LOCAL COMMENTARY.

Observations of The Reporter While on His Beat.

Fire Company—Business Men—Schools That Couple.

The Chicago Herald devotes a quarter of a column to a young lady, who has successfully run an engine in a laundry for three years. The Herald says: "To be a woman running an engine in real life is a genuine novelty. It is not only occasionally run engines in novels, on the stage, and so on, but a real live female engineer is a new sensation. Of course, this one is in Chicago, and her course she is young and pretty. They always are. The romance of the case is, however, cut out by the cold-blooded announcement that she is not doing it to save a husband, lover, or father, but because she is purely mercenary."

Oregon City can discount this boastful, Chicago novelty sensation, without going to the precincts of a wash house, where white girls have to compete with the heathen Mongolian. Miss Lou Cochran, a compositor in THE ENTERPRISE office successfully manipulates the engine that runs the press, and thoroughly understands the workings of the machinery to the minutest details. She handles the engine with more skill than any of the engineers who have preceded her, and is not like the Chicago girl, ashamed to let her work be known. Next she is accomplished to run an engine as a means of livelihood, as her parents are abundantly able to provide for her. Chicago may outdo St. Louis, but she can't hold a candle to Oregon City, the manufacturing metropolis of the Northwest.

One day last week an Oregon City lady was returning from a vacation accompanied by her two children. The younger a little bit of about four years, toddled down the aisle making friends with all the passengers. She carried a tightly wrapped package in her chubby right hand, plump, ripe banana. As she walked down the aisle she came to an old couple unmistakably from the country. The little one stepped and caught the woman's attention. She eyed the child through her steel bespectacles until she spied the banana. Her face lighted up and leaning over, in a high, shrill voice, she said, "Is that a banana?" The lady gravely nodded her head. "Well, won't you give me a piece?" In an instant the little hand went up, and the old lady took off a generous part, and the child, allers wanted her taste one." The child, steadily herself with her empty hands, gravely watched the woman eat the fruit and then, peering into her face with innocent blue eyes, asked her, "Is it good?" Funny incidents occur on the railroad.

Williamette Paper and Pulp Co. It is now an assured fact that the Williamette Paper & Pulp Co. will build a large factory at an early date for the manufacture of news and other papers. The machinery has all been ordered in the East, and will be ready to arrive in the next spring. Work will likely commence within a couple of weeks on the foundation, which will be constructed in the most substantial manner. The new building will occupy the entire space between their present building and the Crown Paper Mill, a width of about 300 feet. This company owns two of the largest paper mills in California, and are at an expense of $8,000 per month for coal used in their engines. This mill they have already expended one-half million dollars on their plant here, and hardly yet have begun active operations. There is no doubt but that this company will concentrate their principal interest here, as there is a vast difference between steam and water power as an item of expense.

The first expenditures of the company will be for the new paper mill, which will be especially made for the manufacture of news paper, and the latter building will be so arranged that machinery for making fine grades of paper can be added at any time required.

Verily, the greatness of Oregon City as a manufacturing center has not yet been conceived.

Contractors and builders are hereby warned not to contract for building a school house in school district No. 48, commonly known as the Mount Pleasant district, as the parties proposing to bid said contract are not a legal school board and hence any contract made with them is null and void. We also give notice that we are determined to resist in all legal ways the collecting of a tax voted by a gathering of citizens of said district on the 15th of September, as said action was obtained by gross misrepresentations and illegal voting, and as said gathering was not a legally constituted school meeting, having been called by men not legally qualified to do so.

J. W. Groat, Director elected at annual meeting. W. W. May, Joseph Walton.

Hitting The Right Nail on the Head. Salem Journal: The Journal is a republican paper, but it can see but little use for any discussion from a political standpoint. When there is no objection in Oregon for two years, what is the use of partisan editorials and red-hot political controversies? The only political business before the legislature is the election of a United States senator, and that can hardly be said to involve a contest. The main things promised the people all these platforms virtually agree on in theory, if not in details. Three-fourths of the business before the legislature is non-political, and the most important measures to be considered are purely of an economic character. What is the use of politics?

It will not be long until nearly all the little country papers will be ragging for John H. Mitchell who never yet laid off without buying out two-thirds of the country papers. One of them is a United States senator, and the other cost him $1200. The latter we believe claims to be a city paper.—Woodburn Independent.

The Independent evidently does not believe in settling out at extortion. Probably about $25 would suit the Independent.

At Modford, William Singer's son, about 10 years old, was "monkeying" with a giant powder can and a pin Sunday, resulting in a badly damaged hand.

Making Substantial Improvements of a Permanent Character. The Willamette Falls Electric Light Company are taking their poles and wire off Main street in Oregon City, and are putting up new poles made of cedar, six feet in length, along the railroad track from the power house to Seventh street at which place they are taken across the suspension bridge. The poles are bored for a distance of ten feet from the top them for ten feet to preserve them for years to come, and will be handily painted. The president of the company, Mr. E. L. Eastman, is having all improvements made in a most substantial manner. The removal of the wires from Main street shows the high appreciation in which the company regard the privileges of Oregon City, and the residents will not regret the expense. A very interesting liberal concessions in removal of wires where they will not endanger the lives of our firemen. Improvements of the most substantial character are being made in our power house, and will be permanent. A new roof is being placed over the building and the new wheels and dynamos being added will increase the capacity of the works to 1800 horse power. It is intended to supply Portland with electric power whenever the same is required or wanted, and the arrangements made such that the power can be increased, and bid low tender for supplying East Portland with electric lights. This is an institution of which Oregon City may well feel proud. It supplies Portland with electric light, and will before many days provide power for the city, while it is not only one of the possibilities, but one of the probabilities that the electric power from the Falls will become an inalienable right in propelling cars from Portland to Oregon City.
