A LIVELY WOMAN ON THE TRAPEZ. Says a correspondent of the Hudson Democrat: I saw it at the Front Street Theater. It was a woman who did it. She had been doing everything on the trapez, way up on the top of the theater, 30 feet above the stage. She had wheeled around one trapez so rapidly that she seemed a glittering hoop, and unclasping her hands, had flew ten feet through the air to catch another, and at last she came down and stood upon the stage directly under and 30 feet below the ropes and bars where she had lately been performing.

She seemed about 18, was dressed showed a fine, compact (though slight) and graceful figure. Her Her feet were close together, her Albof which I now offer for sale at the hands by her side, the body inclined a little forward. I noticed also that she winked rapidly as if she was expecting a blow.

Under her feet was wi to be a round spot upon the stage, allow myself to be darker in color, and just large enough to stand upon. While I was looking at her there came a crash, and she disappeared. I did not see her go anywhere, but ments, believing as I do that found her directly upon the trapez. She had been shot from a powerful spring, 30 feet directly upwards, with the velocity of a bullet from a gun, and had caught in the trapez

All I wish to say is the other evening by a Miss of five and twenty for not taking another wife. She urged that he was hale and hearty and deserved a matrimonial messacate. The Judge acknowledged the fact, admitted that he was convinced by the eloquence of his convinced by the eloquence of his fair friend that he had thus far been very remiss, and expressed contrition for the fault confessed, ending with offering himself to the lady, telling her she could not certainly reject him after pointing out to him his heinous offense. The lady replied that she would be most happy to take the situation so uniquely advertised, and become bone of his bone and flesh of his flesh, but there was one, to her, most serious obstacle. "Well," said the Judge, "name it. My profession is to surmount all such impediments." "Ah, Judge, this is beyond your powers.
