THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

STATE OF OREGON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, SALEM, November 9th, 1886.

In accordance with a custom established by our forefathers of setting apart one day in the year in remembrance of the blessings vouchsafed by the Divine Ruler, and in conformity with the recommendation of the president of the United States, I hereby designate Thursday, November 25th, 1886, as a day of praise and thanksgiving, and recommend that upon that day the people of the state...

Witness my hand and the great seal of the state of Oregon hereto attached this 9th day of November, A. D. 1886.

Z. F. MOODY, Governor. R. P. EARHART, Secretary of State.

This seems to be an off year for tariff-tinkers.

The New York Monument fund for General Grant, increased one dollar during October.

Come to think about it, there is not much occasion for pyrotechnics by either party this year.

All the big spans of the bridge are swinging. Let's see: Didn't we tell you some time since that the bridge would be built?

Chicago, grown jealous of Duluth, "the zenith city of the unsalted seas," now calls herself "the vortex city of the wonderful West."

What a constant source of distress it must be to Brother Blaine, on his way back to Maine, after a pious pilgrimage to the home of his infancy, to hear noisy citizens popping up every few minutes and shouting, "Three cheers for our next Republican candidate for President!"

That was a cruel remark made by some one when a woman suffragist complained of the design of the statue of liberty. She said "The idea of having the statue of a woman represent liberty in a country where women are not free!"

An Indiana man named Thompson visited a cemetery, as he announced in advance, to spit upon the grave of a person whom he disliked. He was flattered when a crowd gathered to witness his act of vengeance.

It is said that Governor-elect Penoyer has received 4,039 letters, since his election, asking his influence to secure the writers positions. Clerk of the board of school commissioners is the most sought after.

The color line is so closely drawn at Little Rock, Arkansas that no colored person is allowed to take meals at public hotels. A jury with one colored man among the rest, was sent to a leading hotel there for dinner the other day.

Nowhere in the length and breadth of the land can a considerable number of voters make such consummate asses of themselves as in California. This is shown by several thousand thrown for O'Donnell for governor, a so-called workmen's candidate.

PORTLAND AND HER FUTURE.

EDITOR STATESMAN:—Selfishness has always been a prominent feature of human nature, and often a predominant one. This fact has not often been more plainly shown than in the jealousy and snarling disposition exhibited towards Portland by the people of almost the entire state, and especially the farming community.

But the circumstances have changed, as a result of this rapidly changing condition of our industrial affairs, and the time is rapidly approaching when this wealth must seek other avenues of employment than the banks and brokers' offices.

From what I have heard of the retrograde movement of business matters in our metropolis, I had expected to see it a miserable victim of that commercial inactivity which forecasts "the certain decay of all earthly greatness."

EDITOR STATESMAN:—Salem does not want a Sunday train. No man who obeys the command "Six days shalt thou labor" wants to disregard the injunction upon work on the seventh.

That is an interesting decision of the Supreme court, published in another column, where it is declared that after a husband fails in business, and turns the business over to his wife, and works for her himself, and the business is successful, that the wife cannot be responsible for the debts of the husband.

Mr. D. S. K. BUICK, who has been traveling about the western states for several months in charge of the Oregon exhibit car, returned yesterday, having left his exhibits at St. Paul in the hands of the Northern Pacific railroad people.

EDITOR STATESMAN:—Among Salem's wants is a Sunday mail. The mails come to Portland from all over the world every day of the week.

EDITOR STATESMAN:—The republican central committee has acted in a sensible manner in calling a convention to make nominations for city officers a full week before the election.

PORTLAND, OR., Nov. 8.

COMING WHERE THE LAND IS.

It is an interesting fact that the sales and pre-emptions of government land during the last fiscal year were the largest ever known. The official statement from the Land Office gives the total number of acres thus disposed of for the year ending June 30 at 18,300,942.

To give a clearer idea of the extent of the settlements last year the Financial Chronicle says the 18,039,942 acres actually entered upon "represent an area almost as large as the state of Maine, and greater than the combined area of New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts and Rhode Island."

Let the followers of Henry George come out west and each take up a homestead, and if they are industrious and thrifty they will have little time to brood over the mistaken idea that there should be no ownership in land, and that it is a crime to own property, especially when it costs nothing but a residence and good faith, when it is given as a free will offering by the government, and the homeless invited and given an opportunity to build up homes for themselves and hew out heritages for posterity.

ARE WE TO LOSE IT?

It is not pleasant to reflect that there is a serious doubt as to whether the people of this city will ever profit by the late Samuel J. Tilden's benevolent intentions towards them. The Court of Appeals last week rendered a judgment in the case of a will by which the executors were left certain discretionary powers with respect to the disposition of a special fund of $100,000, and the bequest was declared invalid on account of the indefiniteness of the trust.

The testator, the clause of whose will was set aside by the courts, was the late Mr. Samuel Willets, a careful business man who left an estate of several millions through a will drawn up by a lawyer of excellent reputation. In fact lawyers draw up almost all the wills which are broken by legal proceedings.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

EDITOR STATESMAN:—The earthquake in the south has retired from business on the installment plan, the elections are over, and the country is again safe. The colored troops fit nobly, and gave that democratic majority in the lower house an awful sick and lonesome look.
