For the ENTERPRISE. "Social and Political Rights." The following appeared as an editorial in the Oregon City Courier of the 11th instant:

The republicans do not weary of dilating on the suppression of the social and political rights of the negroes of the Southern states by their white neighbors. Now England is pur exulting the home of those who love the negro best, love him as a brother—or a sister.

I could enlarge on this, but enough has been said to show the difference between the republican and democratic parties. The one asks that all citizens, without regard to color, party ties, or social position, shall have the right to vote and have that vote counted.

The following committee was appointed on platform: Benton, C. C. Hogue; Clackamas, W. W. Myers; Coos, William Pullen; Columbia, F. W. McKinster; Clatsop, S. B. Smith; Douglas, Jas. Byron; Josephine, G. M. Miller; by proxy; Jackson, C. H. Wallace; Linn, J. T. Knox; Lane, A. J. Zumwalt; Marion, J. P. Robertson; Multnomah, S. A. Power; Polk, A. W. Lucas; Umatilla, I. N. Richardson; Wasco, Leslie Butler; Washington, M. E. Johnson; Yamhill, J. H. Bowman.

The committee on party organization recommended that the sum of $500 be raised to assist in circulating the Pacific Express till after the campaign. The report was adopted.

Political rights are those which pertain to civil government, based on the consent of the governed. The question involves the principle of "equal and exact justice to all men," as enunciated by Thomas Jefferson, and advocated by the wisest and best men of every political name in this country for a hundred years.

Such is the radical difference between the two parties. It may be that the Courier man's prejudices are so strong that he sees no difference between political and social rights, as I have tried to present it. But let him make the case his own for a moment, and he will understand the difference at once.

Meets Post No. 2, G. A. R. Department of Oregon. Meets first Wednesday of every month, at 7:30 P. M. in Odd Fellows Hall.

The central idea of the republican party is civil liberty and equality for all before the law. The question, "Liberty and Law—Law and Liberty—one and indivisible," covers the entire foundation on which the party rests.

But how is it with the democratic party? It favors neither liberty or equal laws. For twenty-nine years, or since the outbreak of the rebellion, it has been mainly a party of negations.

The republican party does not seek to legislate on the social problem. It would remove all obstacles which the oppressor has placed in the pathway of the negro, and then leave him, as it leaves all others, to find his own level—to rise or fall in the social scale as his genius, ambition, and moral and mental attributes, or the lack of these, may lead him.

But how is it with the democratic party? It favors neither liberty or equal laws. For twenty-nine years, or since the outbreak of the rebellion, it has been mainly a party of negations.
