He expects to be absent several months.

Mr. T. W. Sullivan, engineer and superintendent of the improvements at the basin and power house, is very busy enlarging the basin, and will build it 60 feet wider than it is at present. He is also putting two turbine wheels in the electric power house, which will add immensely to its capacity, and more dynamo will be added soon. Mr. Sullivan did the work on the Paper & Pulp mill which stood the freshest last winter. The work he is doing around the basin and power house is of the most substantial character, and will no doubt withstand the frosts, beside add immensely to the water power.

Mr. Sidney Smyth, county surveyor, has just completed platting and surveying the Bolton tract, a plat of which hangs in E. G. Caulfield's window. The plat is executed in an artistic manner, and reflects much credit to Mr. Smyth's skill as a draughtsman. The new addition will be called Bolton. It adjoins the W. T. & L. Co's tract, and is situated on the West Side of the river.

The owners of the property are E. G. Caulfield, Thos. Randall, and H. H. Johnson, and they have subdivided the entire tract, containing 60 acres into town lots, which will be placed on the market. This is a most desirable location on the bank of the river.
