Consolation for Them

The Bemosratio perty, is . likely to grieve itself to death over the printul securation continually brought in their journals that during Grant's Administration, officials is simploy of the govto southin line when own to secont dollars

As to the truth of the acchastion no proof is offered, and we learn that a great portion of the sums charged against revenue officers consists of ast resments made that never could be collected. Bo they are making charges defalcation when the fact is the sume consist of delinguint taxes which carnot is collected. It is very probable that the party feels intense regret that any steelings that are going on don't find their way into Democratic pockets, and that is about all the faith we have in the sincarity of their motives. That some of ficials are dishonest we are disposed to believe and condemn, but it is a remarkable fact which our opponents fuil to mention, that the per centrge of steslings never was less during any Democratic Administration of the past, than it has been during the term of President Graht

This article is written, however, en pressly in relation to the two and a half millions said, by Democratic authority, to have been stolen during the time Grant has been President, and without making the alightest concession that there is truth in the accusation we insist that our opponents should not grudge that small amount, considering the good pickings they have enjoyed. In New York City alone they have been robbing the people of two and half millions a month ever since the present national administration has had power. Out of the city of New York they have stolen as much for thirty consecutive months as they charge Grant's officials in purloining in all that time. It is really un. fair and contrary to the proverb which proclaims that honor should exist among thieves, for them to be stealing thirty dollars to our one and then shouting "stop thief" against us to hide their own tranactions.

It is an old saying that mountain cannot be hidden behind molebills. and you cannot very well hide that monntain of iniquity lately discovered in New York behind your ficticious charges against Grant's officials ; neither can you blind the eyes of the people, here in Oregon, to the sins committed by your own legislation, by the reiteration of charges against the late Republican Administration.

We offer you consulation in the consciouspess you must have that you do ten times more stealing with the chance you have than all Grant's corrupt appointees are able to accomplish with the National Treasury to speculate upon.

Conservative Catholicism

A telegram dated Munich, Bavaria, August 22, states that a " committe of conservative Catholics have invited the Catholics of Germany, Austria and Switzerland to a Congress to be held there September 22d." This is the initiative of a movement of which we have lately been hearing occasionally, which has for its object, not the overthrow of the Oatholic Church, but opposition to the infallibility dogma promulgated at the late Ecumenical Council. De. Dollinger, of Bavaria, one of the most learned men in the church, and particularly distinguished as its by the Government of Bavaria, which has bitherto been one of the most higoted of Gatholie States It seems that the great governments are all determined to oppose the dogma or infalinbility as not consistent with secular Governments. They decidedly assert themselves against the claims of the Pontiff that he has powers, by Divise right, as well as by church dogmas, "o depose sovereigns and release the people from obligations of fidelity," these being the very words lately used by Pius IX. in defence of the dogma of infallipility and of his pretension t be superior to all secular powers.

It is remarkable that of late years the Catholic Church has lost the most strenuous supporters of its claims to temporal power. Italy has become, in part infidel, simply because the intelligance of the people resented the claims of the Church as aggerted egains Italian unity ; Spain, also, threw of the priestly yoke which had bound it through all past centuries, and gave its voice for civil and religious liberty; Austria, which had been the most exclusive in defence of Church preten sions, dissolved sta agreement, to be forever subservient and claimed, and has eince exercised the right to control the education of its subjects and permit greater religious freedom.

It has been the object of the church to educate the people to believe in the church. Catholia Nations, such as Bavaria, Austria and Spain, found they were behind hand with the world and were held back by the church. Mod-ern education elsewhere had made other Nations more important and powerful, for knowledge is power to Nations as well as man. So, as the masts of a ship are out away to outride a storm, of as useless weight is thrown away to win a tace, the N. tions have bad to cut loose from priestcraft to maintain themselves as equals of their ambitious neighbors. The result must inevitably ba to effect changes, in the Catholic Church that will relieve it of the darkness of the middle. ages, and bring it into harmony with the world as it exists to-day.
