LUCKY DAKOTIANS.

It will be remembered that Eugene Speck, Maillard Bird, Henry Lewin and William Duncan together drew the second capital prize in the Louis iana State Lottery on ticket 61,503, in the drawing on the 13th ult. An Mr. Speck, who is a barber here, to see if he had secured his money and to find out how he was going to use it. Mr. Speck said: "Yes, we got a notification the other day to the eff of that the money was at the Sioux Falls National Bank. We went there and re. ceived $5,000 in cash for the money we put in. That gave us $1 250 apiece. Yesterday I bought me a house in Western Sioux Falls for $850. That is something I have always wanted and now that I have got one I will keep it. I am going to start for my old home in Switzerl nd next week taking along my family. Two others of the boys are going over to Scotland, besides putting their money into some excellent Sioux Falls real estate. We are willing to testify that the management of The Louisiana State Lottery is done entirely on the square and will heartily recommend it to any who want to risk a little for the sake of a chance of a big gain." Mr. Speck has lived here for a number of years and has many friends who are as pleased as he is at his good fortune. ACCIDENTAL INVENTIONS.

Origin of the Bayonet, the Telescope and the Art of Lithographing. The bayonet is said to have derived its name from the fact that it was first made at Bayonne, and its origin illustrates the proverb, "Necessity is the mother of invention." A Basque regiment was hard pressed by the enemy on a mountain ridge near Bayonne One of the soldiers suggested that, as their ammunition was exhausted, they should fix their long knives into the barrels of their muskets. The suggestion was acted upon. The first bayonet charge was made, and the victory of the Basques led to the manufacture of the weapon at Bayonne and its adoption into the armies of Europe. Not unfrequently an invention has been suggested by some trivial event, which would have passed unnoticed had not a man with eyes and brains seen it.

Argand, a poor Swiss, invented a amp with a wick fitted into a hollow cylinder, up which a current of air was allowed to pass, thus giving a supply of oxygen to the interior as well as to the exterior of the circular flame. At first Argand used .e lamp without a glass chimney. One day he was busy in his workroom, and sitting be fore the burning lamp. His little brother was amusing himself by placing a bottomless oil flash over different articles. Suddenly he placed it upon the flame of lamp, which instantly shot up the long, circular neck of the flask with increased brilliancy. It did more; for it flashed into Argand's mind the idea of the lamp-chimney, by which his invention was perfected. One day the children of a Dutch spectacle-maker were playing with several of their father's glasses before the door of his shop. Setting two of the largest glasses together, they peeped through them and were surprised to see the weather-cock of the opposite church brought close to their eyes. They called their father to see the strange sight. He looked through the glasses, and what he saw suggested to him the possibility of constructing a curious toy. Galileo, hearing of the toy which made distant things appear close at hand, saw at once what a valuable help it would be in studying the heavens. He set to work and soon made the telescope. An accident, that is the happening of something which was not planned, has often helped to an invention. It helped Senefelder to invent lithography. He was a sort of Jack-of-all-trades-a writer of verses and comedies, an actor, a fiddler, a painter, an er graver and a printer. He worked at etching on copser, but the coppersuith refused to let him have any more plates unless be paid cash for them. He then tried to utilize the old plates by rubbing off the etchings with a soft lime-stone. At last the copper became useless through many rubbings, and he tried etching on the stone, a plan that did not work very well. One day, while he was polishing off a stone which he intended to etch. "Now, young woman," began a of the linen which the washerwoman his mother asked him to write out a list was waiting to earry off. Not finding a slip of paper or a drop of ink, he wrote the list on the stone, with printing link prepared from wax, soap and lampshrill mimiery. "Who you talkin' to, black, intending to copy it at his leisure. young man? And which you take me A few days after he was about to wipe is writing from the stone. Suidan he thought he would learn what would be the effect of writing with the prepared ink on the stone, if it should be bitten in with aquafortis. He bit away to about the hundredth part of an inch, charged the lines with the ink, took severals impressions of the writing and discovered that he had invented the art of lithographing. - You'h's Companion. Bruce's Signaling Balloon.

Mr. Bruce's latest balloon is fifteen feet in diameter, and 2,000 cubic feet in espacity. It is made of varaished cambric, and is translucent. Six Edison and Swan lamps, of eight to ten candle power, are mounted inside; and the current is supplied by an E. P. Row the Conquered Conqueror Spent Ille Days at St. Helena.

Napoleon's life at St. Helena was so guarded from the knowledge of the her. islanders, and even of the officers of the garrison, that on the arrival of news papers from England, the first question asked was, "What news of Bonaparte?"
The great prisoner was known simply as "General Bonaparte," and by no other title. A code of signals was written out in a small book, by which Sir Hadson Lowe, his jailer, was kept informed of every movement of his imperial prisoner. When he took his daily ride within the prescribed boundary, the men, working the wooden telegraphs on the hills, sent such messages as these:

"General Bonaparte has left Longwood." "General Bonaparte has passed the guards." "General Bonaparte has left Longwood." "General Bona Interesting Legal Decision.

The general rule is that when a mechanic laboring for an employer. In the construction of a machine invents a valuable improvement, the invention is the property of the inventor, and not of the employer. It may be that when an employer hires a man of supposed inventive mind to invent for the employer an improvement in a given machine under a special contract, that the em ployer shall own the invention when made; the invention, if so made, would in equity become the property of the employer. -Jollet Kanufacturing Company vs. Dice, Supreme Court of Illinois
