THE ALDINE, WHILE ISSEUD WITH all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of A pink-eyed rabbit, white as milk. dinary light and graceful literture; and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number efforts fresh pleasure to its friends, the real value and beauto of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it has been bound up at e close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness as com pared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is a unique and original conception -alone and unapproached-absolutely withut competition in price or character. The ossessor of a complete volume cannot dulicate the quantity of fine paper and engravings in any of her shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there They sang full long together are the chromos, besides.

ART DEPARTMENT.

Notwithstanding the increase in the price of subscription last Fall, when THE ALDINE assumed its present noble proportious and representative character, the edition was MORETHAN FOURLE during the past year ; proving that the American public appreciate, and will support, a sincere effort in the cause of Art. The publi-hers, as xious to justify the ready confidence thus demonstrated, have excited themselves to the atmost to develop and improve the work; and the plans for the coming year, as included by the monthly issues, will astonish and delight even the most anguine friends of THE ALDINE. The publishers are authorized to announce designs from many of the most eminent artists of America. In addition, THE ALDINE will reproduce

THE MAIDEN'S CAPRICE. BY-W. D. HOWELLS. She hung the cage at the window.

"If he goes by," she said. He will hear my robin singing. And when he litts his bead. I will be sitting here to bow. And he will bow to me, I know "

The robin sang a love sweet song. The young man raised his head; The maiden turned away and blushed:

· I am a fool," she said. And went on embroidering in silk,

The young man loitered slowly By the house three times that day. She took her bird from the window: "He need not look this way." She sat at her piano long. And sighed, and played a death sad song

But when the day was done, she said: "I wish that he would come ! Remember, Mary, if he calls To night-I'm not at home." So when he rang, she went-the elf!-She went and let him in herself!

> Their songs, love-sweet, death-sad! The robin awoke from his slumber, And sung out clear, and glad.

'Now go," she coldly said; " 'tis late;" And followed him-to latch the gate,

He took the rosebud from her hair, While "You shall not !" she said; He closed her hand within his own, And while her tongue forbade, Her will was dark in the eclipse Of blinding love upon bis lips. 41415 THE HAPPY HOUR.

-0.4.14 ROOM UP STAIRS .- A young man thought of studying law, but he would first go and ask the advice . of Daniel Webster about it, "They tell me, sir," said the young man, "that the profession is full, and that there are more lawyers now than are needed. Do you think there is any room for me?" "There is always room up stairs," was Webster's reply. Room enough up stairs! That is true, for the number of first class workmen is small and the demand is large. First class farmers, mechanics, physicians, lawyers and ministers always find plenty of room, plenty of work, and good pay. Whatever your calling may be, if it be an honest one, be determined to go into the upper story of it.
