

fore. I was as blunt as he, and although not as fond of Aleck Boyd as he was of his Mary, I championed Aleck's cause. I showed Danzer the possible course that lay before the young man, assured him of my entire confidence in him, and my intention to further his prospects all that was in my power. "But," asked I, "why make a serious matter of it? The young people have met but once. He may never think of her again or she of him."

"Ah," said he in reply, "you little know that girl. This young man is the first person I ever knew to feel the faintest interest in as an individual. I have had such a scene in my house as I care never to have again." Quick as a flash, turning to me, after a moment's pause, he said, "That man drinks and I hate a drunkard."

What could I say? To make a long story short, for the interview lasted over an hour, I persuaded Mr. Danzer to keep his hands off, that if the young man called to see his daughter, she being quite old enough to determine, let him do so. If he didn't why there was an end of it, and I assured him that in the mean time I would speak to Boyd and would let him (Danzer) know how the boy felt.

The "boy" by the way, had gotten to be twenty-one years of age, and Miss Danzer was fully that, if not older. In the course of three months Boyd and Miss Danzer were engaged, and Aleck did very well in his work, lapsing occasionally into drink.

One week I missed him. The woman with whom he boarded said he had been drinking very heavily and had gone out one night, since which time she had heard nothing from him. I sent to Miss Danzer. She wrote that he had called upon her in an intoxicated condition, and had behaved so badly that she, thinking her father would find him, had compelled him to leave and she had heard nothing of him since. I felt alarmed and sought the aid of Supt. Jordan. Aleck was found on Blackwell's island.

On his release he came, naturally, to me. I braced him up, encouraged him, gave him work and at his request called upon Miss Danzer. I found her in Elizabeth street, in a quaint little house, pictures of religious subjects on the walls, hymn books and bibles, tracts and a volume of Mrs. Hemans's poetry on the table. While waiting for her I took up Mrs. Hemans and found she had marked,

And was his mortal hour beset With anguish and dismay? How may we meet our conflict yet In the dark narrow way? How, but through Him, that path who trod Save or we perish, Son of God; and others, but that particular verse underscored half a dozen times. Well, now, just imagine the position.

pulling down to make way for the new building of the Staats-Zeitung, when the entire triangle fronting what is now known as the Brooklyn bridge entrance was occupied with timber and with stone, standing with a friend and looking from the window of my office idly, my attention was attracted to a figure bent nearly double, sitting on a long joist.

It was a man. On his disheveled head was no hat, on his feet no shoes, on his body a ragged shirt and a worn and holey pair of trousers, held in place by one dilapidated suspender. Newsboys plucked dim, news-givers jeered at him, a loafing policeman, swinging his club, looked on approvingly.

Had he been a dog I think I should have jumped into the ring. It was no dog. It was my old boy, Aleck. Quick, quick we had him in abundance, and there we drove him to a hospital and there, washed and cleansed and shaved and fed, the poor fellow lay until the spirit passed, leaving him literally the remains of what might have been a man.

You recall the story of the Danzers? Of the great robbery, the extraordinary detection of the thieves and recovery of the property, the death of the father, the quick fading away of the girl and the vast sums left to churchly hands after her obligations were paid and her monument erected?

The moral points itself. Had Aleck been a sober man, what happiness was in store for him and the girl who loved him.

It has always been the custom in some of the churches in Washington which have no prayer-book formula for that purpose to offer up a prayer every Sunday in behalf of the chief executive of the nation and his advisers. There is one church in the northern section whose spiritual head has abandoned this practice.

It seems that one of the elders and a pillar of the church has for years enjoyed an easy government berth. He is said to have been a good clerk, and therefore felt that he was reasonably safe, though his political sentiments were hardly in keeping with those of the present administration. However, he found on his desk one day a coldly worded official letter notifying him that his valuable services could be offered where they would be more appreciated than in the government departments.

DEATH OF ANN POUJADE. Another Pioneer of Marion County Crosses into the Dark Valley Beyond. Friday afternoon, when the old church-bell tolled forth its mournful notes it announced to our citizens that that good and noble woman, Grandma Ann Poujade, had quietly and peacefully passed over the silent river, at her home near Gervais, July 2, 1886.

Grandma Ann Poujade was 93 years, 3 months, and 10 days old, at the time of her death. She was born March 22, 1793, in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, and was married to Dr. J. P. Poujade in 1838, in Perry county, Ohio, with whom she immigrated to Illinois in the fall of 1840, and to Oregon in 1847. Here she located on a farm with her husband, on French Prairie, a half mile south of the present town of Gervais, on the ground where the celebration of the Fourth of July is to be held next Monday. She had no children of her own, but she leaves three step-sons to mourn her loss—the oldest, Sequin Poujade, residing near Gervais; the second, Theo. Poujade, residing in Nevada; and the third, Andrew Poujade, in Lane county, Oregon.

Mrs. Poujade retained all her faculties unimpaired until within a short time of her death. She was a woman of very strong mind and varied information, and in early days was said to be the best politician in Marion county. She always took an interest in the welfare and prosperity of the country, and to her honor and glory she will be laid to rest on the day that is dear to every American heart—the 11th anniversary of our national independence. She was a devout Christian and a faithful member of the Catholic church, and will be laid to rest in the Catholic cemetery at St. Louis, Marion county, at 2 o'clock p. m., July 4, by the side of her beloved husband, who preceded her eleven years. Her remains will be followed to the grave by a large concourse of people, who will pay the last tribute to that good and true old pioneer, Grandma Poujade. May she find eternal rest! M. GERVAVIS, July 3, 1886.

BARN BURNED. We, Samuel Penter and Mrs. Penter, do cheerfully certify that the loss of our barn by fire—which occurred ten days ago—has already been adjusted and settled in an honorable and satisfactory manner by the State Insurance Company, in which it was insured.

ALL OF THE BISHOP. Bishop Harris of New York, in response to the address of welcome tendered to him in behalf of the Buffalo Methodist Union the other evening, told a story at his own expense. He had gone to the little town of Dundee, in the central part of this state, to dedicate a church. He was the guest of the pastor, who had a very beautiful and interesting little boy, who had been on the tip-toe of expectation to see the bishop, about whose coming he had heard so much.

A REAL HEROINE. One of those heroines of whom the world hears but little lives near Lexington, in this state. Her name is Sallie Handford. Her husband has been bedridden with rheumatism for nine years, and she has had four children—two boys and two girls—to support. Last year she bought 107 acres of land, much in original forest, and with the aid of two boys, 14 and 15 years old, cleared five acres. She cut down the trees, rolled the logs, split the rails, built the fence, burnt the brush, with their help alone, and raised nine bales of cotton, also corn and peas enough for her own use, and paid her rent, her store account and $40 on her land debt. She has bought her meat for this year and paid for it. In addition to this she has done her cooking, milked her cows and gone to market with eggs, chickens and butter, selling enough to buy all the clothing needed for the family. She is indeed a heroine, and we will wager anything that we have that she is a Christian heroine at that.—(Butler (Ga.) Herald.)

TWO OLD CRONIES. An honorary member of the Fat Men's Club alighted from a bansom at the White House door shortly before 1 o'clock on Wednesday, and asked to see the president. Being known, he was shown up stairs, and was passing the open door into the cabinet room when he saw the inner door open and simultaneously heard the greeting: "How're you, Shang?" "How're you, George?" was the retort. And the two friends waddled toward each other in the friendliest manner.

Mr. W. S. Bissell of Buffalo, the former law partner of Mr. Cleveland, is one of the jolliest men in the country. He was here at the wedding, and left for New York on the night train after the ceremony. He went back to Washington to tell his old companion the latest stories that he heard, and the two friends had a long smoke and played a game of dominoes.—(Herald.)

The strawberry is not a berry, nor yet a fruit. Scientific investigators assure us that it is a sort of vegetable accident.—Hartford Courant. The scientists doubtless reached the conclusion that the strawberry is an accident by examining a restaurant shortcake.—(N. Y. World.)

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER. Hair restorative in the world is HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. It cures all diseases of the scalp, and stimulates the hair follicles to healthy action. It stops the falling of the hair; prevents its turning gray; cures baldness, and restores youthful color and freshness of appearance to heads already white with age. The following are a few illustrations of what is done by HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER: Mrs. MRS. HENNING, 544 Franklin Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., after a severe attack of erysipelas in the head, found her hair—already gray—falling off so rapidly that she soon became quite bald. One bottle of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER brought it back as soft, brown and thick as when she was a girl.

Buckingham's Dye FOR THE WHISKERS. Is, in four respects, superior to all others. 1st—It will produce a rich, natural color, brown or black, as desired. 2d—The color so produced is permanent. 3d—It cannot be washed off, and will not soil anything with which it comes in contact. 4d—It is a single preparation, and more convenient of application than any other hair or whisker dye. They increase the appetite, cause the body to take on flesh, thus the system is invigorated, and by their action on the brain, imparts the vigor of manhood. 25 YEARS IN USE. THE GREATEST MEDICAL TRIUMPH OF THE AGE! SYMPTOMS OF A TORPID LIVER. Loss of appetite, Bowels costive, Pain in the head, with a dull sensation in the forehead, Pain under the shoulder blade, Fullness after eating, with a disinclination to exertion of body or mind, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, and a feeling of having neglected some duty, Weakness, Dizziness, Fluctuating at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, Headache over the right eye, Nervousness, and a distended, slightly colored Urine, and CONSTIPATION.

A LITTLE SUPPERER. Cleansed, Purified, and Beautified by the Cuticura Remedies. It affords me pleasure to give you this report of the cure of my little grandchild by your CUTICURA REMEDIES. When six months old his left hand began to swell, and gave every appearance of a large boil. We poulticed it, out all to no purpose. About five months after it became a running sore. Soon other sores formed. He then had two of them on each hand, and his blood became more and more impure, it took less time for them to break out. A sore came on the chin, below the lower lip, which was very offensive. His head was one solid scab, discharging a great deal. This was his condition at twenty-two months old, when I undertook the care of him, his mother having died when he was a little more than a year old, of consumption (scrofula of course). He could walk a little, but could not get up if he fell down, and could not move when in bed, having no use of his hands. I immediately commenced with the CUTICURA REMEDIES, using the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP freely, and when he had taken one bottle of the Cuticura Resolvent, his head was completely cured, and he was improved in every way. We were very much encouraged, and continued the use of the remedies for a year and a half. One sore after another healed, a bony matter forming in each one of these five deep ones, just before healing, which would finally grow loose, and were taken out; then they would heal rapidly. One of the boys had a bone in his hand, and when taking a dozen and a half bottles he was completely cured, and is now at the age of 6 years, a strong and healthy child. The sores on his hands must always remain; his hands are strong though we once feared he would never be able to use them. All that physicians did for him could only be raised or lowered at but one end at a time and only by stopping the team is but little in advance of the old times when it was necessary to pack rails around for that purpose. The chains for raising and lowering the Empire have been thoroughly tested and are guaranteed to be strong enough. Any man who makes the statement that he cannot get extra for the Empire boiler, or any other machine we handle, is either ignorant of what he is saying, or is deceiving you for the purpose of selling his cheap old style machine. Messrs. Brown, Fullerton & Co. are our agents at Salem, and will cheerfully show you our binders all other machinery, or supply you with extras for the same. CUTICURA REMEDIES, STAVEL & WALKER, PORTLAND, OR., JUNE 8, 1886.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT BY VIRTUE of an execution duly issued out of the Hon. Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Marion, and to me directed on the 21st day of June, 1886, wherein J. W. Durrett, defendant, said judgment being for the sum of $135.75 and interest thereon at the rate of 12 per cent per annum from the 5th day of June, 1886, and costs taxed at $12.50, together with accruing costs and expenses, I have levied upon and will sell at public auction on Saturday, the 24th day of July, 1886, At the door of the county court house in Salem, Marion county, Oregon, at 2 o'clock p. m. of said day to the highest bidder for cash in hand on the day of sale all the right, title and interest which the said defendant, J. W. Durrett, had on or after the 21st day of June, 1886, in and to the following described real estate to-wit: Fifty acres of land described as follows, to-wit: Situated in the County of Marion, and State of Oregon, and bounded as follows: Beginning at the S. W. corner of claim No. 22, township five, south, range two west, thence east on the south boundary of said claim No. 22, 20.25 chains, thence north 25.66 chains, thence south 20.25 chains to the west boundary of claim No. 22, thence east 24.38 chains to the point of beginning and containing fifty acres more or less, also two acres of land described as follows: Being a piece off of the west end of a certain tract of land owned and held by George Louis by Adyerson De Haven and wife, being eighty rods wide and forty rods long, and being in section 13, township 5, south, range two west in Marion county, and state of Oregon. Dated June 22, 1886. JNO. W. MINTO, Sheriff Marion County, Oregon.

KRALING, an old farmer, near Warsaw, Ind., had severely gray hair left, and what little there was of it had become nearly white. One bottle of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER stopped its falling out, and gave him a thick, luxuriant head of hair, as brown and fresh as he ever had. Mrs. MRS. A. T. WALL, Greenfield, Cheshire, Eng., writes: "I have found the greatest benefit to the scalp as a preventive of dandruff. It cures itching, restores my hair, which was rapidly falling out, and returns it to its original color." Mrs. MRS. HARRIS, Detroit, Mich., certifies that "HALL'S HAIR RENEWER is excellent for hair growing, and gives a back the natural color to faded and gray hair." Mrs. MRS. E. E. ELLIOTT, Glenville, W. Va., says: "One bottle of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER restored my hair to its natural, youthful color." No injurious substances enter into the composition of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER, and it is not a dye. Its vegetable ingredients render it in the highest degree beneficial to the scalp as a preventive of dandruff. Its effects are natural and lasting, and it does not make the hair dry and brassy, like the so-called restoratives compounded with alcohol.
