EDITOR STATESMAN :- You don't know how eager I am for a copy of the STATES-MAN. It is true I have not been absent long, but it seems like an age to me. One wants to hear from home-say, how is everybody and everything, anyway? On the 19th of January, I shook the "mud" from off my sandals, and, saying good-bye to friends at Turner, started on a journey to the semi-tropics of lower

First came the voyage on the ocean, and at this season of the year it is not always a pleasant one. But the writer, however did not "feed the sea lions' more than once, and aside from being "rained-up" and "storm-bound" at Astoria for three days and nights, we had rather a pleasant trip.

SAN FRANCISCO.

I had longed to visit that great metropolitan city and to see how much of interest it contained for me.

Being the youngest of America's great cities San Francisco has a history, which though brief in its course of years, is a succession of rapidly occurring incidents. reaching the romantic and marvelous. Tourists and visitors are especially interested in its history and are amazed on learning of some of its adventures. The invention and inaugurating of the "cable railway" stands as a monument representing the genius of one of her pioneers, to wit: H. B. Brooks. Her population forty years ago, wrs less than 500, and to-day sue is estimated to have above 300,000, possessing a taxable property of nearly $300,000,000, and her improvements in manufacturing industries and the growth of her commercial interests go on unabated.

JOURNEYING SOUTH.

In a sing the journey by rail of 482 miles across the plains and desert to Los Angeles one would not be expected to'see very much in riding in the cars, especially where a portion of the journey is made at night.

On this route you traverse the Joaquin valley, the great wheat field of California, embracing the important cities, Lathrop, Merced, and Fresno.

At the time we made the trip there had been but little rain and the plains looked exceedingly dry and arid, and on our return some three weeks later the prospects for a crop were not very encourging. A very large amount of the arable land is not being seeded to grain. I noticed that one not acquainted witht he country here can be easily deluded as to the amount of rainfall. When the San Francisco and Los Angeles papers report rainfall and claim the crops secure for the season, saying they are having copions rains, it is not to be taken as a sign that rain is falling in the interior. Along the coasts and mountain ranges they may have had their usual rainfall, but I apprehend that unless they have a great deal more in the interior in the near future, that the crops will not turn out as were represented. Leaving the San Joaquin and Tulare valleys you pass through and over the Tehachapi mountains, getting glimpses of many tunnels, and often your idea of majesty and greatness are subordinated by mental fear as you pass over the wonderful grades; you also, as it were, at one swoop, get a full view of the "Loop," that wonderful piece of railroad engineering. Passing the summit, you at once enter upon the Mojave plain and desert. In passing through this section of country your feelings of beauty and "Pretty sights" are not intensified, unless you should have a passion for the "Yuca palm."

LOS ANGELES

Is a residence city of marvelous beautv. On every hand it requires but a few steps from business activity to carry one into the bowery repose of the tropical gardens, which many citizens seem to take so much pride in keeping up about the home, whether it be one of those neat little cottages, or one of the more imposing and more costly structures. The country in and about the city, abounds in a great variety of fruits, among which are orange, lemon, lime, fig. pomegranate, date, apricot, nectarine, pear, peach, prune, and plum trees, and grape vines of all kinds, besides the almond, pecan, and walnut trees, and many others. The valleys adjacent to the city are filled all cut up in small tracts, and the larger tracts are rapidly being subdivided and placedlupon the market.

It was a surprise to us to know how one could make a living from so small a home-a ten acre or twenty acre tractthat it is claimed that those persons re-alize more from their products than an Oregonian could from his quarter section, or even his section of land, and at the end of the year, would be wealthier, for his property in the meantime would have enhanced in value from 10 to 25 per cent.

To illustrace, I witnessed the leasing of forty acres of land for a term of five years at a monthly rental of $15 00 per acre, payable in advance. This land was seven miles from the city and unimproved. Orange orchards, full bearing sell from $300, to $750, per acre—and walnuts full bearing still higher. Land is worth from $150 00 to $1500 00 per acre, according to location and improve-

BANTA CLARA VALLEY.

On the 17th ult., wife, sister, and self, beat a basty retreat to the city and then immediately went to San Jose.

This valley, in .ny eye, is to California what Los Angeles is said to be to the United States, "the garden spot" of the state. San Jose is centrally located and is a very pretty city. She too, at this time, is taking on "the boom." Real estate and improved city property are making steady advances.

Upon entering the city you note at right, but she will not be sold. once the difference of her people as com-pared with the denizens of Los Angeles. Instead of great throngs and seemingly idle masses, you see an active and energetic class, pushing along, and their very motion imbues one with new zeal and new energy. Their public buildings are very creditable. The court house and state normal schools are models of neatness and beauty.

Aside from many courtesies and favors received from the hands of kind relatives, living in the valley and Santa Clara City, we were kindly entertained by Rev. Henry Avery, of San Jose, who some twenty-five years ago, preached in New-Home church in Oregon. We must not omit to mention the "Pacific University," situated midway between San Jose and Santa Clara. The campus having been greatly beautified by its beautiful walks, drives, and lawns, all not be allowed to win one day and beaten being ornamented by the choicest of the next to suit the convenience of race flowers and shade trees, teaching one track gamblers. I found conclusive proof in a barber shop yesterday of the correctness of was that the cause of half the evils of the age lay in its monstrous egotism-its ignorant assumption of superiority above all other ages. It was apropos of George Washington and his birthday.

MAUD S. NOT FOR SALES

it was Mr. Frank Siddails of Philadelphia who offered Mr. Robert Bonner $100,000 for Mand S., and it is said he has supplemented this offer by another of $125,000, with a certified check within twenty-four hours after the acceptance for the amount. Concerning this Mr. Friday. Bonner said:

"I have not received the offer $125,000, and it would make no difference if I had. If you were to come in here and propose to buy, say my little finger, you would naturally expect to pay a pretty good price for it, and you would, furthermore, be pretty safe in offering a big price for it, because you would know very well that I would not sell the finger. Well, I would as soon think of parting with my little finger as I would with Maud S. Maud S. is simply not for sale; that is all there is to the matter. If anybody close call.—Oregon City Enterprise. were to offer me $200,000 or $300,000 it would be all the same. There are some things we do not part with for money, and Maud S. is one of them. If people like to advertise themselves by making large offers for her I suppose that is all

"Mr. Vanderbilt felt the same way about her, and I never was more surprised in my life than when, through Mr. Turnbull, he offered her to me. The $40,000 I gave him for her was, of course, no more to him than forty cents would be to most men. The reason he sold her was because his eyesight grew dim and drove them. A million dollars would have been no temptation to him to sell Millions were common enough with him, but there was only one Maud S. 1 suppose the happiest day in Mr. Vanderbilt's life was when he drove Mand S. and Aldine in 2:1516. But he could not drive her any more with comfort, and he wanted to dispose of her where she would not be abused; where she would not be put upon now this race track and now that, and where she would her placed with me because he wanted her well cared for. It was her comfort sale, and cannot be bought.
