"Tis done, the great transaction's done. The last spike on the Northern Pacific has really and truly been driven. It was sent to its resting place at six o'clock and two minutes last evening. The unsalted sea in which the beauties of Duluth now lave their dainty feet can send its greeting to the City of Destiny upon the shores of Commencement Bay, at excursion rates and without change of cars. Tacoma has cause for great rejoicing .- [Tacoma News.

THE San Francisco newspapers are devoting considerable attention to the news and general description of Oregon. This attention is directed by the proposed early completion of railway connection with that city, and is probably selfish to for an Oregon circulation. ## THE CAUSE OF THE WAR.

Dr. Deems has solved the problem of the war. With a logic that is more novel than cogent he proves that it was the inevitable result of the "climatic influences," which so differentiated the north from the south that they were actually compelled to fight, don't you know? Why, it is plain as a pike staff, and the a victory for O'Brien and the cause of daughter for my wife. # "WHERE IGNORANCE IS BLISS."

The truth of this old adage is aptly illustrated in the following from the New York World: It is rather discouraging to people who wear real diamonds to reflect that only experts know whether they are paste or not. It was only when a supposed diamond was taken to a leweller to be reset recently that the career of the young man who was arrested on Wednesday for substituting false for real stones was closed. His adopted profes sion of botter and frequent change of emplayers seemed to have enabled him to carry on a incrative business. ## PELLETS.

EDITOR STATESMAN:-The graduating season is upon us, and now the oratorical seniors and sweet girl graduates will blossom forth with their abstract effusions and theoretical essays in a manner quite distressing to behold and to hear. After these efforts the graduates will "go out into the world," and they will lead a kind of ethereal existence for a time, as though a piece of paper written in Latin and signed by a faculty in a style quite illegible elevates them just above the level of what they term "the world." But gradnally they will rub their rough corners against the grindstone of time, and the onceit will be whetted out of them. They will finally run up against the cold and stubborn fact that a sheepskin don't ount for much, unless it is backed by a full stock of common sense, tact and perseverance, President Cleveland didn't graduate in a college, neither did Abraham Lincoln, neither did Jay Gould, and there are a number of other persons I might mention, who have acquired fame and cash without a sheepskin. A college education is a fine thing to have around the house, and a sheepskin looks nice when framed and hung up in your room; but don't count too high on these things, and underestimate the virtues of common sense, tact and perseverance. We freuently see college men eating only two meals a day, and with holes in the knees of their breeches, right alongside of people of independent means, who don't know a college curriculum from a wheelbarrow, if they should meet it in the Lord Randolph's speech will be them a bitter pill, but its effect may useful after the bad taste has got out their mouths.

Alluding to the depression, Church says that the true remedy is economy public expenditures; that the work must not allow Ireland to absorb all th attention, but must bring pressure bear to prevent the government's co mitting such extravagance as spend $500,000 on the army and admira buildings and $85,000 in decorating We minister Abbey in honor of the Queen's jubilee. He said that the country is traveling at racing speed along the road leading to irretrievable ruin. He asserted that in the event of war England might, after maddening delay and pouring out money like water, put 150,000 men in the field. As to the navy, he says England has a very powerful fleet on paper, but that after the bombardment of Alexandria it was in a helpless condition; that in 1886 the ordnance I don't believe there is anything much committee designed several 43-ton guns more lonesome in life than an old bache- and asked the Armstrongs to construct lor when he has grown very old.
