secure and certain foundation, there was no necessity to avail further of its advantages. The franchise, however, was a valuable one. A responsible party in the city offered the Associa-tion the sum of $100,000 cash for the privilege of its use for the balance of the entertainments. Honor, however, to the Legislature and the people of the State, dictated that the law should be exhausted at once. Two other entertainments, therefore, were given as soon as possible, at the California Theatre, to which the usual price of ion was charged, and at each of which a grand piano was presented to one of the audience. The law has now, therefore, no existence. Ap-peals were also made in behalf of othliterary institutions, as well as in aid of many charities, for a portion of the surplus, or for the use of one of the entertainments. When I say that the law under which we were acting provided expressity that the proceeds should be devoted exclusively to the liquidation of the indebtedness of the Library, and that the Trustees had no right to alleviate a dollar from that purpose, a sufficient answer is given to uch requests.

ing one of them.

THE RESULT

Of these gift entertainments is as follows : Realized from the sale of tickets, $,100 000; paid in gifts, 628 in number, $500,000; expenses of the management, including advertising, rents, clark bire, etc., and also expenses of postponement sixty days, $94,-541 11 ; discounts to purchasers of 541 11; discounts to purchasers of tickets, ranging from five to ten per cent. $77,088 39; Dors & Peters' com-pensation. $20,000. Total, $691,629 50. Net proceeds of first entertainment, $398,370 50; net proceeds of second and third entertainment, $1,751 75. Total profit from the three entertainments, $310,122 25. Out of this sum the Trustees have paid every debt of the association. They have also insured the building and contents for three years, at a low premium, which has been paid, and have now in the treasury the sum of $26,757. The ion now owns a large and exceedingly valuable property, which is entirely free from embarrasement. Probably no Mercantile Library Association in this country can b such a structure, possessing such ac-commedations and convenience in ev. ery respect. The regular revenue the society, from rents and from the dues of subscribing members, is at present from $2,300 to $2,500 per nonth. The expenses of every description amount to about $1,100 pe month-leaving a balance of from $1,-200 to $1,400 a month, which can be devoted to the purchase of books. # # I have nothing to offer

IN JUSTIFICATION

Of the enterprise, the history of which I have never narrated, but the crush-I have never parrated, but the crun-ing necessities of the case, and the precedents furnished by many educa-tional and religious institutions in the country not less worthy, and now of great influence, which have been saved by a precisely similar process. Wil-liams College, in Massachusetts, whose President recently honored this city President recently honored this city with a visit, was relieved of its burdens in a like manner. There are but faw churches in the State a part of whose yearly revenue is not derived from such a source. Scarcely a fair is held in the name of charity whose receipts are not swelled by a like ope ration, differing only in degree. And the Parliament of England, where the aws against schemes of this nature ard very stringent; grants a special privilege yearly for the support of an Art Union. * * The princi-

It is unfortunate that such a necessity existed. It must be frankly admitted that the objections urged against the scheme, the denun-ciations hurled against it by press, while and multi were in a treat de-
