OREGON CITY, OREGON, MARCH 21, 1873.

FIVE POINTS IN FELLOWSHIP. Brothers come and let us ponder What we Masons vowed to do, When prepared, at yonder altar, We assumed a solemn yow; Foot and knee, breast, hand and cheek

Let them now our duties speak. Foot to foot on mercy's errand, When we hear a brother's cry. Hungry, thirsty, barefoot, naked, With God's mercy, let us fly; This of all our thoughts the chief, How we best may bring relief.

Knee to knee, in earnest praying, None but God to hear or heed, All our woes and sins confessing, Let us for each other plead; Let the spirit of our call Be to pray for brothers all. Breast to breast, in sacred casket,

At life's centre let us seal Every truth to us entrusting, Nor one holy thing reveal: What a Mason vowed to shield Let him die but never yield. Hand to back; a brother's falling-

See, his burdens are too great! Up before it is too late; Each right hand is a Mason's prop Made to hold another up.

Cheek to cheek, the timely warning, When the templer strives to win, Urge abrother's bounden duty, Warn him of approaching sin-Warn him of the deadly snare, Win him with a brother's care, Brother! often let us pender

What we Masons vowed to do, When prepared at yonder altar We assumed a solemn vow; Let them oft our duties speak.

HUSBAND AND WIFE. First at morning, last at night, I think of thee. Key to all my heart's delight, Substance of each fancy bright, Prize and cown of every fight,

Art thou to me. Do I with the good compete, Put myself beneath thy feet, Flesh and fashion abdicate, Rise an early, lie down late?

Tis all for thee.

Art not thou my dream of dreams, For every night? Every day with loving beams, Wis thy spirit shines and gleams, the sun on all my streams, Both warm and bright.

Far and near, how far above me Far and near, how near to love me! Bless me, teach me, prove me; Rosom matel Gentle mistress, sage and lovely, My sweet fate.

Did I not when first we knew, Plight thee my troth? Sayshat thou should'st never rue; Whate'er wayward time might do Frue one, true both.

The years a holy land have laid Upon my life. Confirming every promise made To heart and soul, to beard and bed? This only waiteth to be said: Praise God, dear wife?

O PERSONAL PROPERTY AND PROPERTY OF THE PERSONAL PROPERTY OF THE PERSON Antiquity of the Scriptures.

Few of us stop to think how old the Bible is. Yet the Scriptures are believed by cardid critics to contain the most ancient forms of truth now known to men. With the aids of chronological tubes, any one may easily make profitable comparisons composed in the antedeluvian period. The Hebrew statutes were enacted a thousand years before Justinian reformed the Roman jurisprudence. In the Bible we have the record of charactered rights secured to the people more than two thousand years it must be refuted.
