

THE ENTERPRISE.

OREGON CITY, OREGON, SEPT. 29, 1876.

Proposed Division.—We understand a petition has been presented to the Legislature by many citizens, praying for a division of Clackamas County. It is proposed to cut off the northern part of the county and to add it to Multnomah.

Runaway.—Last Saturday one of our farmers left his team standing on Main St. without taking the precaution to tie them. The horses desiring to look around town, went up the street at a rapid pace, and Louis Jagers immediately started them running away. They stopped them in front of the Factory.

A NARROW ESCAPE.—Last Wednesday morning Mrs. Capt. Jerome, accompanied by Mrs. Taylor and a little child, were riding in a buggy on the Clatsop road, when the morning train came flying past and scared the horse.

The animal commenced backing towards the river, and Mrs. Jerome managed to get Mrs. Taylor and the child out before the carriage touched the bank, and she only jumped out when the hind wheels were going over. The horse became entangled in the harness and was drowned. If it had not been for the wonderful presence of mind displayed by Mrs. Jerome the whole party would have most likely been crushed by the wheels of the train.

Joe THEM.—A prominent citizen informs us that four young boys, a bottle of whisky and a lighted lantern were located in the barn in the rear of the M. E. Church last Saturday night, and people living in that vicinity were unable to sleep on account of the noise arising from the drunken hoodlums. It is almost a miracle that they did not set the barn on fire, as they were tumbling over the lighted lantern. Their names have been given for publication, but we refrain until the next time.

Proposed Division.—We understand a petition has been presented to the Legislature by many citizens, praying for a division of Clackamas County. It is proposed to cut off the northern part of the county and to add it to Multnomah.

Runaway.—Last Saturday one of our farmers left his team standing on Main St. without taking the precaution to tie them. The horses desiring to look around town, went up the street at a rapid pace, and Louis Jagers immediately started them running away. They stopped them in front of the Factory.

Twenty.—In order to conform to the latest mode in the way of dresses, all underclothing has to be done away with, and the person forced into glove-fitting fashions of chamois leather. We don't advise our young lady readers to do this, but if they do, they will, of course, they will suit themselves.

Lectures.—Mrs. L. Shepard lectured at the Y. M. C. A. Rooms on Monday evening and at the M. E. Church Tuesday evening. Her subject was "Temperance," and she made it rather warm for old King Alcohol.

Home Again.—Miss Jennie Vinson, of Pleasant Hill, who went to Eastern Oregon about six weeks ago on account of her health and to visit her relatives, returned home last Monday morning.

Among the names of Oregonians registered at the Centennial recently, we notice that of Mr. Frank Fry, formerly superintendent of the Aid on Fruit Preserving Co. in this city.

Mr. H. W. Scott, of Portland, will address the Hayes and Wheeler Club this (Friday) evening. The Young Ladies' Glee Club will furnish music for the occasion.

Improvements.—A correspondent from the Ad informs us that Mr. S. Spindlin, Huelat, who is confined in the Asylum at East Portland, is improving rapidly.

A gold cuff button was found last Tuesday by Mr. Daniel Tackelberry. The owner would like the same by proving property.

Mr. ASA SAUNDERS represented the M. E. Church of this city in the State Temperance Union at Salem on the 19th inst.

Mrs. Jas. Graham has our thanks for a stick of a Golden Banded Lily, which has over twenty flowers on it.

Mr. J. G. Bonnett has a fine span of draft horses, harness and a new wagon for sale cheap. Read his ad.

Always Growing.

EDITOR ENTERPRISE.—The name of Senator Mitchell seems to affect the Editor of the Oregonian as water is popularly supposed to affect animals afflicted with hydrophobia. No sooner does that name meet the editor's eye than he goes into convulsions and snarls and snaps at a rate that should cause his friends some concern.

The other day it was stated in the associated press dispatches that the Senator had been invited to make some political speeches in Ohio, which bit of news threw the editor into a spasm, the effect of which was quite apparent in the same issue of the paper in which the dispatch appeared; but on learning that Mitchell had the assurance to address the people of Ashland a few days since he relaxed into a condition which most certainly occasioned his friends much uneasiness.

It was but a few months since that the mention of Judge Williams, name had a similar effect upon the said editor, but there are present hopeful symptoms of a partial recovery in that quarter.
