

Oregon City Enterprise.

DEVOTED TO NEWS, LITERATURE, AND THE BEST INTERESTS OF OREGON.

OREGON CITY, OREGON, THURSDAY, AUGUST 22, 1878.

VOL. XII.

NO. 44.

THE ENTERPRISE.

A LOCAL NEWSPAPER FOR THE Farmer, Business Man and Family Circle

ISSUED EVERY THURSDAY.

FRANK S. DEMENT, PROPRIETOR AND PUBLISHER.

Official Paper for Clatsop County. Office: In Enterprise Building. One door South of Masonic Building, Main Street.

Terms of Subscription: Single Copy, one year, in advance, $1.50; Single Copy, six months, in advance, $1.00.

Terms of Advertising: Transient advertisements, including all legal notices, per square of twelve lines, one week, $2.00.

For each subsequent insertion, 100 words, one year, $10.00; Half Column, one year, $6.00; Quarter Column, one year, $4.00; Business Card, one square, one year, $12.00.

SOCIETY NOTICES.

OREGON LODGE, No. 3, I. O. O. F. Meets every Thursday evening, at 7 1/2 o'clock, in Odd Fellows Hall, Main Street. Members of the Order are invited to attend. By order of N. G.

REBECCA DEGREE LODGE, No. 2, I. O. O. F. Meets on the second and fourth Tuesday evenings of each month, at 7 o'clock, in the Odd Fellows Hall. Members of the Degree are invited to attend.

FALLS ENCAMPMENT, No. 4, I. O. O. F. Meets at Odd Fellows Hall on the first and third Tuesday of each month, at 7 o'clock, in the Odd Fellows Hall. Members of the Degree are invited to attend.

MULTNOMAH LODGE, No. 1, A. F. & A. M. Holds its regular communications on the first and third Saturdays in each month, at 7 o'clock, from the 20th of September to the 20th of March; and 7 o'clock from the 20th of March to the 20th of September. Brethren in good standing are invited to attend. By order of W. M.

BUSINESS CARDS.

WARREN N. DAVIS, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. Office at Cliff House.

CHARLES KNIGHT, CASBY, OREGON. Physician and Druggist. Prescriptions carefully filled at short notice.

DR. JOHN WELCH, DENTIST. Office in Oregon City, Oregon. Highest cash price paid for County Orders.

E. L. EASTHAM, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW. OREGON CITY, OREGON. Special attention given to business in the U. S. Land Office. Office in Meyer's Block.

JOHNSON & McCOWN, ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELORS AT LAW. OREGON CITY, OREGON. Will practice in all the Courts of the State. Special attention given to cases in the United States Land Office at Oregon City. capr 72-1f

BLANKS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION FOR SALE at Wholesale and Retail. The Press can get anything in their line.

GEO. A. HARDING, Druggist and Apothecary. KEEPS CONSTANTLY ON HAND A GENERAL assortment of Perfumery, Soaps, Brushes, Combs, Trusses, Suspenders, Bandages, Surgical Instruments, etc.

PURE WINES AND LIQUORS FOR MEDICINAL PURPOSES. PATENT MEDICINES, ETC., ETC.

W. H. HIGHFIELD, Established since 1840. One door South of Pope's Hall, MAIN ST., OREGON CITY, OREGON. An assortment of Watches, Jewelry, and Gold and Silver Goods, all of which are warranted to be as represented.

JOHN M. BACON, DEALER IN BOOKS, STATIONERY, PICTURE FRAMES, MOLDINGS AND MISCELLANEOUS GOODS. FRAMES MADE TO ORDER. OREGON CITY, OREGON.

A. C. WALLING'S Pioneer Book Bindery. Pittock's Building, cor. of Stark and Front Sts., PORTLAND, OREGON.

OREGON CITY BREWERY. HUMBEL & MADDER. Having purchased the above Brewery, wishes to inform the public that they are now prepared to manufacture a No. 1 quality

OF LAGER BEER. As good as can be obtained anywhere. Orders solicited and promptly filled.

Smile Whenever You Can.

When things don't go to suit you, And the world seems upside down, Don't waste your time in fretting, Don't drive away that frown; Since life is oft perplexing, 'Tis much the wisest plan To bear all trials bravely, And smile whenever you can.

Why should you dread to-morrow, And thus despoil to-day? For when you borrow trouble, You always have to pay. It is a good old maxim, Which should often be preached: Don't cross the bridge before you Until the bridge is reached.

You might be spared much sighing, If you want to keep in mind The thought that good and evil, Are always here combined, There must be something wanting And though you roll in wealth, You may miss from your casket The precious jewel—health.

And though you're strong and sturdy, You may have an empty purse; And earth has many trials Which I consider worse. Fill up your mortal span, 'Till make your pathway brighter To smile whenever you can.

Jeanie's First Sorrow. BY SIDNEY THORNE.

Jeanie Moore was the prettiest girl in Groveland. "None knew her but to love her," the young man said, and old Farmer Moore was prouder of his one daughter, than of all his lands, and well he might be.

This summer Jeanie had come home from boarding school for good, and the old farm rang with her clear bird-like tones as she flew from room to room, leaving tokens of her dainty womanly presence everywhere.

Young Dr. Lowell had been a boarder at the farm for three years. When he had first seen Jeanie she had been a little school girl, quite willing to be taken to the grave young man's knee, and listen thoughtfully as he and her father talked.

But now things were quite different, and as Howard Lowell watched the graceful form crowned by the lovely flower-like face, and each day saw the pure unselfish nature unfold more and more, he grew to look upon her in another light, and to think that it would be very sweet to have that blooming face grow more bright at his approach than at any other.

So the days went by, and although no words had as yet broken the sweet silence, the two young hearts were knitting fast together when his story opens. Jeanie had changed from a shy, blushing school girl into a beautiful self-possessed maiden, conscious in her inmost heart of being loved, and of returning that love.

One evening, as they all sat around the cosy tea-table, little Fred, Jeanie's brother, bounded into the room, full of news which evidently seemed very important to him.

"Oh, father, the big house has been bought!" Now the "big house," as Fred called it, was the house of Groveland. High up on a hill it towered in its gray stone stables, and had been unoccupied for many years.

"Well, I'm glad of that," heartily exclaimed Farmer Moore. "It's a shame so much fine property should have gone to wreck and ruin so long, when it might have made such an ornament to the village. It had been unoccupied for many years."

"Yes, sir, it is a widow lady named Almer, and she has two daughters."

Dr. Lowell here gave a sudden start, which caused Jeanie to glance over at him, and to her surprise she saw that he was greatly agitated. His face was white as death, and with his lips parted he looked fixedly at Freddy, as if waiting to hear more.

Seeing his emotion attracted attention, he hastily arose and without speaking, left the room.

Jeanie's interest in Freddy's news was entirely lost in her wonderment over Dr. Lowell's strange demeanor. It was quite late in the evening before he rejoined them, and when he came back he was as self-possessed and quiet as ever, yet there was something peculiar in his manner, and Jeanie felt the change, although, unlike most women, she refrained from asking any questions.

It was true, "Waban Hall" had at last found occupants. Mrs. Almer and her two daughters were pleasant and unaffected, and it was not long before the new-comers became well acquainted in the village.

After a time Jeanie called to welcome them and extend the hospitality of the farm, and she returned home delighted with her visit. Mrs. Almer was so kind, and the girls, Ella and Ruth, so charming and friendly. Jeanie talked enthusiastically for some time about her new friends, and Dr. Lowell listened to all she said eagerly.

After a few weeks invitations came to the farm for a party to be held at the "Hall."

"Shall you go, little one?" questioned her father.

Jeanie looked up at Dr. Lowell, and was surprised again by the odd pallor of his face.

It was decided they should go, and the eventual evening arrived. The "Hall" was ablaze with light, and fragrant with the perfume of flowers, and as Jeanie entered the ball room, the doctor's arm, her girlish heart gave a great bound. She had been to but few parties, and youth loves life and gaiety.

But her pleasure that evening was not what she had expected, and as she lay in her own little bed at home that night, and thought over her lovers bewildering conduct, the pretty head buried itself in the pillows, and anyone listening might have heard smothered sobs.

A Great Tenor.

A correspondent of the Hartford Post writing from Rome, says concerning the Easter services: There were services in all the churches, but when they were no more than ordinary ones, except, perhaps, in St. Giovanni Laterano, where the music was a trifle finer.

The long walk home that evening had been taken in silence, and Jeanie's heart, all unused to trouble, sank very low, as she thought she had been unkindly in giving her love so freely, and now her punishment had come. Yet a heart once out of one's keeping cannot be called back suddenly without pain.

And this was only the commencement of her sorrow. Day after day Dr. Lowell was a guest at "Waban Hall," and Jeanie often saw him and Ella Almer rising or walking together. Farmer Moore never noticed how grave the wearisome face was growing, for with the pride of self-mannishness Jeanie kept her grief to herself.

She had made up her mind bitterly, that while she had been loving with all the fervor of a warm, impulsive heart, he whom she had thought so noble, had been only trifling with her—testing his powers of pleasing.

She avoided meeting him as much as possible, and so the time passed, until one morning as she rose from the breakfast table, Dr. Lowell said:

"Can you speak with me a little while, Jeanie? It is almost impossible for me to see you alone lately."

Never had his voice pronounced her name more tenderly. Was he about to make her a confidante of his new-found love? Jeanie raised her eyes quietly to his face, then answering, "Certainly," led the way to the library.

She seated herself, and he, standing before her, after a slight pause, began: "Jeanie, the time has come for this mystery to be explained, and I can tell you who I am."

"Who you are?" "Yes, you said, laughingly, 'I know! I am Dr. Howard Lowell, practicing physician, of Groveland; but that is not all. Listen, and I will tell you the whole story."

"My father died when I was ten years old, leaving my mother a widow with three children. I was the youngest, and the two girls and myself there was the most passionate attachment—indeed, we were all an unusually united family; but in three years my mother married again. Then my misery commenced. I cannot describe the persecutions my stepfather inflicted upon me, while I was all the children he seemed to hate.

Perhaps it was because of my then headstrong, impulsive nature. I was a passionate boy, and at last, driven desperate, I ran away from home and from my dear loved mother and sisters.

"Then for years I was driven where fate willed, working here and there at anything, no matter how menial, until at last fortune, in the shape of a kind old physician interested.

"Dr. Lowell saw and became interested in me, and when he died left me, his adopted son, his wealth, on condition I took his name, and never returned to the influence of my stepfather. And now Jeanie, comes the most wonderful part of my story."

"I have found my mother and sisters at last, free from the one who made my boyhood so wretched. Shortly after I left home my stepfather had taken his family abroad, and from then until now we had never met."

How I have longed to speak and declare myself! But, Jeanie, I feared that the prodigal who selfishly left all he held dear could never be forgiven; until last night my sister Ella spoke so tenderly and regretfully of the brother she had lost, I could keep silence no longer. I shall keep my dear adopted father's name, but Mrs. Almer, whom you already like so much, is my mother, and Ella and Ruth are my sisters."

Then, with an abrupt change in his voice, Dr. Lowell stooped and raised the soft, little hand which lay listlessly in the girl's lap, clasped it firmly in his own as he said:

"Can my darling wonder that my manner has been strange and unlike myself?"

The expression in his loving eyes made Jeanie flush and tremble, and as she was gathered to his manly heart she knew that she had come to the end of her great sorrow.

It was a happy evening that followed, when, in the "Hall" parlor, the newly found brother and sister brought the dimpled, blushing girl to his mother and sisters as another claimant for their love.

And right cordially they welcomed her. Old Farmer Moore was satisfied, too, for Jeanie and her husband will live with him, and the old farm will still echo the music of the bygone voice so dear to his heart.

It is rough work that polishes. Look at the pebbles on the shore! Far inland, where some arm of the sea thrusts itself deep into the bosom of the land, and expanding into a salt loch, lies girdled by the mountains, sheltered from the strong winds that agitate the deep, the pebbles on the beach are rough, not beautiful; angular, not rounded. It is here long white lines of breakers roar, and the rattling shingle is rolled about the strand, that its pebbles are rounded and polished. As in nature, so in art; so in life; it is rough treatment that gives souls, as well as stones their lustre. The more the diamond is cut the brighter it sparkles; and in what seems hard dealing, there God has in no end in view but to perfect his people.—Dr. Guthrie.

Neither a borrower nor lender be, for loan oft loses both self and friend; and borrowing dulls the edge of husbandry. This above all—to thine own self be true, and it will follow as the day the night, thou shalt not be false to any man.—Polonius, in "Hamlet."

Fruit Recipes.

PREPARED PEARS are put up the same, only pared. Leave stems on and fruit whole.

FRUITED PEACHES.—To every quart of vinegar add two pounds of sugar, spice, Boil and pour boiling hot over the peaches.

RASPBERRY VINEGAR.—One pint vinegar, three pints berries, one pound crushed sugar. Let them stand together a day or two; wash and strain. Boil twenty minutes and skim well. Bottle when cool.

TO CAN PEACHES.—One half pound of sugar to one pound of fruit. Put the sugar in the kettle with a half pint of water to one pound of sugar. Heat and skim and parboil them in the syrup ten minutes. Then while hot in cans and seal immediately.

RASPBERRY JAM.—Three-quarters of a pound of sugar to every pound of fruit; boil the fruit half an hour; mash and stir well; add the sugar and cook twenty minutes more. Gooseberry jam is made similar, only boil the fruit one hour first and another hour after the sugar is put in.—The Household.

SODA BEER.—Three pints strong beer, one quart molasses, three and one-half pounds brown sugar, simmered together and skimmed as long as scum will rise; three ounces tartaric acid dissolved in one-half pint of water, one and one-half pints of cold water, one and one-half pints of essence of lemon, winter green and saffron; bottle, cork and tie.

NECTAR.—Four ounces tartaric acid, four pounds white sugar, two quarts water. Simmer well together until it comes to a boil. When nearly cold add the whites of two eggs. When quite cold flavor with two tablespoons of lemon or orange extract. Bottle and cork well. For use, take a goblet nearly filled with water and two tablespoons of the syrup, to which add about half a teaspoon of soda. Stir and drink while foaming.

PREPARED CHERRIES.—Common sour cherries are best; stone and take pound of sugar to pound of fruit; take half of cup sugar and sprinkle over the fruit, let it stand about an hour, pour into a preserving kettle, boil slowly ten minutes, skim out the cherries, add remainder of sugar to the syrup; boil, skim and pour over the cherries; the next day strain the syrup, boil, skim and seal in small jars.

PREPARED QUINCES.—Pare, quarter and core the fruit, saving skins and cores. Put the quinces over the fire with just enough water to cover them, and simmer until perfectly tender, but do not let them break. Take out the fruit and spread on dishes to cool; add the parings and cores to the water in which the quinces were boiled, and cook one hour; then strain through a jelly-bag, and to each pint of this liquor allow a pound of sugar. Boil and skim this, then put in the fruit and boil fifteen minutes. Take it off the fire and let it stand in a deep dish 24 hours. Then drain off the syrup, and let it boil again, put in the quinces and cook fifteen minutes. Take out the fruit and spread on dishes to cool; boil down the syrup thick; put the fruit in your jars until two-thirds full, then cover with the syrup.

PEACH PRESERVES.—Pare and stone your fruit and cut in halves; weigh it, and allow one pound of sugar to one pound of fruit; crack each stone, extract the kernels, and put a few into your syrup (for flavoring) while cooking. Put a layer of sugar in the kettle first, then a layer of fruit, and so on until all is used; when it will warm slowly until the syrup boils fifteen minutes longer; stir well steadily until the peaches are tender and clear; take out with a perforated skimmer and lay on large flat dishes, crowding as little as possible. Boil the syrup almost to a jelly—that is clear and thick—and skim, fill your jars two-thirds full of the fruit, pour on the boiling syrup, and when cold cover with brandy tissue paper, then with cloth, lastly with thick paper tied tightly over them. The peaches should be ready to take out half an hour before the syrup boils fifteen minutes longer; stir often to let the scum rise, and skim.

ROMANCE OF A POOR YOUNG GIRL.—Cincinnati has a pretty romance of a poor young girl. The heroine was an intelligent but unpretending young girl, who believed in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position as waiter-girl in a popular boarding-house. She had previously been offered a position as governess, but preferred the other. The only advantage the boarding-house afforded over the store was that of family sympathy. Among the boarders was one advertising solicitor for a newspaper, with a very moderate income. Believing in the power of prayer, yet abhorred a living. She sewed in store as a house-keeper, and with work so laborious, that she gladly accepted a position