When the bell tolled for the mother's burial, I went to the sanctuary to pay my only token of respect to the give her memory a tear, even though her children had none to shed. "She was a good mother in her day, and toiled hard to bring us all up; she was no comfort to herself and a burden to everybody else!"

The cruel heartless words rung in my ears as I saw the coffin borne up the aisle. The bell tolled long and EDITOR AND PUBLISHER. over the signature of Mr. Moran himself. loud until its iron tongue had chronicled the years of the toil worn mothclearly and almost merily each stroke told of her once peaceful slumber in her mother's arms, and of her seat at nightfall on her father's knoe. Six, seven, eight, nine, ten, rang out the Stale of her sports upon the greensward, in the meadow, and beside the brook. Eleven, twalve, thirteen and fourteen, spoke of her school days, and little household joys and cares. Sixteen, seventeen and eighteen, sounded out the enraptured visfons of maidenhood and dreams of Hair fore the hanny bride. Twenty snoke Business Card, 1 square, one year..... 12.00 fore the happy bride. Twenty, spoke of the young mother, whose heart was full to bursting with the new strong love which God had awakened stroke told of her early womanhood of the loves and cares, and hopes and fears, and toils through which she passed during those long 'years till fifty rang out harsh and loud. From that to sixty each stroke told of the warm-hearted mother and grandmother, living over her own joys and sorrows in those of her children and children's children. Every family of er then, and the only strife was who should secure the prize. But hark ! The bell tolls on, seventy, seventyone, two, three, four. She begins to grow feeble; requires some care; is not always patient or satisfied. She goes from one child's house to another, so that no place seems like home. She murmurs in plaintive tones, that after all her toil and weariness it is hard she cannot be allowed a home to die in; that she must be sent, rather than invited, from house to house. Eighty, eighty-one, two, three, four. Ah! She is a second child, now. 'She has outlived her usefulness; she has now ceased to be a comfort to herself or anybody." That is, she has ceased to be profitable to her earthcraving and money-grasping chil-

Now sounds out, reverbrating through our levely forest, and echoing back from our 'hill of the dead, eighty-nine. There she lies now, in her coffin, cold and still. She makes no trouble now; demands no love, no soft words, no tender little offices. A look of patient endurance-we fancied also an expression of grief for unrequited love-sat on her marble features. "She was a good mother in her day." When the bell ceased tolling the strange minister arose in the pulpit. His form was very erect, and his voice strong, but his hair was silvery white. He read several passages of Scripture expressive of God's compassion to feeble man, and especially his tenderness when grav hairs are on him and his strength faileth. He then made some touching remarks on human frailty, and of dependence on God, urging all present to make their peace with their maker, while in health, that they might claim his promise when heart and flesh failed.

THE ALDINE.

An Illustrated Monthly Journal, Universally admitted to be the Handsom-est Periodical in the World. A Representative and Champion of Taste.

Not For Sale in Book or News Stores. THE ALDINE, while issued with all the egularity, has none of the temporary for sely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pur , light and graceful literature: and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimen of artistic skill, in black and white. Al-though each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the real-value and beauty of THE ALDINE will b appreciated after it has been bound up at the close of the year. While other publicasolutely without competition in price of character. PREMIUM FOR 1874. Every subscriber to THE ALDINE for he year 1874 will receive a pair of chromo the year 1874 will receive a pair of chromos. The original pictures were painted in oil for the publisher of the THE ALDINE, by Thomas Moran, whose great colorado picture was purchased by Congress for ten thousand dollars. The subjects were chosen to represent "The East" and "The West." One is a view in The White Mountains, New Hampshire: the other gives The Chiffs of Green River, Wyoming Territory. The difference in the nature of the seenes themselves is a pleasing contrast. se nes themselves is a pleasing contrast, and affords a good display of the artist's scope and coloring. The chromos are each worked from thirty distinct plates, and are in size (12 x 16) and appearance exact fac-similes of the originals. The presentation of a worthy example of America's greates landscape painter to the subscribers of THE ALDINE was a bold but peculiarly sappy idea, and its successful realization s attested by the following testimonial, NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 20th, 1873 Messrs, James Sutton & Co.

Gentlemen, -1 am delighted in the proofs in color of your chromos. They are wonchanical process of the original paintings.

Very Respectfully,

(Signed,) THOS, MORAN.

These chromos are in every sense American. They are by an original American process, with material of America manu-"Six Months" "..... 1.50 process, with material of American scenery by an American painter, and presented to subscribers to the first successful American Art Journal. If not better because of all this, they will e riginly possess an interest no foreign production can inspire, and neither are they any the worse if by reason cost the publisher only a trifle, white equal in very respect to other chromos that are sold singly for double the subscription price of THE ALDINE. Persons of taste will prize those pictures for themselves—not for the price they did or did not cost, and will ap preciate the enterprise that renders their distribution possible.

If any subscriber should indicate a preference for a figure subject, the publisher will send "Thoughts of Home," a new and beautiful chromo, 14 x 20 inches, representing a little Italian exile whose speaking eyes being the longings of his heart.
