A Word to Fathers.

We have read a story of a little boy, who, when he wanted a new suit of clothes. begged his mother to ask his father if he might have it. The mother suggested adds that the election has rendered the that the boy might ask for himself. "! would," said the boy, "but I don't fee well enough acquainted with him." There a sharp reproof to his father in reply to his son. Many a father keeps his children so at a distance from him that they never feel confidentially acquainted with him. They feel that he is a sort of monarch in the family. They feel no familiarity with him. They fear him and respect him, and even love him some, for children cannot help loving some every body about them; but they seldom get near enough to him to feel intimate with him. They seldom go to him with their little wants and trials: they approach him through the mother. Sr. Louis, Nov. 20.
