Beecher and the Chinese.

We learn by the dispatches that H Ward Beecher says we are in danger of repeating toward the Chinese those errors we were guilty of toward the African. "If." says Mr. Beecher, "this great and civilized people cannot endure the contact and presence of the Mongolian race, it is right that they should lose their religion, and their civilization, and their vannted christianity." The speaker then goes on in his undignified yet humorous strain to suggest that we go into the business of swapping the heathen that we send some of ours to China and supply their places with Chinese heathens. And so he gees on, not seeming to comprehend that he is discussing a purely industrial question from a semireligious standpoint. The consequence is, his arguments do not touch the question. All he said has no more relation to the Chinese question, as it presents itself to Oregonians, than it has to the Russo-Turkish war. The question is not whether the christian religion can stand the contact with heathenism, nor whether American civilization can bear close comparison with Asiatic civilization, but whether the American laborer can compete with the Chinese laborer without sinking from the condition to which our civil zation has raised him. All other aspects of the Chinese question are as nothing compared to this. When the Chinese come here as la borers- to pitch the man without family station or condition to support. against the American working man, with his ideas of rank in the classes of society, the advantage is with the individual of the lower type of civilization. The Chinese laborer can work for less and live comfortably for less than the American laborer, simply because his civilization is lower. Necessity has compelled him to cut loose from responsibilities of all sorts and concentrate all his faculties to the task of supporting himself. It follows that the American laborer cannot compete with the Chinese without descending to their level. Mr. Beecher's argoment is that it is better that Americans be reduced to the social level of the Chinese than that the latter should be prevented from landing on our shores. In this Mr. Beecher shows himself rather a man of theory than of practice. In theory all men are free and equal--in practice, individuals are permitted te create inequalities as they can, and profit by them. The Chinese are not objected to on account of their morality, or rather lack of it nor on account of their religion or want of it, but on purely industrial considerations-because Americans feel that it is better to muntain the American standard of compensation for labor, and preserve our intelligent, aspiring and well educated working classes, than to lower the rates of labor to the Chinese standard, and thus make inevitable their methods of economy, accepting a civil ization in which men are compelled to shirk responsibilities, and women live by the sale of their bodies.

Blue Glass.

The blue glass mania did the reni rid part, but when it came to the conquering it seems to have changed its mind. It has had its day, and every one has had his joke at its expense. We learn from an exabange that for a time it was the principal article of import on ocean ships. Factories enlarged their working faculties to produce it. Builders had it inserted in the windows of their dwellings. Reams of paper and gallons of ink were used to extol its praises. The press spoke of its virtues from one end of the earth to the other. There were but few people in fact who did not believe it was going to become the great panacea, and it is exceeding unfortunate that their hopes should have been so suddenly disappointed. It has gone as clean out of sight as the

"Fryer process" or "Keelar mortor." Those Oregon editors who had piec s of this glass put where it would throw its azure hue upon their massive brows while inditing editorials to revolutionize the world bave lost faith in science and are now greater skeptics than the scientific men themselves. fairs, and what renders it all the more distressing is that the unfeeling world refuses to sympathise with the patriots who are struggling about, wondering on which side of the field their party is. It is all in vain that the bravest among them attempt to emulate that benighted Indian who, when asked if he was lost, struck his bosom and said: "No, wigwam lost; Indian here." Those among them who insist that the party has gone astray, and that they are still on the true path, are obliged to ask themselves what is the use of leading where nobody follows, and to explain how it happens that in sticking to the true path they are keeping step with the worst class of those whom they regard as their worst bull dispatches about the silly quo cut in halves, others with their legs enemies? Wendell Phillips finds himself reinforced in his attacks on the President by the New York Sun: Packard cannot objugate more bitterly than the Portland Standard; and if these examples are types of the true party policy, then true Republicanism looks very much like true Democracy, or else true Democracy has got to be about the same thing as true Republicanism.

This sounds very absurd, but it is no exaggeration of the true position of the opposition to the President's policy. The Portland Standard, which opened out all the resources of its blackguardism upon him as soon as he was nominated, continues its attacks with the hopeless imbecility of a blue bottle fly buzzing against a pane of glass, and its vacuous immitators chirp in feeble cho-"slave hound" Cabinet; Chamberlain (on the day before he opens his law office in New York) that the President abandons them; Packard, before stepping from the Governor's chair to the Collector's office, tells the Republicans of Louisiana that the President who ed them. If it is worth while to at- coln.' tempt to evolve some order out of this confusion of opposition, we may say that the Republicans who are opposing the President are playing into the hands of the fanatics of the Democracy who swear by Noltuer and his Standard, for we may be very certain that the followers of the Standard are not going to render any service to that portion of the Republican party which is represented by Phillips, Blaine and Wade at the North, and by Packard and Insane Aslum at Steilacoom. Chamberlain at the South.

This view of the situation may not give much consolation to the patriots who are looking for their party, but it does not matter very much. The great majority of the American people refuse to join in opposing the President's policy, because such opposition comes from blind and stupid fanaticism on one side, ning by the 1st of August. and on the other from fears which may never be realized, and also because they have too much sense either to oppose or approve a policy before they know definitely what the policy is. incurable; that once its roots take hold upon a victim, there is no chance for a sufferer to escape a lingering and terrible death; a death surrounded by all that is disgusting and hor-rible, not only to the suffer, but to his friends. Happily this fell destroyer need no onger be teared. Dr. H. T. Bond, of Phila-delphia, a well known physician, of large experlence, has for four years devoted himself o the special study and treatment of Cancer, and the result of his experience is his discovery f r the radical cure of Cancer, without the use of either knife, caustic or plasters and without pain The majority of persons are greatly deceived in regard to the first symptoms and appear ance of this most dreaded disease, considering it painful from the commencement. This is a sad mistake, carrying thousands to an untimely grave. If you have a branny scaly warty appearance, with an occasional break-ing out of these upon the face, lip or nose, or any other portion of the skin, attended with any of the above symptoms, or a sensation of a fly being on it, or a hair tickling it, is certain evidence it is Cancer, and there should be no delay in using Dr. Bond's treatment. Life is too valuable to be tampered with. Pr. Bond's treatment consists of an "Antidote" that is applied locally: this at once ar-rests the growth of the Cancer, and by chemical action neutralizes its malignity, render-ing it harmless and changing it to a simple sore, which nature, assisted by constitutional remedies, soon heals (when the skin is unbroken, and the Cancer is a hard tumor, the broken, and the Cancer is a hard tumor, the Antidote does not make an open sore, but removes it by absorption) In connection with the Antidote is used the Specific, taken internally. This tones up the general health, strengthens the patient, purifies the blood, and eliminates the poison from the system. Dr. Bond's Antidote contains neither caustic nor poison, and can be applied to the most delicate tissues of the body without injury and therefore is the only remedy that can be used in internal tancer, such as cancer of the stomach, cancer of the womb, etc. Dr. Bond's remedies, with full directions for successful treatment will be sent to any part of the
