The McMinnville College correspondent to the Pacific Baptist compliments Lyman and Nina Latourrette for their literary success. Of the latter's essay on "The Life and Character of Washington," the correspondent says diligent research was apparent and the essay was highly appreciated by the audience.

MARRIED.

HATHAWAY—DEATHE.—At the residence of John A. Ayres, in La Plata, Wednesday evening Feb. 10, 1893, by Rev. J. W. Moore, Mr. Charles Hathaway, of Pleasanton, Iowa, and Miss Della Deathe, of Oregon City, Oregon. The happy couple left on the coast-bound Santa Fe train Wednesday night for Chicago, where they will make their home.—La Plata (Missouri) Home Press.
They know how to cure rheumatism in Pennsylvania! Mr. J. P. Magham, a Pittsburgh cigar dealer, awoke one morning with an attack of rheumatism in his right arm. Working around the store during the forenoon made it worse. By noon the pain was so severe that he could not raise his hand to his head and had to carry his arm in a sling. One of his customers, on learning the facts, went across the street to E. E. Heck's drug store, and at his own expense procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and persuaded the cigar dealer to try it. He rubbed the balm on the swelling so that by the next morning he could use his arm, and by the second morning was entirely well. This is only one of the many severe cases of rheumatism that have been cured by the valuable remedy. 10-cent bottles for sale by C. A. Harding.
Elder B. F. Kitzinger of Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, says he had been suffering with a cold and cough, also his wife, that they took to using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and received great benefit from it. "Yes," says he, "it was so pleasant to take." For sale by G. A. Harding.
BERTHS.
WALDEN.—To the wife of N. O. Walden, March 1st, 1893 a son, weight 10 pounds.
BORTEL.—To the wife of Clarence Porter, February 26, a son.
DIED.
WILLISON.—Annie Bell, daughter of W. A. Willison, at Albany, February 18, 1893, aged 11 months.
Annie Bell Willison was born in Perry, Tennessee, April 14th, 1878, and was therefore a little more than eleven years old. She had been delicate from childhood but for the last three years had seemed strong and well, and was engaged to marry one of the sons of the family at last with an acute attack of consumption of the lungs which caused her death. She was always a spiritually minded child which grew upon her with her years and which seemed especially to develop in the last few months, inspiring her life for an abundant entrance into the kingdom. Her chief delight in her last days was in the promises of God, and the "Daily Light" a little book for daily readings which I presented to her at Christmas for bringing in the largest number of scholars, was her constant companion. As she neared the end she read more and more frequently, and with increasing joy the words of the beloved apostle John: "Now are we the sons of God and it doth not yet appear what we shall be, but we know that when he shall appear we shall be like him; we shall see him as he is." Little Annie's testimony and experience was that of so many of the children of the Sabbath school who have gone before, the seed soon springing up and bearing fruit for a golden gathering in their new home with Jesus. And if this witness to the love of Jesus and his saving power should be all that God had for her to do her short life has not been in vain, for in it many other little children may see the face of Jesus and find him as precious to them and their ones too, for "a little child shall lead them." We are told: "I should like to see a boy or a girl, a shepherd of some size, lift lamb to the Sunday school to nominate the life of this child of the King; let her school and play mates that they may follow her as she follows Christ; and that they may be the comfort to their parents that Annie was to know. W. O. Foster, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Albany.
WADE.—In Oregon City, on the afternoon of Feb. 8th, 1893, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wade, aged 2 years, 2 months and 7 days.
The little one was a sufferer for some weeks. He was first attacked with whooping cough, followed by pneumonia in each violent form as to battle the best medical assistance of the day.
"Let us cease our thoughts of sadness, For the child is happy now.
He has knelt in a heavenly gladness, When the blessed angels bow.
But he turns and smiles at his hand, Pointing to the glories of heaven, In that happy spirit land." X.
Hot Water Remedies.
In many emergencies hot water is not only easily obtainable, but also the very best remedy that could be used. A strip of flannel or oiled flannel, lengthwise and dipped in hot water and wrung out, and then applied around the neck of a child that has the croup, will usually bring relief in ten minutes. A towel folded several times and dipped in hot water and quickly wrung and applied over the back and neck will give generally affixed prompt relief. This treatment in cold works like magic. There is nothing that so promptly relieves shortness of breath, cold, cough, croup or rheumatism as hot water when applied promptly and thoroughly. Tepid water acts more slowly and is less effective. Cold water acts as a stimulant, and hot water taken freely half an hour before bed time is the best cathartic possible in the case of constipation, while it has a most soothing effect upon the stomach and bowels. This treatment continued a few months, with proper attention to diet, will cure any curable case of dyspepsia. Headache almost always yields to the simultaneous application of hot water to the feet and the back of the neck.—Hall's Journal of Health.
