Who Should Bow First.

Who has not heard ladies express mild surprise because some man who had been presented to them had not bowed to them on the street, at the theatre, or in the drawing room? If you ask them, "Did you recognize him?" they will be apt to reply, "Oh, no; of course not. He should have spoken first." Being reminded of the well defined etiquette bearing on the subject, they are likely to add: "I know that very well; but no woman wants to take the initiative. Men should do that; it's their business; it doesn't belong to us; no one expects us to make ourselves so bold." The truth is, the majority of women are accustomed to man paying court to them, to his making the first advance in everything, that they can't find it in their sexual sensitiveness, in their severely conventional selves, to obey a mandate they originally issued, and still insist on perpetuating. Not one woman in ten thousand has any fault to find with the rule; in fact, we have never known a woman to object to it. Nevertheless, she seldom follows it in her own case. Sometimes a woman says, as a sort of self justification, "Supposing I should speak to a man on meeting after an introduction, and he should not remember me! How awkward I should appear; how overwhelmed I should be with shame to observe that he did not speak to me. I can't afford to place myself in a position to seem to be cut by any man." If any number of women feel thus, the point of etiquette should be changed to save their sensibilities. In truth, however, the objection is not well made. There is not the smallest danger that any man, presuming him, of necessity, to be a gentleman, at least in respect to his observing the ordinary forms of courtesy, would refuse or hesitate to return the acknowledgment of a woman, even though he might not have the remotest recollection of ever having seen her before, or though he were convinced she had confounded him with somebody else. And the fact that he had been recognized by a woman would be the strongest presumptive evidence that he had been presented to her. Men are not likely either to forget their femenine acquaintances, or mistake Mrs. Thompson for Mrs. Robinson, or Miss Blank for Miss Dash.—Appleton's Journal.

The Philadelphia Commercial List says of the rejection of the clause in Morrison's tariff bill relating to the duties upon tea and coffee: "The tea and coffee clause of the tariff bill has been thrown out, together with the compromise suggested by the chairman of the committee of a tax of five cents on tea and two cents on coffee. Aside from the influence which the re-imposition of the duty on tea and coffee would have on the Presidential election next fall, and which neither party in Congress would care to confront, there can be no doubt that it commends itself to all thoughtful and practical men. If additional revenue be really needed there is no measure by which it can be so easily and economically secured as by a moderate tax on tea and coffee. However, it has gone by the board, for the present, of course out of tender regard for the interests of the poor workingmen and their wives and families, and not with any reference to the fall election or the workingmen's votes."

Lucy Hooper, in a recent Paris letter, says: Alas for those women nowadays who have not faultless forms! Dresses are to be gored away and tied back until the female form devine can no longer be numbered among the mysteries of the earth. Corsage and sleeves are to be as plain as possible, and must fit like wax. Overskirts are no longer to be worn on house or evening dresses.

It is lamentable to think that so many young ladies of comparatively good bringing up, will, after their forefinger becomes girdled with a pearl engagement ring, become so unladylike as to keep continually poking it in everybody's face with whom they come in contact.

A remark which Mr. Conway heard old Thomas Carlyle make to a distinguished American: "America is a great country; but no system can last which would give Jesus and Judas precisely the same vote on public affairs."

What a mother lacks in skill she makes up in enthusiasm when she cuts her boy's hair. The back of his head my look like thunder, but every scollop is a right vision of devoted affection to the understanding mind.

When a hoodlum in 'Frisco told Dr. Mary Walker to "pull down her vest," she replied that it was one of her "vested rights" to wear it under her chin if she wanted to.

"Can you see me, dearest?" said a Chicago man to his dying wife. "Tell me, can you see me?" "No," she faintly whispered, "but I can smell your breath."

Who are suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon laid at the altar of suffering humanity. DR. SPINNEY will guarantee to forfeit $500 for every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage; remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the Doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill, or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave. THE WEEKLY SUN.

1776. NEW YORK. 1876.

Eighteen hundred and seventy-six is the Centennial year. It is also the year in which an Opposition House of Representatives, the first since the war, will be in power at Washington; and the year of the twenty-third election of a President of the United States. All of these events are sure to be of great interest and importance, especially the two latter; and all of them and everything connected with them, will be fully and freshly reported and expounded in THE SUN.

The Opposition House of Representatives, taking up the line of inquiry opened years ago by THE SUN, will sternly and diligently investigate the corruptions and misdeeds of Grant's administration; and, will, it is to be hoped, lay the foundation for a new and better period in our national history. Of all this THE SUN will contain complete and accurate accounts, furnishing its readers with early and trustworthy information upon these absorbing topics.

The twenty-third Presidential election, with the preparations for it, will be memorable as deciding upon Grant's aspirations for a third term of power and plunder, and still more as deciding who shall be the candidate of the party of Reform, and as electing that candidate. Concerning all these subjects, those who read THE SUN will have the constant means of being thoroughly well informed.

THE WEEKLY SUN, which has attained a circulation of over eighty thousand copies, already has its readers in every State and Territory, and we trust that the year 1876 will see their numbers doubled. It will continue to be a thorough newspaper. All the general news of the day will be found in it, condensed when unimportant, at full length when of moment; and always, we trust, treated in a clear, interesting and instructive manner.

It is our aim to make THE WEEKLY SUN the best family newspaper in the world, and we shall continue to give in its columns a large amount of miscellaneous reading, such as stories, tales, poems, scientific intelligence and agricultural information, for which we are not able to make room in our daily edition. The agricultural department especially is one of its prominent features. The fashions are also regularly reported in its columns; and so are the markets of every kind.

The WEEKLY SUN, eight pages with fifty-six broad columns is only $1 20 a year, postage prepaid. As this price barely repays the cost of the paper, no discount can be made from this rate to clubs, agents, postmasters, or anyone.

The DAILY SUN, a large four page newspaper of twenty-eight columns, gives all the news for two cents a copy. Subscription, postage prepaid, 55c. a month or $6 50 a year. SUNDAY edition extra, $1 10 per year. We have no traveling agents. Address, THE SUN, New York City.
