time ago Gen. Pillow, late of the Confederate army, sent a letter to the Secretary of War, asking the value of 200 mules seized by the Union troops at Helena Arkansas. The letter was referred to Attorney General Williams, who has given an opinion holding the claim not good, the property having been seized in a State which attempted to withdraw from the Union and belonging to a party not loyal to the government."

Evidence of Treasury Frauds.

Instead of going to North Carolina and instigating the brutal negro population of that State to kick wide open "the bloody chasm," Secretary Boutwell had much better have staid at home and endeavored to close up the "chasm" that exists in the reports of his own Department. Notwithstanding Congress has allowed the Treasury Department to tinker with old accounts, dating back to the formation of the Government, for the purpose of covering up frauds and discrepancies, yet, in spite of all the tinkering, fraud is written as plainly in the official reports of the Government as villany was ever written on the visage of a scoundrel.

Williams for the Senate.

A Washington dispatch to the St. Louis Republican, of August 14th, states: There is no question now but that Attorney General Williams is a candidate for the United States Senate in Oregon, to succeed Corbett, whose term expires this winter.

Blanton Duncan.

We have been at a loss for some time to know who and what this individual was. The Chicago Tribune has furnished us the following sketch of him, which we ask our patrons to read.

Important Letter from Hon. Jas. H. Slater.

Sir: Through the columns of your paper I desire to say a few words to the people of Eastern Oregon upon the subject of rail road communication. I am fully aware of the anxiety of the people upon this subject, and know that they are earnestly hoping that at an early day provisions will be made for the construction of a rail road from Portland to Salt Lake.

State Items.

There are no vacant houses in Salem. Senator Corbett is making a visit up the valley. There is a natural bridge on the Rickard in Polk county.

Williams for the Senate.

It is thoroughly believed by sailors that rats have the sagacity to leave a sinking ship just prior to its last fatal voyage. The venerable old political rat spoken of in the above dispatch, evinces the same kind of sagacity.

Flaxbrake on Mules.

A telegraphic dispatch of the 22d ult., says that "some time ago Gen. Pillow, late of the Confederate army, sent a letter to the Secretary of War, asking the value of 200 mules seized by the Union troops at Helena Arkansas. The letter was referred to Attorney General Williams, who has given an opinion holding the claim not good, the property having been seized in a State which attempted to withdraw from the Union and belonging to a party not loyal to the government."

Evidence of Treasury Frauds.

Instead of going to North Carolina and instigating the brutal negro population of that State to kick wide open "the bloody chasm," Secretary Boutwell had much better have staid at home and endeavored to close up the "chasm" that exists in the reports of his own Department. Notwithstanding Congress has allowed the Treasury Department to tinker with old accounts, dating back to the formation of the Government, for the purpose of covering up frauds and discrepancies, yet, in spite of all the tinkering, fraud is written as plainly in the official reports of the Government as villany was ever written on the visage of a scoundrel.

Williams for the Senate.

A Washington dispatch to the St. Louis Republican, of August 14th, states: There is no question now but that Attorney General Williams is a candidate for the United States Senate in Oregon, to succeed Corbett, whose term expires this winter.

Blanton Duncan.

We have been at a loss for some time to know who and what this individual was. The Chicago Tribune has furnished us the following sketch of him, which we ask our patrons to read.

Important Letter from Hon. Jas. H. Slater.

Sir: Through the columns of your paper I desire to say a few words to the people of Eastern Oregon upon the subject of rail road communication. I am fully aware of the anxiety of the people upon this subject, and know that they are earnestly hoping that at an early day provisions will be made for the construction of a rail road from Portland to Salt Lake.

State Items.

There are no vacant houses in Salem. Senator Corbett is making a visit up the valley. There is a natural bridge on the Rickard in Polk county.

Williams for the Senate.

It is thoroughly believed by sailors that rats have the sagacity to leave a sinking ship just prior to its last fatal voyage. The venerable old political rat spoken of in the above dispatch, evinces the same kind of sagacity.

Flaxbrake on Mules.

A telegraphic dispatch of the 22d ult., says that "some time ago Gen. Pillow, late of the Confederate army, sent a letter to the Secretary of War, asking the value of 200 mules seized by the Union troops at Helena Arkansas. The letter was referred to Attorney General Williams, who has given an opinion holding the claim not good, the property having been seized in a State which attempted to withdraw from the Union and belonging to a party not loyal to the government."

Evidence of Treasury Frauds.

Instead of going to North Carolina and instigating the brutal negro population of that State to kick wide open "the bloody chasm," Secretary Boutwell had much better have staid at home and endeavored to close up the "chasm" that exists in the reports of his own Department. Notwithstanding Congress has allowed the Treasury Department to tinker with old accounts, dating back to the formation of the Government, for the purpose of covering up frauds and discrepancies, yet, in spite of all the tinkering, fraud is written as plainly in the official reports of the Government as villany was ever written on the visage of a scoundrel.

Williams for the Senate.

A Washington dispatch to the St. Louis Republican, of August 14th, states: There is no question now but that Attorney General Williams is a candidate for the United States Senate in Oregon, to succeed Corbett, whose term expires this winter.

Blanton Duncan.

We have been at a loss for some time to know who and what this individual was. The Chicago Tribune has furnished us the following sketch of him, which we ask our patrons to read.

Important Letter from Hon. Jas. H. Slater.

Sir: Through the columns of your paper I desire to say a few words to the people of Eastern Oregon upon the subject of rail road communication. I am fully aware of the anxiety of the people upon this subject, and know that they are earnestly hoping that at an early day provisions will be made for the construction of a rail road from Portland to Salt Lake.

State Items.

There are no vacant houses in Salem. Senator Corbett is making a visit up the valley. There is a natural bridge on the Rickard in Polk county.

Williams for the Senate.

It is thoroughly believed by sailors that rats have the sagacity to leave a sinking ship just prior to its last fatal voyage. The venerable old political rat spoken of in the above dispatch, evinces the same kind of sagacity.

Flaxbrake on Mules.

A telegraphic dispatch of the 22d ult., says that "some time ago Gen. Pillow, late of the Confederate army, sent a letter to the Secretary of War, asking the value of 200 mules seized by the Union troops at Helena Arkansas. The letter was referred to Attorney General Williams, who has given an opinion holding the claim not good, the property having been seized in a State which attempted to withdraw from the Union and belonging to a party not loyal to the government."

Evidence of Treasury Frauds.

Instead of going to North Carolina and instigating the brutal negro population of that State to kick wide open "the bloody chasm," Secretary Boutwell had much better have staid at home and endeavored to close up the "chasm" that exists in the reports of his own Department. Notwithstanding Congress has allowed the Treasury Department to tinker with old accounts, dating back to the formation of the Government, for the purpose of covering up frauds and discrepancies, yet, in spite of all the tinkering, fraud is written as plainly in the official reports of the Government as villany was ever written on the visage of a scoundrel.

Williams for the Senate.

A Washington dispatch to the St. Louis Republican, of August 14th, states: There is no question now but that Attorney General Williams is a candidate for the United States Senate in Oregon, to succeed Corbett, whose term expires this winter.

Blanton Duncan.

We have been at a loss for some time to know who and what this individual was. The Chicago Tribune has furnished us the following sketch of him, which we ask our patrons to read.

Important Letter from Hon. Jas. H. Slater.

Sir: Through the columns of your paper I desire to say a few words to the people of Eastern Oregon upon the subject of rail road communication. I am fully aware of the anxiety of the people upon this subject, and know that they are earnestly hoping that at an early day provisions will be made for the construction of a rail road from Portland to Salt Lake.

State Items.

There are no vacant houses in Salem. Senator Corbett is making a visit up the valley. There is a natural bridge on the Rickard in Polk county.

Williams for the Senate.

It is thoroughly believed by sailors that rats have the sagacity to leave a sinking ship just prior to its last fatal voyage. The venerable old political rat spoken of in the above dispatch, evinces the same kind of sagacity.

Flaxbrake on Mules.

A telegraphic dispatch of the 22d ult., says that "some time ago Gen. Pillow, late of the Confederate army, sent a letter to the Secretary of War, asking the value of 200 mules seized by the Union troops at Helena Arkansas. The letter was referred to Attorney General Williams, who has given an opinion holding the claim not good, the property having been seized in a State which attempted to withdraw from the Union and belonging to a party not loyal to the government."