[From Partland Commercial.] Rogue River War Review.

The Salem Press of Sunday says: "We reiterate all we have heretofore atserted in relation to Palmer's slandering the people of Oregon in relation to the causes and prosecution of the war; and repeat that he and G-n. Wool were the prime causes of the long delay in obtaining Congressional recognition of the debt, and the subsequent repudiation of nearly one half of it.' In order to prove that it is not to Gen. Palmer, but to the Salem Statesman, Mr. A. Bush, editor (Mr. Grover's friend), the blame imputed by the Press should be charged of "slandering the people of Oregon in relation to the causes and prosecution of the war," we present the following extracts from that former chief Democratic organ of Oregon:

No fears are entertained of an outbreak of the Rogue River Indians. They are quietly and peaceably disposed, as they bave been all summer "-Statesman, Oct.

There is a record for you to pitch into, Mr. Salem Press, if you are earnest in your professions about the vindication of the people of Southern Oregon from the slanders and calumuies of those who accused them, during the Rogue River Indian war, of having 'incited Indian disturbances so as to create opportunities to plunder the public treasury." And, when you shall have copied the above extracts, to display your intention to apply censure where censure is due, we will furnish you with another batch, copied from the same "old Democratic Bible" to the same purpose. We will also prove to you, before we quit the subject, that Gen. Wool depended upon these statements copied from Mr Bush's paper, and embraced them in his report, for all that he alleged against the payment of the Oregon War Debt .-And we will further prove that Mr. Grover, as Chairman of the Commission to which Gen. Palmer appointed him, was the author of some of the remarks which are now relied upon by you, Mr. Press, and your party organs, to show that Geo.
