THE ENTERPRISE.

OREGON CITY, OREGON, SEPT. 25, 1874.

JUSTICE'S COURT.—The Justice's court has been rather lively during the week. On Friday last, a slight altercation took place between three of our citizens, in which one of the pugilists carried off, as his portion of the spoils, carried off, as his portion of the spoils, as black eye, another escaped from the terrible conflict without a scratch, and the third being more generous, deposterrible conflict without a scratch, and the third, being more generous, deposited with the proper officials a sufficient ited with the proper officials a sufficient amount of the filthy lucre to satisfy the demands of justice. On Monday a the demands of justice. On Monday a moon-eyed Celestial, employed in the moon-eyed Celestial, employed in the generous part of the factory had a discovery bed moon-eyed Celestial, employed in the weaving room in the factory, had a dispute with the superintendent of that department. Mr. Henry Rogers, durdepartment, Mr. Henry Rogers, durdepartment, the Chinaman struck Rogers, ing which the Chinaman and also a cripple, who is a small man and also a cripple, when another man came to the rescue of the superintendent. All the Chinamen then quit work, and had both men arrested. The trial was postponed men arrested. The trial was postponed until 10'clock Tuesday, whereupon the Chinamen refused to go to work. In order to save time and further trouble Mr. Jacob, the President of the Com-Mr. Jacob, the President of the Com-pany, agreed to pay the fines and costs if the men would plead guilty, which they did. Work was resumed as usual they did. Work was resumed as usual on Tuesday morning. From what we can learn, we are of the opinion that both men were entirely justifiable in
