That "Fifth Notice."

The State efficial paper contains notice from the State Treasury Department, in which Mr. Fleischner notifies the public that he has funds on hand applicable to the payment of certain warrants, and then follows an enumeration of about two hundred warrants which the holders have reason to suppose will be cashed on presentation at the State Treasury. We are informed that the numbers published are the warran's reandited by the supererogation of the commission which lately adjourned, and instead of paying those warrants as he has advertised, the Treasurer merely pays as much of them as the commission thought it for the interest of the Democratic party to have paid at the present time. Mr Fleischner does himself injustice when he published that he will do a thing have been oversight on his part that shis announcement was made in such general terms, but it is unfair to those who live at a distance and are bolders of State warrants to publish that they can come bere for their money and disappoint them, on their arrival here, by tendering them only a part of it. There is another announcement made in this advertisement, in which it strikes us the Treasurer has "reckoned without his host." He adds a paragraph to say that no interest will be paid " after this time." We confidently auticipate that the courts will prick this bubble blown up by Democratic legislation, and declare the commission an illegal affair, and pronounce all its acts illegal. We should regret to see all the high judicial aspirations of our friend Bonham put out by such a damper, but it is high time that the humbug pretensions of this commission should be done away with and set saide, and steps taken to have the business of the State properly transacted. " Equitable adjustment" and "repudistion" are synonymous terms with Democracy, but they will answer much better to humbug the masses in a political campaign than for practical eperation in State finances. The State Treasurer has evidently been placed in a false position as to some matters of importance, and we hope to see him change the specification of that "Fifth Notice" to correspond with

French Reconstruction We have received no positive information as to what are the terms proposed for Germany to secure peace with France, but it is evident that they wish to secure a lasting peace, and to base it upon a Government that shall be satisfactory to the French people. It was expected that Germany would either attempt the restoration of Napolean or the foundation of a monarchy with Thiers at its bend, the first act of the Assembly. With this Government Bismarck is willing to make peace.
