CLACKAMAS COUNTY FRUITS

Are world-renowned. Her apples, prunes, pears, peaches, cherries, quinces, grapes and berries are unexcelled. They always take first premium at fairs and command the highest prices in foreign markets. As an industry fruit raising is yet in its infancy here notwithstanding.

THE ENTERPRISE.

CLACKAMAS COUNTY SOIL

Is deep and loamy with dry sub-soil, which gives it a special adaptability to fruit raising. Failures of crops are unknown in the annals of the county's history, while the yield is invariably large. Eastern people should make a note of these facts when seeking new homes.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, January 26, 1891.

Senator Aldrich will not state positively just when he will ask that the debate on the closure resolution shall be closed, as he does not care to furnish the democrats with a warning which may be, by some hook or crook, used to prevent or postpone a vote on that resolution; but I infer from his conversation and that of other prominent republicans that it will be certainly done this week, possibly within the next two or three days. There is no longer the slightest doubt about the adoption of the resolution by the Senate. It is the absolute certainty of the result that has caused the orders to go out from the democratic joss—Senator Gorman—which has resulted in the grand World's Fair bluff now being made by Southern legislatures and other organizations against the passage of the Federal Election bill. Sensible people can but smile at these tactics, whether they are specially interested in the Election bill or not; they will not change a single vote.

Speaker Reed has again become the target for democratic abuse, because he refused to sit in the Speakers chair and see the democrats tie up the House completely as they wished to do. After standing their senseless billibustering until it passed all reasonable bounds Mr. Reed pulled them up so short that he fairly made their eyes bulge in surprise; and the House resumed consideration of the annual appropriation bills, the only result of the flurry being that Mr. Mills has very badly damaged his Speakership boom by showing himself to be the owner of an uncontrolable temper and a tongue dirty enough to make him prominent in a gathering of Billingsgate fishmongers, two very undesirable positons for the presiding officer of a legislative body.

Senator Stewart has increased his popularity among the democrats by making another speech against the Elections bill.

The silver pool investigation is no panning out as sensational as was expected when it started out last with the testimony of Senator Nest concerning the speculating of Senator Cameron in silver bullion. Up to this time no other member of either House or Senate has been implicated, although a number of witnesses have been examined. I don't think there is any truth in the charge that is being made against the committee of being afraid to probe the matter to the bottom by summoning witnesses known to possess knowledge that will bring in men very prominent in both political parties. Representative Dingly who is chairman of the committee, has always seemed to me to be the man who had the courage to do his duty under any circumstances, and I have no doubt that he will do everything in his power to find out all there is in this silver business.

A delegation from the G. A. R. consisting of Gen Veasy, commander-in chief; Blue, of Kansas, chairman of the G. A. R. pension committee, and Col. Emory, of Washington, has been given a hearing by the House committee on Invalid Pensions, in behalf of a bill providing for a service pension for a large number of soldiers, possibly 250,000, whose cases are not covered by the dependent pension act of last year. The committee paid a careful attention to the arguments of these gentlemen, and it is believed that the committee would gladly report the bill if there was the slightest probability that it would be acted upon at this session, which, unfortunately for the poor fellows whose interests are involved, there isn't.

Senators Teller and Wolcot having withdrawn their objection the Senate has confirmed the nomination of ex-Senator Hill, of Colorado, to be a member of the International monetary commission, the duties of which are to consider the advisability of an international coin or coins. The nominations of Wm. A. Russell, of Massachusetts, and Lambert Tree, of Illinois, to be members of the same commission have also been confirmed by the Senate.

The Confederation of Industrial Organizations is the imposing name of the convention which has been in session for several days. This is the outcome of the proposition made at the late Ocalla convention for the formation of a third party. This convention has endorsed practically all the demands of the Farmer's Alliance, but its members are not favorable to the third party idea, in fact it is looked upon here as having been completely captured by the democratic party.

THE TOILERS' TRUST.

A Suggested Solution of the Modern Riddle of the Sphinx.

W. A. Wotherspoon, of this city, has in the last number of the Portland Reform Journal, a lengthy and timely communication under the above heading. Among other things he has this to say:

"Why is this proposition not just, feasible, practical. Follow me a moment. Let the national organization of producers issue certificates from one dollar to one thousand dollars in value, redeemable in products of the farm at market value at any alliance warehouse in the nation. Let the market value be fixed by fiat of the organization and as expressed on the certificate. Let farmers pledge themselves to deposit their wheat, corn, oats, rye, barley, hops, cotton, wool and tobacco in these alliance warehouse when constructed, and receive therefor these certates of deposit less a proper and just percentage for loss by reason of shrinkage and waste in storage. Who doubts that but that these certificates will pass at par with the lumber dealer, material man and mechanic to build these warehouses? Who doubts that these certificates will be worth 100 cents on the dollar with the merchant, clothier, grocer, publisher, mechanic, laborer? Who doubts that they will pass current with gold, silver, greenbacks, national bank notes or government certificates of any kind? Nobody doubts all this, and why? Because here we have the most gigantic trust in the world, the toilers trust. Here we control the destiny of civilization. Here we have a corner on bread, meat, drink and clothing. Life itself is in our hands. The world cannot subsist for 90 days without the product of the American farm. Who doubts that the hoarders of coin would "shell out," and gladly exchange dollar for dollar for these certificates if permitted to do so? How long would the mortgage remain on the farms? How long would a few thousand revel in riotous living while millions went hungry and in rags? Practical? Of course it is. Feasible? Why not? Break the back of the monster with his club of finance and all other reforms will speedily follow. In 30 days all other monopolies are at your feet down on their knees, for in your hands is power over life and death.

In 90 days after the perfection of the operation of this plan, the government of the politicians, by the politicians and for the politicians will be retired into a state "innocuous desuetude," the producer will be crowned king, and without the use of ballot, bullet or bomb, the world will be controlled and won by those who labor and who think. Why not?"

THEIR PLANS.

How the Grangers Would Solve the Financial Problem.

The following from a recent issue of the Eugene Guard, in a communication by F. M. Nighswander gives the financial plan adopted by the State Grange of Oregon and the National Grange:

First: Fix the amount of money for circulation per capita of population at fifty dollars. Let it be as now, gold, silver, gold and silver certificates, greenbacks and national money same as the hundreds of millions now printed and given the bankers on their bonds.

Second: Let our national government loan this money to the state at one per cent, interest, the same as bankers pay for it now.

Third: Let the state loan it to the counties at two per cent, one per cent thus going into the state treasury.

Fourth: Let the counties loan it to the farmers on their farms as security, to the amount of one-third or one-half their value, and at three per cent., one per cent going into the county treasury. The farmer would get his money on mortgages for one-third and in many cases one-fourth that he is paying now. That would reduce the burden of his debt three quarters. Think what a relief that would be to thousands of homes. But there is still more good in this plan. The one per cent that the county gets for the use of the national money goes toward paying county expenses, and that reduces the taxes of every farmer and tax payer in the county. The one per cent. the county gets for the use of the national money goes toward paying the state expenses, and this again reduces the taxes of the people. The national government still gets the same one per cent. for its money that it is now getting from one specially favored class of our people.

This Salmon Season.

The outlook for this season's salmon business on the Columbia, says the Astorian is more than usually gratifying. The latest news from San Francisco indicates that there will not be as many Alaska canneries operated this season as last, which will naturally improve the market for Columbia river fish. Although there is always a demand for first-class Columbia river salmon, it cannot be denied that when the market is stocked with other and inferior brands of fish, selling at lower prices, gilt edged goods are sure to feel the effect of the competition in reduced prices. This is because there is a large class of consumers who have not been educated to realize the difference between first-class Columbia river fish and other kinds. To many people fish is fish, and the fact that one kind is sold at a lower price than another is by them considered sufficient reason for selecting it.

So it is a matter for congratulation to canners on the river in preparation for the season's work. Last year there was little new material supplied. Old nets were patched and made to do duty for the short season that remained after fishing was commenced. The result of last season's prevailing economy in management, made the result to both canners and fishermen, less discouraging than it would otherwise have been. This year there will be more new gear than usual put into the water. Boats will have to be repaired and altogether considerable coin will be put in circulation. The market for our fish is constantly growing and there is every probability of a healthy demand for it at fair prices. Altogether the outlook is assuring to both canners and fisherman.

Still Booming.

Down at Hubbard they are still booming oil. At a public meeting, held Thursday night, it was decided to have the town incorporated. The Hubbardites laugh at less than a hundred dollars a front foot for corner lots and confidentially expect to soon to be the great metropolis of the northwest. Hubbard certainly has pretty good prospects, for there is no doubt about the oil being there. When water is pumped out of the well, on the place of Mr. Mills, the oil can be plainly seen on the stream that comes from the pump. Oil can be scooped off of the top of the water, and Thursday night they struck another and better lead farther up the creek, from which the oil pours out in a stream. Indications of oil have been found east of Gervais and around here two miles south of Salem, on the bottom road leading to Hall's ferry, where a small stream runs through the place of Mr. Rennie, oil has been discovered. It was not seen until recently, because the creek has been filled up, but it was cleared about four months ago. This oil, like that at Hubbard, is white and can be scoped off of the top of the water. It is greasy to the touch and so thick one can hardly see tarough it. What puzzles so many is the peculiar color of all this oil, which is white, instead of almost black, as petroleum is. It may not be in paying quantities, but the oil is here and experts claim it is of the best quality. Only a well can determine this and in the meantime don't laugh at Hubbard people for being excited; they have a right to be and they may yet be the people, and as such, must be respected.—Woodburn Independant.

For Picking Hops.

A machine for picking hops has been invented and perfected by a Utica N. Y. gentleman who claims that the machine does the work as clean and much more rapidly than by hand, and that its capacity, if properly fed, is 20 boxes a day. The machine is mounted on a wooden frame, heavy enough to insure stability, is about 7 feet long by 5 feet wide, and about 4 feet high. The hops are fed into a receiver just as the branches come from the vines, and are seized between two rollers and gradually pulled through. In the meanwhile an eccentric or two parallel grippers tear the hop burr from the vine, allowing the leaves and the vine to go through. The hops fall on the inclined screen, and by their own weight fall on the same screen, but are carried back by its returning motion and thrown into a separate pile. It requires but one man to turn the wheel and another to feed the vines into the rollers.

STATE AND GENERAL

The Dalles Times Mountaineer says the cattle are dying around Moro in considerable numbers, and there is a fatality among horses. One man has lost one-half of his band of cattle, and another twenty head, and both fed from the same straw stack. Believing it to be some poisonous weed in the feed, the hay has been burned; but the fatality still continues. The state veterinary surgeon is en route to the vicinity in which the disease prevails, and will take proper measures to prevent its spread. At present the infected district extends a distance of about nine miles from the east bank of the Deschutes.

From the class and conduct reports of the semi-annual examination held at the United States military academy, West Point, New York, 1891, it is learned that Cadet William B. Ladue, of the fourth class, a son of Mr. William M. Ladue, president of the First National bank at Salem, has distinguished himself and honored Oregon by attaining the position of head of the class, being first in all subjects. The fourth class is composed of 87 members. —Albany Herald.

B. F. Hartman, about three miles west of town, this week brought in specimens from a rock ledge cropping out from a hill on his farm, that has attracted considerable attention. It is of a grayish white in color, quite soft and very light in weight. Subjected to heat it readily fuses and when cooled crystalizes into a form resembling porcelain. Samples of the rock have been sent to Prof Condon, geologist, at Corvallis.—McMinnville Reporter.

The subjects of water and light are just now the most important issues of the hour to the people of Hillsboro and from the Independent we learn that their prospects for securing them are quite flattering. A meeting was held at the court house last Monday evening to take active steps in the matter, the result of which we have not learned.

The coyotes have been doing a good deal of damage to sheep near Wells station, Polk county, lately and a lively crowd of men went after them with about fifteen or twenty hounds Thursday. They expect to continue the chase for at least three days.

The question of establishing a fruit and vegetable cannery in Eugene was freely discussed at the Board of Trade meeting Monday evening and it was unanimously decided that vigorous action must be taken at once to secure the establishment of such an enterprise.

Company H, O. N. G., of La Grande, has lost all its guns, ammunition and uniforms. They were taken by regimental officers because the company has not been kept up to the requirements of the law in regard to drilling. They have been without an armory for several months.

Mr Isaac Briggs, one of the earliest pioneers of Lane county, died at his home in Springfield, Monday, Jan. 26th, of old age. He was nearly 89 years old and had been confined but one month. He came to Lane county from Iowa in 1847.

In the case of Wm. Ferrin, recorder, on trial last week at Hillsboro, for refusing to issue a warrant for the arrest of W. P. Massick, Justice Wirtz bound him over in the sum of $200 to appear before the Grand Jury, says the Independent.

Hillsboro now has a fire department.

The postoffice of Roseburg was robbed this week of $1200. An entrance was made into the office throug a rear window and the money taken from the vault.

Nine young ladies and eight young men were baptized in the river at Independence last Tuesday. There is quite a religious revival going on at that place.

Amos K. Jones has sold his interest in the Union, Oregon Scout, to his partner, Mr. Clancy. Mr. Jones, who is in ill health, will remove to California. Amos used to reside in Eugene in the sixties.

Still on Earth.

J. P. Crocker, of the mountain Bluff Meat Market, is still alive and well, and at present is doing a rushing business, as the people of the present age are well enough educated to know when they are treated well, and that they always get the best articles, and the full value of their money at his store. He keeps a full line of fresh and salt meats of all descriptions, also eggs, butter cheese etc.

Our Candid Advice.

It is seldom that we appear in the roll of spiritual adviser or family physician, but there are times when we feel justified in calling the attention of our many subscribers to an article of true merit. We feel justified in saying that Moore's Revealed Remedy contains more actual merit than any medicine it has ever been our good fortune to test. One trial bottle will make you as enthusiastic as the writer. For sale by all druggists.

Notice for Final Settlement.

Notice is hereby given that I have filed in the County Court of the county of Clackamas, for the state of Oregon, my final report as administrator of the estate of Joseph Florence, deceased. All persons are hereby notified to appear in said court and make objections to said report on Monday, the 9th day of March, 1891, and file objections to said report if any they have. A. MATHERS,

Executor of the estate of Joseph Florence, deceased. 1-30:2-27

COUNTY NEWS ITEMS.

Highland Harpings.

The weather is somewhat wet this last week and it makes the roads in rather a poor condition to travel on, but there has been some improvements going on in the neighborhood on the roads, which make it considerable better, but there is plenty of room for more work between this vicinity and Oregon City, and we live in hope of having a good road in the future.

What has become of our railroad? All is quiet concerning it

One more family has moved into this part We have not learned their name as yet. They have purchased a farm of Mr. Strickler, one of Highland's best farmers.

A few spelling matches and parties are the order of the day among the young people.

Mr. O. Wallace is able to be around again after a spell of sickness. We are pleased to see his smiling face once more.

Mr. W. Rutherford is busy clearing off some timber on his farm which adds to its appearance greatly.

Mr. Griffin is also clearing away the stumps on the front of his farm which will also add considerable to the value of his place.

Mrs. Wm. Livingston is lying very low at present. She has been ill for over two weeks. We hope to hear of her speedy recovery and will be glad to see her around once more.

Well there is room for more settlers in Highland as we see some empty houses and vacant farms which would be a benefit to the neighborhood if they were occupied. SCHEELER.

Mink Matters

Fred and M. Moehnke have returned from Canada. They say, "Hurrah for Oregon, yet!"

Miss Mary Moehnke has gone to Seattle to visit her sister.

The Mink brass band meets every Wednesday and Saturday evening for practice. The boys play very well for the time they have been organized.

Mrs. E. W. Hornshuh was badly hurt by falling down stairs. We hope it is nothing serious.

Welsh & Martin are going to blow the whistle at their saw mill every morning at six o'clock for the benefit of those who have no clocks, so they will when it is time to get up.

E. G. and G. H.'s "perpetual motion" machine will not move worth a cent. They are now going to try another plan. Why not try it with a handle, boys, like a grindstone?

Phillip Lindau went to Oregon City to work in one of the flouring mills.

Ernest Guenther is busy getting out shingles for a new house.

There is talk of starting a Farmers' Alliance here. I hope it will meet with success. GAS.

Fairview Happenings.

Fairview is all alive and doing well. We had an election of officers at the literary society which is held at the Case school house. The new officers are, for president, F. Jaggar; vice president, Henry Hunter; secretary, Miss Hattie Hunter; assistant secretary, John Bond; treasurer, H. C. Higley; editor, Mrs. M. Hayward; Marshal, Thomas Thayer; Critic, Mrs. Hattie Hayward. All have taken the oath of office and gone to work. The society meets only once in two weeks now, instead of once a week, as formerly.

Good times continue to prevail in the neighborhood. The pie social spoken of before, was a grand success. Pies sold from ten cents up to eighty cents. Between eight and ten dollars were taken in.

Edgar M. and Jessie R. Waldron gave a dance last Wednesday night at the farm house of J. L. Waldron. We all went (except those who were sick or had the toothache) and had a pleasant time. Those present were H. Hunter, Minnie Jagger, M. Hyatt, Agnes McArthur, Annie Straum, G. Randall, Wm. J. Jones, Richard Jones, T. W. Blanchard, Halsey Phelps, Lena Engle, G. W. Blanchard, Henry Engle, Frank Guttpelet, Martha Penman. Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Waldron, Jennie Waldron, and a great many others. Lunch was served at half past ten; then dancing was continued until twelve, when we all went home, feelin; much refreshed from the healthy exercise of the evening. Mr. and Miss Waldron can boast of having the only dance in the county without whisky.

John Bond is cooking for the mill hands at Mr. McCord's mill. The boys say he is quite a cookey.

Mr. Wm. May was out the other day, (while the sun was shining,) with his footracer's suit in his vest pocket; and Charley Baker was there with his jumping suit.

Hoping this will find THE ENTERPRISE in good health and a happy mood, I am,

Yours, respectfully, SHLASH.

Central Point Hints.

I believe Central Point has not been heard from for a while: yet we are having big times, all the same.

Religious meetings were held at the church all of last week by Mrs. Wilkinson and Mrs. Dickinson, with quite a large attendance.

It seems to be the rule in this neighborhood, when a person speaks or talks too long at a public meeting, to sing him down. It has been done twice here. It makes no difference whether it is at a literary society or at church

Mr. L. B. Warner is still in this neighborhood selling real estate.

William Randall is up again. It was reported he had the measles, but his sickness must have been something else.

The Central Point Literary Society had a necktie sociable Saturday evening at the school house, and had good success. About ten dollars were realized. Everything went off right until the boys got to taking each other's hats, when a row ensued. Some of the boys blew up their bicep muscles and went out doors, and when the constable interfered they thought he was out of place.

A social will be held at New Era on the evening of February 19, by the W. C. T. U. women in their new hall, for the benefit of the cause. A good time is expected. All are invited. QUINTO.

Canby Cullings.

Miss Kate Casto will close her second term of school in District No 18, next Wednesday.

Commissioner C. Bair passed through here last week en route to attend county court.

S. A. D. Gurley will close the Canby school next Thursday.

Some farmers are ploughing preparatory to putting in early crops.

Messrs. Myers and Kammer are cutting an immense amount of cordwood.

George Knight, our efficient postmaster, will soon have boxes in the office. V. L. Mack has been preparing them for Mr. Knight. They will add to the convenience and good appearance of the office.
