Enterprise, Otenon

DEVOTED TO NEWS, LITERATURE, AND THE BEST INTERESTS OF ORECON.

VOL. 10.

OREGON CITY, OREGON, FRIDAY, MARCH 17, 1876.

NO. 21.

THE ENTERPRISE.

NEWSPAPER

Farmer, Business Man, & Family Circle.

ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY. FRANK S. DEMENT

PROPRIETOR AND PUBLISHER.

OFFICIAL PAPER FOR CLACKAMAS CO OFFICE-In ENTERPRISE Building, on seor south of Masonic Building, Main St

Terms of Advertising:

For each subsequent insertion.. One Column, one year. Quarter" Rusiness Card, 1 square, one year.....

SOCIETY NOTICES. OREGON LODGE NO. 3, I. I. O. F.

Meets every Thursday evening at 7% o'clock, in the Odd Fellows' Hall, Main street. Members of the Or-der are invited to attend. By order

REBECCA DEGREE LODGE NO 2, I. O. O. F., Meets on the Second and Fourth Tuesare invited to attend.

& A. M., Holds its regular communications on the First and Third Saturdays in each month, at 7 o'clock from the 20th of Sep. o'clock from the 20th of March to the | Marine. 20th of September. Brethren in good standing are invited to attend. By order of W. M. By order of

FALLS ENCAMPMENT NO. 4, LO O. F., Meets at Odd Fellows' Q Q Hall on the First and Third Tues-day of each month. Patriarchs in good standing are invited to attend

BUSINESS CARDS. A. J. HOVER, M. D. J. W. NORRIS, M.

HOVER & NORRIS PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS. #7 Office Up-Stairs in Charman's Brick Main Street. Dr. Hover's residence—Third street, at

DR. JOHN WELCH DENTIST,

OREGON CITY, OREGON. Highest Cash Price Paid for County

HUELAT & EASTHAM,

ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW

PORTLAND-In Opitz's new brick, 30 OREGON CITY-Charman's brick, up

JOHNSON & McCOWN

ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELORS AT-LAW Oregon City, regon.

Will practice in all the Courts of the State. Special attention given to cases the U.S. Land Office at Oregon City.
5apr1872-tf.

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, OREGON CITY, : : OREGON

L. T. BARIN

Will practice in all the Courts of the

H. E. CHAMBERLAIN, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW OREGON CITY.

Office in ENTERPRISE Rooms.

JAMES B. UPTON. Attorney-at-Law, Nov. 5, 1875 #f

W. H. HIGHFIELD. Established since '49, at the old stand Main Street, Oregon City, Oregon.

An assortment of Wathes, Jewelry, and Seth Thomas' Weight Clocks all of which are warranted to be as thankful for past patronage. JOHN M. BACON. IMPORTER AND DEALER In Books, Stationery, Perfum-ery, etc., etc.

Oregon City, Oregon.

At the Post Office, Main stgeet, easi TO FRUIT-GROWERS.

THE ALDEN FRUIT PRESERVING "M Company of Oregon City will pay the plied. HIGHEST MARKET PRICE or PLUMS, PEARS and APPLES.
Mr. Thos. Charman is authorized to purchase for the Company.
L. D. C. LATOURETTE,

THOS. CHARMAN, Secretary. Oregon City, July 28, 1875 af

MILLER, MARSHALL & CO., PAY THE HIGHEST PRICE FOR WHEAT, at all times, at the Oregon City Mills,

And have on hand

AN HOUR TOO LATE.

BY PAUL H. HAYNE. I have loved you, oh, how madly!
I have wooed you softly, sadly,
As the changeful years went by;
Yet you kept your haughty distance, Yet you scorned my brave persistence, While the long, long years went by.

Now that colder lovers leave you,
Now that Fate and Time bereave you (For the cruel years will fly),
In your beauty's pale declension
You would grace with condescension
The love that touched you never
When your bloom and hopes were high.

Ah! but what if I discover That too long in antique fas tion
I have nursed a fruitless passion, Whose rage and reign (thank Heaven!
Are passed at length and over—
That Fate hath locked forever Love' golden Eden gate?
There's a wrong beyond redressing,
There's a prize not worth possessing,
And a lady's condescension
May come an hour "too late!" May come an hour "too late!"

CONDEMNED TO THE NEVA.

A Sketch of Russian Justice.

It was the anniversary of Washington's Birthday, and I had accepted an invitation from the officers of the venture. It was after dinner, the table was ornamented with decanters, cigars abounded, and all hands ashis audience, began as follows:

One evening in December I droptablishment known as Dromleski's wonderful. salon. It was the resort of Princes, noblemen, diplomats, and, in fact, the elite of the city congregated

At the door I was accosted by an old fellow bent with age, and wrapped in rags which fluttered painfully in the icy wind. He asked for a few coppers, and I tossed him a rouble, which act compelled me to unbutton my coat, and expose partially the nniform I wore.

I caught a glimpse of the mendicant's eye fastened upon me. It was sharp and piercing as the point of a entlass. The next instant I was mingling with the gay throng who crowded the spacious apartments.

A suppressed hum of voices, mingled with an incessant metallic clink. was heard on all sides. The favorite game was rouge-et-noir, and I blush to acknowledge it, gentlemen, but I proceeded to tempt the smiles of the fickle jade. It was my maiden attempt. Success crowned my most reckless efforts, leaving me a winner of over $7,000.

I had attracted considerable attention, and one gentleman in particular I had noticed watching me. He was attired in the gorgeous uniform of an Imperial Hussar; and his pale. aristocratic features, dark eyes, small pointed mustache, and gleaming white teeth were in perfect accord with the hussar bearskin with its pendant top.

"You are a favorite of fortune," he remarked, in excellent French, saluting me gracefully at the same time. 'Allow me;" and handing me his card, I read: "Alexis Deghestan, Lieutenant Fourth Hussars.

We took a turn to tue banquetroom, where the gay soldier related a hundred amusing anecdotes, characteristic of high life in the metropolis. Titled dignitaries and officers of high rank in the army were freely spoken of in such terms of easy it timacy, that led me to suppose he enjoved more than ordinary favor. In fact, he hinted that the Grand Duke was his patron, and offered to introduce me.

ing upon accompanying me to my hotel. I freely confessed to being an utter stranger in the -ity, with no acquaintances; but Deghestan assured me time should not lay heavily on my hands.

"By-the-way, the Prince Simenovskoi entertains to-morrow evening. "Tis a bal-masque. I have cards, so for you. Here is your hotel; and now adien.'

vas favored in securing such a friend, and at the appointed hour I was ready, attired in the full-dress uniform of my rank. I heard the clank of the Lieutenant's sabre on the staircase, and the next instant he appeared in a magnificent uniform, with two jeweled orders on his breast. "All ready, Lieutenant? Good;

but I would not advise you to take much money with you, especially after having gained the reputation of being a beavy winner at Dromleski's." "My money is all banked," I re-

"Good again. But seriously. Lieutenant,"—and the hussar's eyes looked into mine with an earnest expression-"St. Petersburg is very much excited just at present over the mysterious workings of a gang to whom are attributed a number of the imminent danger I was in effecmurders which have put the entire tually aroused my dormant energies. detective force to their mettle. In every instance the victim has been a absorbing consideration. The room man of wealth. The Czar himself is was destitute of furniture, save the spite her efforts to the contrary, she agitated on the subject, I understand. rude bed I occupied, one chair, and I merely tell you this, my dear a table. A single window admitted

Adjusting our masks, we entered the drosky Daghestan had in waiting, which soon set us down before the alace of the Princess, which was in a blaze of light. The grand stair-case was crowded. In the confusion, the Lieutenant dropped his cards of invitation as the majordomo demanded them; the pressure became greater, and we were swept on, despite the hussar's struggling to the contrary.

Such magnificence and exhibtions of wealth I had never witnessed before. I scarcely missed Daghestan, who had been summoned from my side, and in a maze of delight I wandered into the spacious gardens attached to the palace. The rare shrubs and exotics filled the air with perfume, the gleam of Chinese lamps cast a subdued light over all, while the distant strains of the military band floated dreamily to my ear. I paused in the shadow of a silk cloak, which concealed her face and person, passed rapidly by me. A sharp low cry of pain burst from her lips. She staggered as if about | your banker?" U. S. revenue steamer Searcher to to fall. I sprang forward, caught dine with them and spend the even- the lady in my arms; at the same ing. The Captain was also an invited | time the cloak fell back, revaling a guest, from whose lips I heard the face beautiful as an angel's, and a tempted an anchorite.

The lady r. covered, blushed and gently disengaged herself from my Alexis Daghestan. sumed positions of ease, as Captain | encircling arm, which I had been in gus you brew occasionally. Well, so vast an assembly. But she left this; a fellows Hall. Members of the Degree I'll tell you. Twenty-five years ago so ill, it was impossible for her to cantly. I found myself in St. Petersburg. remain. I begged to be allowed the "And if you succeed?" I inquired. I had been granted an extended leave | honor to offer my escort, stated that | anxiously. MULTNOMAH LODGE NO. 1, A. F. of absence by the Department, while I was an American and an officer, 'Then, dead men tell no tales, an indulgent father provided the and, after some little hesitation, the necessary funds to support the style fair one accepted the proposition. as he turned to replace the irons on and dignity I considered incumbent | Her hair, which had escaped from its | my wrist. upon a Third Luff in the Revenue fastenings, fell in wavy masses over her bare shoulders, streaming in wild disorder amid the shimmer-

> ment I had neglected to obtain my own greatcoat.

> My epaulets and gold lace gleamed painfully in the starlight; the fair lady murmured apologies in my ear, which I endeavored in vain to answer, but my teeth were clicking to gether like a pair of castanets. Fortunately the lady accorded me a generous portion of her thick cloak, or I should have perished.

> The ride was not over lengthy. I building, looming up before me,before which the drosky stopped The lady threw aside the robes. I assisted her to alight; and, hurrying forward, the door was opened by a lackey in livery, who ushered us into a room elegantly furnished, and heated by a glowing coal-fire.

With her own hands the lady brewed a portwine negus, notwithstanding my remonstrances, which she insisted upon my drinking. My eyes looked unutterable things as I raised the glass to my lips; she smiled in return, and down went a portion of the beverage. But it had such a singular flavor, that to from my misty eyes, the room ap- liberty. peared to revolve before me, and the next instant I relapsed into insensi-

The sun was streaming through e windows when I unclosed my eyes. Strange, wild, and nameless they had committed. Could it be lowed at once. be ready in full uniform. I will call attempted to wipe the moisture from of my companion, I was enabled to minded of the doom which had over-been duped-lured to my ruin. Almost before I was aware of it of their plans and designs. "Is he sleeping yet?" muttered will be missed, -the police will be airu at the unconcions scoundrels. incited to fresh efforts,-and the city is getting too hot to hold us now." 'He will come to by sunset, and upon the premises.' Together they left the room, and Escape was now my first and all- agony on the floor, he grasped the swiftly by.

The gloom of night enveloped the room, and the gleam of a candle ap- low. prised me that the masked stranger was about to visit me a second time. In silence he approached the bed. "You are awake at last, I perceive?" "I am: what is the meaning of all this ?"

"You will ascertain full soon enough, I fancy. But to begin with, sign this!" and he placed writing materials on the table. I pointed to my irons, which he precaution, however, to cover me with the muzzle of a pistol. I glanced at the paper I was to sign. It was a check on my banker which sparkled on his left breast. for every dollar I possessed in the miniature fountain; at the same world. But I was powerless to retime a lady closely wrapped in a fuse and I obeyed the mandate. The fellow took the checkglanced at it keenly: "Is this the

> "It is." "And is this the precise form in which you sign your name?" I answered in the affimative, when his mask, revealing to my astonished gaze the well known features of "There is no occasion for further Ratler, with a preliminary survey of no hurry to withdraw. She begged concealment between us. You have presence, and rejoined my friend, for getting drunk at Victoria. me in French to call her brother, been cleverly duped, as many a bet- the detective, who, in deep silence, You have often wondered, Station- then countermanded the order saying ter man has been before you. I shall conducted me from the building. bill (the First Lieutenant), why I it would be really impossible for draw this check to-morrow. If I fail Upon reaching the drosky I found it despise port-wine, especially the ne. | me to discover an utter stranger in | you will make the acquaintance of | surrounded by a mounted squad of | gus you brew occasionally. Well, so vast an assembly. But she felt this; and he tapped his pistol signifi-

was the harsh and startling response,

ped into the magnificent gaming es. ing folds of her dress. It was truly helplessly across the bed from a the stars shining like so many brilpleasure of seating myself by her my astonishment, gentlemen, when I entire party debouched upon the side. But in my hurry and excite- recognized my friend the mendicant smooth, frozen surface of the River who had accosted me at Dromieski's. | Neva. His bent form, fluttering rags and trembling voice were but a portion of his disguise. In fact, he was a Knowing that I was an American, watch me, thinking I might tempt the cupidity of the mysterious gang. When he heard of my exploit at the gaming table he redoubled his attention. He listened to the conversacaught a glimpse of a dark, gloomy | tion which passed between the sup- | guard began at once to cut a large posed Lieutenant and myself, atunperceived, to the rear of the > and myself to the den of the gang. port-wine negus, eh?

(The detective's health was duly peared. honored, the Captain glanced at the clock, and continued):

My friend of the police force had effected his entrance into the headsave me I could not finish the con- quarters of the rascals by means of Almost instantly I felt a nausea at his way through dark cellars and my stomach-so much so that I rooms-watched the movements of attempted to leave the room. I the inmates until he had succeeded from my sleep. struggled to utter an apology, but in ascertaining the location of the the words rolled forth thick and room where I had been confined. indistinct. An unconquerable drow- Watching his opportunity, the brave siness overpowered me. I leaned my | fellow had turned the tables, but we head back; visious and fantasies tor- | were not yet free. Two well-armed mented me. The lady's figure faded desperadoes stood between us and

I appropriated Daghestan's pistol,

We passed into a dark hall, which horrors distracted me. Where was short staircase was descended, which spite the changes she had undergone, I? My limbs felt cramped and con- opened into a large room, partially I felt my heart beat wildly as our fined. Drowsiness oppressed me lit by the shining light of the stars eyes met. Together we sallied forth into the still; again I slumbered-awoke, pouring through the frost-covered cold, clear air, the Lieutenant insist- with lips parched and brain on fire. windows. A door at one end of the woman stood motionless as a statue, The misery and pain I endured at apartment was ajar, through which the stern word of command falling that time will never fade from my poured a strong ray of light. The unheeded on her delicate ear. murmur of voices reached my ears; A cold tremor ran through my the detective stole cantiously forheart as I thought of the warning ward, pressed my hand with a sig- dealt by the brawny arm of a brutal Alexis had given me, - the mysteri- nificant pressure, at the same time | Cossack; the lash cut deep into the ous gang and the strange murders drawing his pistol, an example I fol- unfortunate woman's flesh, who possible I was in their power? I Glancing over the broad shoulders forward, as she was so terribly remy brow, but manacles prevented witness all that was transpiring taken her. ed the drugged wine.

The fair decoy occupied a chair two men, masked and well-armed, some distance apart from two brawny superb watch and chain on the stood beside my bed. I was still rascals who were sitting before the table), and while you gentlemen are mentally confused, but I feigned coal-fire. To gain the street-door, sleep, breathing heavily, as if in a it was necessary to traverse the room, deep stupor, for the purpose of but it would have been madness to throwing them off their guard and have attempted it in the face of these gleaning some idea as to the nature desperadoes, who fought with halters around their necks.

The detective touched me on the "Elkarine must have given arm-the door swung noiselessly him a fearful dose. The young cub back, enabling us to take deliberate The woman suddenly glanced toward us, her eyes dilated with terror, but before the scream could burst when once he signs, understand, I from her lips, it was drowned in the will take care that he is not found report of the two pistols. The room was filled with smoke, but the detective had taken his bearings correctly. While I bounded forward to guard the two rascals writhing in mortal woman firmly in his arms, and, de-was bound hand and foot.

drels had secured me beyond the He bade me wrap up warm, and possibility of escape. In despair I prepare to accompany him without listened to the strokes of a neighbordelay. He was extremely reticent as ing clock, as hour after hour glided to what was required of me: but I to what was required of me; but I felt too grateful to press a subject which I saw annoyed the brave fel-

Hastening down stairs, we jumped into a drosky, which started off with the speed of a whirlwind. Drawing up in the shadow of a huge building, we alighted. The detective, taking me by the hand, led the way through a narrow passageway, ascended a steep spiral flight of stairs, knocked in a peculiar manner at a door, whispering in my ear to walk forward. I obeyed, the door closed behind me, and I found myself face to face with immediately removed. taking the a tall, commanding personage dresaed in a semi-military uniform of green cloth, devoid, however, of all insignia of rank save a jeweled order

He greeted me with a pleasant smile, extended his hand, shaking 8th. mine cordially, inquired my name, rank and nationality, and concluded as follows: usual way in which you draw upon "Through you I have been enabled to break up a desperate gang of murderers who for some time have bade defiance to all law and authority. Accept this souvenir as a reminder of your adventure; and now details of the following thrilling ad. neck and shoulders that might have the stranger deliberately removed you will accompany the officer in Big Horn and Owl Creek mountains. waiting, who will consummate the last act of this piece of villainy by a stroke of Russian justice.' I bowed low, retreated from the police. On one of the seats, clad in I tilla and Wallula is becoming quite a thin shirt and loose pair of pants, lively. cowered a figure which I immediately recognized as Alexis Daghestan. I could scarcely repress a cry of astonishment as I seated myself by his side; but a significant gesture from the detective, as he leaped into But, quick as lightning, a dark the vehicle, froze the exclamation on figure bounded from an obscure cor- my lips. It was a bitter cold night, ner of the room. Daghestan fell the mercury ranging far below zero, blow dealt him by my unexpected liants in the vault overhead. Not a I assisted to arrange the warm ally, who secured the rascal, even breath of air was stirring, and the folds of her wraps, obtained the to gagging, before I fully realized bells from the Kazan Cathedral were Templars meets at Salem about the number of her drosky, and had the what was going on. But, judge of tolling the hour of midnight as the middle of June.

Once I had attempted to wrap the half-frozen prisoner in a spare bearskin robe, but the detective preventdetective, and a very elever one, too. ed me; and his features, naturally dict for the plaintiff for $6,537,117. stern in their expression, assumed the order was given to halt.

We were midway in the river where the tide under our feet was sweeping forward at a headlong rate. With business-like precision the hole in the ice, until the black, rolltended the fete, and finally clung, ing waters were revealed. The prist of Willamette. oner, who had relapsed into a state drosky which conveyed the fair one of semi-insensibility, was now brought forward and placed on the horrid All this he related to me in a rapid | brink. Then I realized the terrible on grounds of economy (?). whisper, and, as I owe my life to his | nature of the criminal's punishment. remarkable nerve and valor, I will I turned away, sick and faint with propose his health. The brandy horror; at the same time a splash stands with you, Stationbill. You broke distinctly on the still air. begin to perceive now why I dislike When I again turned toward the group the white figure had disap-

The lady who had used her fatal beauty so successfully as a decoy I was fated to meet once more. It was Convention to vote for Bristow for while driving to the railway station, | President. for I was anxious, more than anxious, basement window,-had groped to leave forever a country the recollections of which even now at times cause me to start with a cry of horror

A long train of wretched, woebegone-looking creatures for a few moments delayed my progress. A guard of Cossacks accompanied the party. whom I immediately recognized as exiles banished to the wilds of Siberia. Despite the rude, shapeless garb which now formed her attire, it could the detective had one of his own, and not conceal the matchless form of without further delay we left the her who had so nearly lured me to my death. Her wealth of golden hair had disappeared 'neath the rude | Linkville on the 8th of April next, my companion rapidly threaded. A | hands of the prison officials; but, de-

It was only for a moment, but the thong whistled through the air. screamed and leaped convulsively

Here is the souvenir which I received on that memorable night (placing a examining the relic, I will join you, Stationbill, in a good-night glass.

In South Carolina, during the past month, thirty-three illicit distilleries have been broken up, twenty-eight comique, on the 9th, he then put a copper stills, caps and worms, and bullet into his own heart, and is 48,000 gallons of mash and beer have probably no Moore by this time. been captured. Forty-four of the illicit distillers have been arrested and bound over for trial.

Heiser & Co., bankers of New and alternates to the National Con-York, deny in toto the statement at- vention. tributed to Fred Mitchell, of Kansas City, to the effect that they stated President Grant had received a gold mine ring, for inducing Schenck to law, forty-seven medicine and fiftybecome director, and that the draft | six literature and science. was negotiated through their house.

News Column.

Coos county jail is tenantless. Coquille city has a literary society. Empire city has a large sick list. Destructive floods are reported in cio are shouting "vive L' Empereur!" The Alsea Indians are to be removed to the Siletz reservation. M. Faure gets $60,000 for two months' singing on the continent. The Royal Academy elected Gladstone professor of ancient history.

Canada West.

Indians ran off 30 head of horses near Custar City on the 4th inst. The Cubans have sold their filibustering steamer Octavia.

Chicago had a $25,000 fire on tl Turks are murdering Christians in The O. & C. R. R. Co. paid $3, 700 taxes in Lane county, for 1875. Linn county grangers complain of chicken thieves.

Work is to be commenced on the Esquimalt dry dock without delay. Poor Lo only goes to jail one day

A new bank is to be started at

The President has nominated Abner Waters, of Salem, U. S. marshal for the district of Oregon. Thos. McF. Patton has been nominated, by the President, appraiser of merchandise at Portland Summer Lake, in southeastern Oregon, claims to have the best climate of any valley east of the mountains. The State Grand Lodge of Good

Hon. P. L. Willis of Salem has quit law and gone to stock raising, up in Wasco.

Belknap was formally arrested on and a stranger, he determined to harder cast in the dim starlight as the 8th, and placed under $25,000

The jury in the case of the People vs. Wm. M. Tweed have found a ver-

A gambler, known as Irish Hank, shot himself through the head in San Jose last week. Samuel Hannah has been confirmed Collector of Customs for District object to the Fort Canby telegraph, The President has nominated R.H. Dana, of Massachusetts, Minister to England, vice R.C.Schenck resigned. Rich mines are reported on Deadwood and Whitewood creeks, 65 miles north of Custar. Wyoming has instructed her delegates to the Republican National

The grand jury of Multnomah co. visited the insane asylum on the 8th inst, and report it as being in an ex-

The Republicans of the French Chamber of Deputies will command 350 votes against 80 or 90 Bona-The Irishmen of Portland are to celebrate the anniversary of Ireland's White is orator of the day. The Democratic county convention of Lake county will be held at to nominate county officers.

patron saint in grand style. R. C.

A subordinate Senate of the Unied Order of Reformers has been organized at Antioch, Jackson county, with twenty-five members.

wholesale by snow plows on the Censend a load there. Mr. John Durham of Salem was John Orth, of Jacksonville, will eries," soon ship to San Francisco 1,000 me. Then it was, gentlemen, I began within the apartment. It was the Gentlemen, do you wonder now at pounds of deer skins, which makes Gentlemen, you must admit that I to relize, and vividly, too, that I had self-same room where I had swa.low- my aversion to port-wine negus? 3,000 pounds he has forwarded since may be cured in one minute, and the tree which he was falling.

A San Francisco dispatch says the ship Isaac Jeans, loaded with lumber from Puget Sonnd, went ashore of alum, then mix it with about twice outside the South Heads on the 9th. No lives lost; ship a total wreck. Edgar Moore shot Mabel Hall, a ballet girl of the St. Louis theatre

The Republican State Convention and talk about how pretty the blushof Missouri will be held at Jefferson | ing young men look as they modestly City, May 24th, to select delegates go in.

women now studying at the Univer- cast an evil shadow over what would draft for $20,000 from t'e Emma sity of Michigan, four have chosen otherwise be everywhere known as

Forty-five persons have been in-Mr. J. E. Higgins, a shipbuilder dicted in Maryland, by the grand islands, a group south of Iceland, of considerable experience, is at jury of the U. S. district court, for are probably dying of starvation. Well, gentlemen, what followed is Olympia looking after a site for a violation of the enforcement act of The fisheries failed last year, and FEED and FLOUR
Lieutenant, to place you on your light, but it was heavily barred by soon told. That night, as I was on ship yard and dry dock. He repretosed, must furnish sacks. Parties desiring absent from your side, avoid all cles from my wrists, but the seounce of Bath, Maine.

Lieutenant, to place you on your light, but it was heavily barred by soon told. That night, as I was on ship yard and dry dock. He repretosed in intimidating and hinder the heavy seas in winter make it seems from your side, avoid all cles from my wrists, but the seounce of Bath, Maine.

Lucrezia Borgia's Youth.

Lucrezia was born April 18, 1480. Her childhood was doubtless spent in her mother's house, which stood on the Piazza Pizzo di Merlo, a few steps from the cardinal's palace. The quarter in which she lived was one of the liveliest in Rome. It was on The impulsive Bonapartists of Ajac- | the way to the Bridge of San Angelo and the Vatican, and was the residence of numerous merchants and bankers from Florence, Genoa, and Siena, besides many papal officers and distinguished courtesans. Here Lucrezia continued to live until, at some unknown time, she left her mother's house to pass under the protection of a woman who exercised great influence over the cardinal and the whole Borgia family. This was Adriana Mila, daughter of Don Pedro, a nephew of Calixtus III., and the cardinal's own cousin. At this time she was the widow of Ludovico Orsini, and on terms of the greatest intimacy with the cardinal. It is impossible to learn anything about Lucrezia's early life and education in Adriana Mila's house. She may have spent some time in a convent for the purpose of receiving her religious education, which alone was given by these establishments. Lu-Rich mines are reported in the crezia's education was not such as to raise her above her sex in any considerable degree, although, according to the notions of the day, it was complete. She was instructed in the languages, music, painting and drawing, and her skill in embroidery was much admired afterward in Ferara. The French biographer of Bayard said of her in 1512: "She spoke The shipping of freight to Uma- Spanish, Greek, Italian, and French; Latin a little, but very well; and wrote and composed verses in all these languages.

When Lucrezia was old enough to comprehend the domestic relations in which she was living, they must have produced a strange impression on her mind. Her mother's husband was not her father; she and her brothers, as she must early have learned, were children of a cardinal, which scandalous relation was disguised by treating them as nephews and nieces. She soon learned how common such relations were: that most of the cardinals were absorbed in richly providing for their children. She saw the sons of Pope Innocent VIII. attain high honors, one of them, Franceschetto Cibo, marrying the daughter of Lorenzo the Magnific

Gregorovius remarks that Lucrezia was probably more struck by what there was brilliant and desirable in this relation than by its immorality. Whatever might have been her feelings, they must have been dulled by the immoral tone of her surroundings. When she was nine years old her father fell in love with the celebrated Julia Farnese, the wife of Adriana Mila's son. It is characteristic of the times and persons, that after The army staff officers at Portland | Adriana had discovered her daughter-in-law's dishonor, she should have made herself a sharer in it by encouraging it, and thus strengthening her already powerful influence over the eardinal .- Prof. T. F. CRANE, in Harper's Magazine for March. How SHE WOULD DO IT .- A hater of tobacco asked an old negro woman, the fumes of whose pipe were annoying to him, if she thought she was a Christian.

'Yes, brudder; I 'spects I is." "Do you believe in the Bible?" "Yes, brudder!"

"Do you know that there is a passage in the Scriptures which says that nothing unclean shall enter the kingdom of heaven?" "Yes, I've heard of it." Well, Chloe! you smoke, and you can not enter the kingdom of heaven, because there is nothing so unclean

as the breath of a smoker. What do you say to that?"

"Why, I 'spect to leave my breff' behind when I go dar?" A SCIENTIST IN A RHAPSODY.—It is said that Prof. Tyndall proposed to the daughter of Lord Hamilton in a letter beginning: "Saccharine conglomeration of protoplasm. Adorable combination of matter and force! Rarest product of infinite evolution!" and continuing in the same Chinamen are being killed by the strain. The closing appeal is as follows: "Deign, O admirable creature, The sharp ring of a leathern tral Pacific R. R. Why can't we to respect that attraction which draws me toward thee with a force inversely proportional to the squares of the distance. Grant that we shall be accidentally killed last week, being | made double suns describing concenstruck on the head by the butt of a tric orbits, which shall touch each other at all points of their periph-

> Croup.-Says some one: Croup remedy is simply alum and sugar. The way to accomplish the act is to take a knife or grater and shave off in small particles about a teaspoonful its quantity of sugar, to make palatable, and administer it as quick as possible. Almost instantaneous relief will follow.

It is proper during leap-year for young ladies to loaf around church

"Dancing is no sin," says an Ohio clergyman. "It's the fights among Of the one hundred and seventeen the boys on the way home which an innocent amusement." Seat your partners. 500 inhabitants of the Westmanna

COURTESY OF BANCROFT LIBRARY,