The Democratic County Convention

Albany, June 12, 1874.

The Democratic State Convention, called to meet at Albany, N.Y., convened Monday morning, and was addressed by Governor B. B. Brown, who delivered an able and forcible address. The convention then proceeded to the election of the platform committee, which was elected unanimously. The following is the platform:

1. The State will have to provide for the support of the public schools.
2. The State will have to provide for the support of the public schools.
3. The State will have to provide for the support of the public schools.
4. The State will have to provide for the support of the public schools.
5. The State will have to provide for the support of the public schools.

The convention then proceeded to the election of the executive committee, which was elected unanimously. The following is the executive committee:

J. B. Smith, President.
J. B. Smith, Secretary.

The convention then adjourned.

J. B. Smith, President.
J. B. Smith, Secretary.