BRIDGE BUSINESS.

Full Text of the Report of the Ex ecutive Committee to the Bridge Committee of Twenty-five.

Pursuant to suggestion, we publish below the full report of the bridge committee of five to the citizens' committee of twenty-five. It will be seen that there was competition, and that the bridge could not be built cheaper ten years ence than at the present time:

To the Citizens, Bridge Committee of Twenty-five, W. J. Herren, chairman-Gentlemen:-Your executive committee of five, appointed at your meeting of March 8th, 1886, to mature plans have surveys made, etc., beg leave to report

We engaged the services of Capt. Charles F. Powell of the U. S. engineers, who agreed to make a preliminary survey and give a memorandum and chart thereof, together with his opinion as to the proper location of the proposed bridge, in such manner that we would have sufficient data upon which to advertise for detail plans and specifications, and bids for the construction of the bridge, for $250, together with the actual expense of the survey; and that he would further act as consulting engineer in the conatruction of the bridge, from the time of the submission of bids and plans and specifications for the building of the bridge, to its final completion, for an ad-ditional sum of $250, provided a superin-tendent of construction, of his own selecon, be employed, to be kept in super-ision of the work during the whole pro-ress of the construction of the bridge.

Capt. Powell performed the first installment of the work agreed upon in a very satisfactory manner, as will appear by the maps of the river, and "Informa-tion to bidders" prepared by him and herewith submitted.

For this work he has been paid as greed upon; and for this together with he expense of the survey etc., your committee has incurred an indebtedness of $168.94 over and above the amount collected from the citizens for that purpose, all of which fully appears by the report of our treasurer, W. T. Gray, ac-Capt. Powell has also entered upon the second division of the work agreed upon, in the way of consulting with and ad-vising the committee about the merits of different plans and proposals submitted, and this, with the understanding that he will be paid by the city in case the work is. In this also, his services have been very satisfactory and valuable to your committee. His report on the dif-ferent proposals submitted, accompanies this report.

Having been advised by Capt. Powell that Center street was the best location for a truss bridge, and Chemeketa street the best for a suspension bridge, we invited proposals for, (1), a fixed iron truss; (2), a fixed combination truss, and (3), a suspension bridge, by circular letter addressed to every bridge building concern in the country whose address concern in the country whose address could be ascertained. More than fifty circulars were sent out. Of these, about sixteen were answered by application for forther information, which was supplied ding to each applicant blue points of the river map, and section showing the length of spans, location of piers and etc., together with the printed "informa-tion to builders," all prepared by Capt. Powell under direction of your committee.

4. American Bridge & Building Com-pany, S. F. Bid (combination), $55000. 5. King Iron Bridge Co., Cleveland Ohio. Bid No. 1 (steel), $64000; bid No.

2 (combination) $53000. 6. Hoffman & Bates, Portland, Oregon. Bid No. 1 (combination), $55000; bid No.

Bid No. 1 (combination), $55000; bid No. 2 (iron), $68000.

7. Pacific Bridge Company, S. F. & Portland. Bid No. 1 (iron), $73300; bid No. 2 (combination), $57200.

As we deemed the bids above $55000 to be in excess of the amount that could be probably raised for bridge purposes, we rejected those above that amount at once, and referred the remainder to Capt. Powell for his examination and recomdations. Upon these he has reported as already mentioned.

The lowest bid in point of amount, viz. that of the San Francisco Bridge Co. for $44800, was rejected by your committee, for the reason that the bridge described in that proposal, was not as strong as prescribed by us under the advice of our engineer.

We report favorably upon bid No. 1 of the San Francisco Bridge Co. for $48887, and recommend you, and through you, if approved, the city council to take steps to secure the erection of a bridge according to that proposal.

The plans, specifications, and strain sheets accompanying this proposal are herewith submitted. There is now in the hands of your committee a certified check for $3000, deposited by the company making this proposal, as a guaranty for entering into a contract with sufficient security for the performance of the work in case it is awarded to the company by

We are of the opinion that such a bridge would be durable and substantial, besides being an immense assistance to the business interests of the city. We have giv en the matter close attention, and have been aided by the best engineering talent on the coast, and are satisfied that the building of such a bridge would be mon-ey well spent. We submit the whoie matter with these recommendations, and ask to be discharged from further consideration thereof. The following papers accompany this:

PRESS AND PULPIT.

A. H. Siegfried, the business representative of the Chicago News in New York city, read a paper recently before the meeting of the Presbyterian ministers upon "The attitude of the secular press in America toward religion."

"If, in a prefatory word, I may use the shop,' the paper I now read was prepared as a 'special' for the Congregational club of New York," began Mr. Sierfried. "It is the work of a newspaper standpoint, showing the actual attitude of the press toward religion. "I think the country editor is the greatest secular friend that religion has, for he has a direct and indirect interest in re-ligion greater than his city brother. The village editor is in closer contract with religious movements than the metropo-mon with religion.

"Some time ago I had seven questions printed on slips of paper asking the edi-tors of papers certain facts about the re-ligious attitude of their paper, how many of their employes were professed chris-tians and what their own religious status was. I sent out 141 of these lists to the editors of papers in every part of this country and Canada, and with each list was a personal note and an address and stamped envelope. Out of the whole I received twenty-eight answers. These twenty-eight replies came from Hartford, Providence, New York, Albany, Mon-treal and other points. Two of the stamped envelopes were returned, sealed and empty, from Philadelphia, and I took the liberty of taking this as an indica-tion of the opinions of the Philadelphia

Mr. Siegfried said the interest in this sort of correspondence was in the clues it might give us to the attitude of the press toward religion, and that he re-ceived replies from five German and twenty-three English papers, but not a single German paper announced any of its employes as religious men. The Louisville Commercial reported one-fifth of its staff professed Christians; the Atlanta Constitution three-fourths; the Albany Eevning Journal eight out of twenty-three men; the New York Journal of Commerce five-ninths; the Boston Traveller one-third; the Washington

Republican 1 per cent; the Chicago Evening Journal one in five.

The St. Paul Globe said that it treated religous creeds as it did political creeds, upholding what was good in them and denouncing what was bad.

The Legentille Committee in the washington.

The Louisville Commercial thought the churches did better work than the police. Murat Halstead wrote; "I have not had time yet to conquer this world and so have not invaded any other."

The Kansas City Times said newspapers always treated religion in a fair in its secular path."

Mr. Siegfried then referred to the press as a great agent in purifying the moral atmosphere, and referred to the work of papers on convicting Tweed, downing the Kuklux, driving the gamblers out of Louisville and cleaning the dens from Twenty-seventh street, in New York.— [Philadelphia News.

IN THE COUNTRY SANCTUM.

An Atlanta reporter who once "pulled a hand press" on a country weekly tells this story:

One day, while the paper was being worked off, a man from the country came in and walked around the room, finally stopping near the press and watching the work very earnestly.

"Anything I can do for you?" asked the man at the lever, pausing between impressions. Naw," was the reply, "I don't want nothin', I jis come in to see ye edit."

On another a man came in with a basket of snap beans, and, placing them on the editorial table, exclaimed:

"See what I fotch ye!"
He remained half an hour or so, and, as he arose to go, said :

"Whatever ye think them is wuth, jis put it down on my subscription." The customary thanks for snap beans didn't get in the paper that week .- Atlanta Constitution.

NEW YORK GOSSIP.

People who reside in smaller cities than New York continually refer to the noise and bustle of the metropolis as the chief argument against it as a place of residence. They have no idea of the quiet home-life here, and know nothing of the thousands of families, who are as much out of the rush and roar of New York life as though they resided in the mountain fastness of Pike county. There is a little colony of people in Thirty-eighth street who prove to everybody's satisfaction, including their own, that a quiet residence is a possible thing in New York. residence is a possible thing in New York.

When we turn, however, to the 1300 daily newspapers in this country, who set the pace for the quick thought and norvous movement of for his inability to win at horse-races and the people, we find a difference. There his disinclination to pay tailor's bills, is some truth in the remark that the attiade of the daily editor toward religion is a small man, with a thoughtful manis one of calm superiority. But I think that expression should be changed to 'induce that expression should be changed to 'induce the control of the control eight thousand dollars' worth of debts per annum. When he goes out and climbs solemnly into his cart at the door, he bows with extreme solemnity to the house-fronts and then rattles away. He is probably regarded in the light of a diversion by the respectable families across the way, unless they look upon him as an unmitigated monster. A remarkable negro lives across the way from me. He is the butler of a quiet family of oldish people, who hail from Boston. They are given to reading heavy tomes, observing considerable silence, and exhibiting an intense and high degree of solemnity. It wears upon the butler. He is very bald, very straight, and apparently exceedingly respectable, but his natural disposition will crop out in spite of his rigid regard for the proprie-ties. To-day, for instance, he had just put a visitor out of the house with a ma-jestic bow when he discovered an ashman fast asleep on the edge of his cart. He looked at him for a moment, and then went over to the ash-cart and pulled a bit of rope from the ashes. The driver wore a long-tailed and ragged Newmarket coat, which he had fished out of a barrel the construction of a bridge, from seven

He no longer wore a Newmarket coat, but he kicked the horse into a state of subjection, and then suddenly catching sight of a small boy, who was grinning derisively, started after him on a full run and disappeared around the corner. The solemn butler peered cautiously from the door, and then descending rapidly to the street, tied the reins in a dozen knots, stole a big plume that was sticking out of the horse's collar and thrust it into the ashes, turned the animal around, and started him in the opposite direction from that which the Irishman had taken. The horse patiently and mildly ambled away toward the west, and drifted quite out of sight before the Irishman received a tip from a good-natured policeman, which sent him bounding along toward the setting sun in pursuit of his steed. There is some little divertisement of this sort every day from the majestic old negro, who is evidently obliged to keep up such a wonderful show of respectability in the house that he takes it out in larking in the street.— San Francisco Argonaut.

HIS REASON.

A jury composed of eleven business men and an old fellow from across the creek retired to the jury-room. The foreman, when selected, remarked that he thought the prisoner ought to be sent to the penitentiary for five years.

GRAND JURY REPORT.

Filed Yesterday, and the Grand Jury Discharged-Everything Found in Good Shape.

The following report of the grand jury was filed yesterday:

To the Honorable the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for Marion county :-We, the undersigned grand jurors for the June term of said court, 1886, beg leave to report:

That we have completed our labors, and investigated all matters that have been submitted tous.

That we visited the offices of the several county officers, and made a cursory exam ination of the records and official papers therein, and so far as our examination extended we found everything in good order, and the records systematically arranged and well kept.

The court house is in good condition, and we have only to recommend that the floors of the jail be repaired, and that a burglar-proof safe be placed in the office of the county treasurer, inasmuch as the one now in use is in our capiton. as the one now in use is, in our opinion unsafe as a depository of the county funds.

The asylum, penitentiary, state house, and other public buildings of the state, were also visited by us, and everything seems to be in order. The asylum, we were informed by the officials in charge, now contains 455 immates, and there is begining to be a lack of room for these unfortunates. The building was only designed for the accommodation of 412 patients, we were informed; and, if this be true, the building will soon have to be enlarged. The officials in charge are deserving of special mention for the perfect order and neatness maintained through-out the several wards.

The poor farm building is badly in need of a coat of paint, but the inmates appear to be contented, and their wants proper-ly attended to. The grand jurors recom-mend that the said building be repainted this summer. Signed, T. H. Wilson, foreman; F. A. Bingham, R. W. Sayre, J. R. White, H. B. Gearin, D. Barnes, Wm. Scollard.

OUR WORST ENEMIES.

Next to our vices, are our follies. Among them is the imperilling of future boddly comfort, and the average tenure of life to which persons of moderately good constitutions are persumably entitled, by imprudance in eating and drinking, and the reckless use of drugs. It is one of the happy capabilities of flostetter's stamach Bitters that it can repair damage thus inflicted. When the blood is thin and watery, the bowels out of order, the complexion and tongue both giving evidence of biliousness, there is a necessity for repairs upon the human tenement obvious enough to startle its possessor. A course of the Bitters, the abandonment of "drugging" for relief, and a common sense diet and mode of life—these will speedily produce a change for the better. What quinine for fever and age, and mercury for biliousness and constipation, won't do, the Bitters will. It also relieves rheumatism and neuralgia, and inactivity of the kidneys.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.
