Capt. J. W. Cochran and wife returned on the last steamer from San Francisco. Mrs. C., who has been in Southern California for the past winter on account of her health, has suffered a considerable benefit from the change of climate.

A Brighted Life. A few mornings since an Oregon City matron called to see her young married daughter, who resides on — street, and found her weeping bitterly.

"O mother, take me home, my heart is broken," sobbed the daughter, throwing herself into her mother's arms. After her tears had somewhat subsided, the mother said:

"Hardly a year married and here I find you in tears. What does this mean? Has — been unkind to you, or does your father intend to divorce you?"

"Come, come, child, cheer up. Tell me why you think him untrue to you. Does he show it?"

"Yes, the heartbroken reply. 'O, the soul-rending! O, the viper!' she gasped. 'My poor dear child, do not despair, your mother will do her best to help you.' She'll bring that villain to his knees, but what insult has he offered you, my child? Speak, tell the cause."

"O mother, I can't!" "You must, my child; tell me what the heavens fall, what outrage has he committed?"

"He swore last night when I put my cold feet to his back, sobbed the daughter. 'I that all?' gasped the mother. 'Yes, but he swore before me. All last winter he never said a word when I put my cold feet to his back, and now I know he does not love me. The cold feet are his tears, but she said to me, the poor girl's tears broke out afresh. Before the mother let she managed to convince her mother that all the world was hollow, and that the hollow of a man's back is not the place for his wife's cold feet."

MILINERY GOODS.—Mrs. E. D. Kelly has a larger and finer stock of hats, flowers, silks, ribbons, etc., for the summer of 1877, than ever, and is fully prepared to attend to the wants of her many lady customers in a manner never exceeded before.

Scott's Mills.—Several Clackamas county witnesses in the case of State vs. Moran and never heard of Scott's mill, where Moran says he stopped the night after leaving this city. This is one of the oldest mills in the State, erected at least 50 years ago, and is situated on the South bank of Butte creek, being in Marion county. It was at one time known as "Noland's Mill."

DELEGATES ELECTED.—At a convention of delegates from the subordinate Granges of Clackamas county, held in Oregon City on the 10th of April, 1877, Arthur Warner, R. V. Short, J. W. Blackwell, Mrs. Rachel Thompson, Mrs. Elizabeth Warner and Mrs. Mary Short, were elected representatives to the State Grange which meets in Salem on the fourth Tuesday in May.

BURGOLARS.—Some of the light-fingered gentry visited the residence of Mr. Woods, in the rear of the Cliff House, last Monday, and carried off a small sum of money and several valuable articles. A young man who left the hotel the same evening, and who had the hotel bill is suspected, and the police are endeavoring to trace the law are looking for him.

ANGORA FLEECES.—The Farr Alport Company, of Holyoke, Mass., has written to this State that it will buy all the Angora fleeces raised in Oregon. Prices range from 25 to 50 cents, according to length and fineness of the wool, and to the quality of the fleece.

The case of Hallet Kilbourn of Washington against Sergeant at Arms Thompson of the House of Representatives, an action for $10,000 damages for assault and battery and false imprisonment, was decided at a general term of the Court of the District of Columbia, on the 22d ult. Kilbourn refused, it will be remembered, to answer certain questions when he was before the "Real Estate Pool Investigating Committee" of the House of Representatives, and was committed for contempt. The court held that Thompson was justified, as he was only executing the order of the House of Representatives, and overruled a demurrer of Kilbourn, two of the five judges composing the court dissenting.

Hon. Stanley Matthews is credited with saying that "office-holding for public good is but calling out instincts of the highest, best and noblest sense." Every office-seeker has those instincts developed to perfection. When he is installed in office, however, comes into play and public good becomes subservient to private interest. Mr. Matthews' phrase is a very pretty thing in the abstract; but he will have to open a school to make it result in enduring lessons.

A Chicago bankrupt has been sent to the penitentiary. Ah! That's a new feature in bankruptcy. Now for statistics to show how many failures are out of Joliet that ought to be in.
