

THE ENTERPRISE.

OREGON CITY, OREGON, DEC. 5, 1873.

A Memorable Day.

It is not too much to say that the Fourth of November, 1873, will have an important place in the political annals of this country. From Dan to Beersheba, from the Atlantic to the far prairie lands, the conflict raged; and everywhere along the line that haughty power so belshazzar-like in its tyranny, its extravagance, its corruption, its blindness, was started into a sense of danger by the rush of mighty hosts, and compelled to tremble in the hand of avenging destiny upon the wings of Radicalism upon the wall.

Too long had a people borne the contempt of their liberties, the disregard of their rights, the reckless gambling with their interests, which have characterized the Government, Federal and State, since this unconstitutional, sectional party assumed, and in a great degree usurped, control. Too plain were the warnings of adverse fate and slavery as conveyed in the Louisiana affair, the Credit Mobilier exposure, and more lately in the great wave of financial distress that has swept from boundary to boundary of the land. Too long had a suffering people submitted to their wrongs, sitting in sorrowful inaction, or in the midst of their Babylon and only mourning for the Zion of freedom and peace and prosperity they remembered.

The time had at last come though the rulers knew it not, says the Richmond Examiner, and in October, Ohio broke the bonds like an angry giant, and called with voice of thunder to freedom everywhere to join her. That voice reached the revelers in Washington; it also woke the echoes of a thousand mountains, and rolled with gathering strength across a thousand plains. It was heard above the surf that breaks upon Long Island; it pealed above the shores of Michigan and Wisconsin; it reverberated across the waters of Chesapeake, and found a thousand tongues in the gorges of Virginia's mountains; it stirred the bosom of the Missouri, and struck like a trumpet call on the bleeding heart of Kansas.

And everywhere—as long expecting—recognized the summons, and rose to give their lives and to obey. The hours of quiet meditation passed the day away, and when another dawn it is known of all the world how well Ohio has answered. A memorable day. The beginning of a new era. The birthday—God grant—of intense freedom of the people North and South, East and West, from oppression and misrule.

A Remarkable Operation.

From the Whitaker (N.Y.) Times
B. Franklin made his name famous when he flew his kite and brought down lightning from the clouds which had been flying around without paying its way. Now we not only flash through on wires, but science has even learned to use electricity to perform miracles. The Times readers will remember when Gen. Kippatrick returned home from Chile three years since, of his having a remarkable operation performed upon him by a physician in New York, who removed the source of his pain from the neuralgia of his neck by filling it full of needles and then attaching a galvanic battery to it. Ten minutes after the current of electricity was let on the lurch he entirely disappeared. A remarkable operation was performed by a Whitehall physician a few days since, on a gentleman who had been suffering from a superabundance of adipose tissue consulted a physician, asking for relief from his burden. The doctor told him he could relieve him if he would consent to a painful operation. The gentleman consented, and with the medical practitioner, attended the telegraph office at this place. The fat man was requested to remove his coat and vest, after which the physician surrounded him with wires attaching the ends to a powerful battery. At a signal from the doctor, Manager W. B. Eddy let on the current. The patient writhed and twisted when he felt the current passing around him; still he stood like a martyr. Presently he began to shudder, he grew smaller and smaller, his clothing hung in bags about his fast-diminishing form. The doctor felt much pleased at the result of his experiment, while the formerly fat man's joy was very great, although he seemed to be suffering acute pain. All of a sudden there was heard a loud clicking at the instrument, as if Pandimonium's great bell had been let loose. The operator sprung quickly to answer the call. He ascertained it was from the New York office. He quickly asked "what's up?" An answer came back as if some infuriated demon was at the other end of the wire. "What in thunder are you about? Cut off your wires quick—you are hitting the New York office with your grease."

Past History of the "Virginius."
The vessel has been twice owned by the Government. Once she belonged to the division of captured and abandoned property of the Treasury, by which she was sold; and again, in 1870, she was seized at Mobile for debt of the defaulting Assistant Treasurer. She was then brought to the Potomac and sold to a New Yorker named Paterson. Her name was then Virginius, but upon being taken to New York it was changed to Virginius. The Virginius and the vessel which captured her, the Tenado, were both built on the Clyde by the same builder, for blockade-runners during the war.

A Druggist's clerk in Savannah, Georgia, fired a pistol into a barrel of "non-explosive" kerosene, oil, just for the fun of the thing. The barrel and the young man went off almost as quick as the pistol did, and the funeral was largely attended.

An Iowa woman gave her husband a dose of morphine to cure him of chewing tobacco. She broke him of the costly habit, but the funeral expenses would have kept him in tobacco for several years.

John A. Bingham has been sent to Japan as minister. His Government would be better off if he would stay there or emigrate to his future home—H—H.

Proctor Knott on the Monopolies.

Why, every avenue of active enterprise is crowded with them. In every conflict for material prosperity, whether on the land or on the sea, in the mine or the manufactory, in the busy haunts of commerce or the desolate solitudes of the forest, on every arena in which human industry or skill can be employed, we find them arraying from sinew of a remorseless consolidated capital against the overhatched tissue of individual energy and unorganized labor. Turn which way we will, on every hand we are confronted by these ideal persons, by the soulless beings, these artificial, intangible, immortal monsters whom an Omnipotent God never created, and for whom a suffering Saviour never died. If we take the wings of morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea, lo! they are there. If we survey the darknesses shall cover us, behold they are there, and I have no doubt if you would descend into hell, you would find their lobbyists crowding the corridors of pandemonium, asking a charter that would enable them to make a monopoly of the highway that leads to perdition. Why they have even invaded the sanctuary of the living God, and assumed to peddle out the religion of Jesus Christ. The rage for corporate privileges has actually got to that pass that the Young Men's Christian Association cannot hold a prayer meeting until they have procured a charter from Congress or some State Legislature authorizing them to sue and be sued, plead and be pleaded, and to buy and sell real estate.

Having been appointed (says a Wisconsin man) to administer on the estate of a neighbor recently deceased. I was greatly annoyed by applications for an order for the grave-stone for the departed. After some three or four weeks a very gentlemanly "mortuary man" introduced himself, told me his business, and asked for "the job." I replied that as soon as a person was dangerously ill, "a grave-stone man" made his appearance and demanded "the job," and asked for the inscription for the head-stone. He replied that he knew it was so, and added, "I don't do it, and I won't, for it isn't decent, but often find myself in the same 'fix' that Deacon was in."

"How was that?" I asked. "Why," said he, "old Deacon D— had long had his eye on M. W— whose husband had for several weeks lingered on the border of the grave. A few days after the funeral of brother W— the Deacon made a friendly call on the widow, and in the course of the conversation remarked that after the year (which had elapsed) he proposed to offer her the consolation of his hand and heart, which he hoped would not be unacceptable to her. "O, Deacon," she replied, "you are too late; Elles G— spoke to me at the grave!"

In 1856, when a great reform was agitating the people, Dr. J. G. Holland published a little poem which we herewith reproduce as one of the fine of wit and strain. It is timely now as in 1856:

God, give us men! a time like this demands
Strong minds, great hearts, true faith,
And ready hands;
Men whom the lust of office does not kill;
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;
Men who possess opinions and a will;
Men who have honor; men who will not lie;
Men who stand before a demagogue,
And damn his treacherous flatteries without winking;
Call men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog;
In public duty and in private thinking;
Nor, while the rattle in their thimble-worn ears,
Their large professions and their little deeds;
Mingle in selfish strife, lo! Freedom weeps,
Wrong rules the land, and waiting Justice sobs.

THE CHIEF JUSTICESHIP.—The telegraph tells us that it was stated in Washington, yesterday, that Associate Justice Miller, of the Supreme Court, will be promoted to the place of Chief Justice, that Attorney-General Williams will be appointed Associate Justice in place of Miller, and that Edward Pierpont, of New York, will be made Attorney-General. Mr. Williams sails from Oregon, and Associate Justice Field from California. This would give two places on the Supreme Bench to the Pacific Coast.—S. F. Examiner.

When man comes home and tries to bolt his door with a second nail, pokes the fire with the point of a cork, or attempts to wind up the clock with his boot Jack, tries to cut kindling wood for the morning with a paper knife, takes a cold potato in his hand to light him to bed, and professes to sleep in his hat and boots you may reasonably infer that he has been making the acquaintance of some very friendly people.

Deal, is it? Fossilized, is it? Antediluvian, moribund, sick, decrepit, is it? Given up the ghost, is it? Returned to the shady realms beyond the Styxian river, has it? The old Bourbon is in his grave, is he? The moribund rump of the old pro-slavery party gone where the wool-pen twined, has it? All right! We care not by what "pet name" we are called, so long as we are able to win great and glorious victories.—Grand Rapids Democrat.

An exchange tells thus: A good lady who, on the death of her first husband married his brother, has a portrait of the former hanging in her dining room. One day a visitor, noting the painting, asked: "Is that a member of the family?" "Oh! that's my poor brother-in-law," was the ingenious reply.

A girl of reason comments thus on Mormonism: How absurd! four or five wives to one man, when the fact is, each woman in these times ought to have four or five husbands. It would take about that number to support me decently.

It is announced, on the authority of course, of an eminent physician, that it is not considered healthy to rise before 8 o'clock in the morning. This applies only to men as heretofore.

The devil tempts everybody, but the liar tempts the devil.
