O.S.C. Beavers Face UCLA This Saturday

Stiner's Men on Road For Next Three Weeks

Faced with the replacing of at least two men on the team, head football coach Lon Stiner of the Oregon State Beavers has his guns trained on the UCLA game in Los Angeles Saturday. The two players whose injuries in the California encounter last weekend were most serious are Orville Zielaskowski, left guard, and Cros Shelton, fullback. Zielaskowski sustained a dislocation of his right elbow, while Shelton received a painful injury to his right leg.

How long both men would be absent from the lineup remained undisclosed. No fracture was present in either case, according to Dr. Waldo Ball, team physician. Other players injured in the Bear fracas were Warren Perryman, right end, Bob Stevens, quarterback, and Bob Libbee, left half. None of these injuries were termed serious, however.

Shelton's absence leaves only Joe Day, star of last Saturday's contest, at the fullback post. It appeared likely that Lee Gustafson, regularly alternating with Bill Melnis at right half, would move to fullback to trade off with Day.

The team entrained for Los Angeles Wednesday night and will spend a good share of the time for the next three weeks on the road. The Santa Clara and Washington States games follow in Portland on successive weekends. The series between the two schools now stands at three wins for the Bruins, and two for the Beavers, with three games having ended in deadlocks.

Football Friday Night At Corvallis Hi School

Playing their second game of the season, Corvallis high school will meet the strong Camas, Wash., High Friday night under the lights at Corvallis. The game will be called at 8 o'clock. The Corvallis high school and Spartan field are located at the north city limits just west of the Ninth street highway from Camp Adair.

Corvallis rolled over a tricky Chemawa Indian club last week 27 to 7, and not to be excelled, Camas polished off Lincoln Hi, of Portland.

Marine Corps Waits For Series Hurler

Marine recruiting headquarters at Nashville, Tenn., has the "welcome" mat out for Johnny Beazley, 23, Tennessean who pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to two victories over New York in the world series.

Beazley announced last week he would return to Nashville after the series and enlist in the marine corps. Monday, after he had repulsed the Yankees, 4-2, all hands at the recruiting office dispatched this telegram to the Cardinal right-hander:

"If you can toss hand grenades like you pitch for them Cards, hurry up."

Ralph Fife, former Pitt guard who played for the eastern army All-Stars, is in both the army and the navy. He was drafted after he had applied for a navy commission, which came through the other day, so now he's trying to clear away the red tape and change uniforms...

SECOND GUESSING with Sgt. E. A. Brown

Want to talk about football? Let's go.

Saturday's spectacular program, high-spotted by the defeat of Minnesota, Texas, Fordham, Louisiana State, Tulane and Notre Dame, also saw two 1941 sectional title-holders—Mississippi State of the Southeastern conference and Duke of the Southern—both trounced within their own competitive groups. And that probably is simply the beginning.

However, one of last year's sectional champions, Minnesota, still looks plenty good enough to repeat.

The Gophers saw their great 18-game winning streak broken, 7-6, by Bernie Bierman's exceedingly tough Iowa Naval Pre-Flight outfit but lost little, if any, prestige thereby. The Gophers outgained Bierman's Cadets by a wide margin, and if any Big Ten rival can take Minnesota's measure, it is not now discernible by the naked eye.

Mississippi State, unbeaten within the Southeastern conference since 1939, dropped a decisive 21-6 decision to Alabama, but there was no real upset in that, because the Crimson Tide was known to be strong. Duke's trouncing by Wake Forest's Deacons, previously beaten by underrated North Carolina, came as a big surprise. The Deacons really poured it on, 20-7, and earned their first triumph over Duke since 1926.

Notre Dame, Texas and Fordham all fell afoul of intersectional opponents. Fordham, long an eastern power, took an unholy shelling from Tennessee's Volunteers, 40-14, all the more shocking in view of the fact that Tennessee had been held to a scoreless tie by South Carolina the previous week.

Just what has happened at Notre Dame, nobody seems to know. Following their 7-7 draw with Wisconsin of a week ago, the Irish were whipped by Georgia Tech's Cleve Engineers, 13-6. Texas surrendered to Northwestern, 3-0, on a field goal kicked by a substitute guard, A. Pick.

Auburn, Rice Win Both major Louisiana outfits, Louisiana State and Tulane, dropped from last week's heights with a dull thud. Tulane, which had swamped Southern California, was itself soundly trounced by Auburn, 27-13. Louisiana State, which had conquered Texas A. and M., found itself no match for Rice, and went down, 27-14.

Tennessee's rout of Fordham gave that state a perfect day in major intersectional competition, for Vanderbilt, a southwestern conference dark-horse, swamped Purdue of the Big Ten, 26-0. Georgia, co-favorite with Alabama in the southeastern group, ran wild over Furman, 40-7, while Kentucky ran up a 53-0 count on Washington and Lee.

Pre-Flight Teams Good The colleges still are looking for their first victory over one of the navy pre-flight teams. Not only did Bierman's Iowa crew stop Minnesota, but St. Mary's pre-flight whipped U.C.L.A., 18-7. The other two pre-flighters, North Carolina and Georgia, played to a sensational 14-14 draw on Friday night. Another strong service array, Great Lakes, came back from its Michigan defeat to trounce Iowa, 25-0, while Fort Riley spilled Kansas State, 21-7.

Ohio State opened Big Ten competition by outspeeding and outscoring Billy Hillenbrand and Indiana in a wild game, 32-21. Michigan, with Tom Kuzma still on the sidelines, spilled Michigan State, 20-0, while Wisconsin was romping at Marquette's expense, 35-7.

In the southwest, Texas Christian, led by Emery Nix, took Arkansas over the hurdles, 13-6, while the Texas Aggies, rebounding from the Louisiana State debacle, whipped Texas Tech, 19-0.

Out here in the west, Oregon State, Rose Bowl champion, served notice that it was not to be counted out of the 1942 chase without an argument by beating California, the "future book" favorite, 13-8. Washington outplayed Southern California by a wide margin but had to be content with a scoreless tie. Washington State nosed out Oregon, 7-0, and Santa Clara stopped Stanford, 14-6.

In the east, Pitt, smothered by Minnesota, engineered a bona-fide upset in routing Southern Methodist, 20-7. Williams, of the "Little Three," was responsible for another—a 19-6 defeat of Princeton's faltering Tigers.

Notre Dame, Texas and Fordham all fell afoul of intersectional opponents. Fordham, long an eastern power, took an unholy shelling from Tennessee's Volunteers, 40-14, all the more shocking in view of the fact that Tennessee had been held to a scoreless tie by South Carolina the previous week.

That order, incidentally, follows a series about salvage lumber, stating that individual organizations won't negotiate with contractors for it, that such lumber will be piled north of the field house, that organizations may keep present stocks if they are piled at least 15 feet from a building, that lumber may be requisitioned, and that organizations will stop taking equipment and shrubbery from houses in the area.

Don't Use Phone Poles For Toothpicks, Fella's

Yes, discipline is getting pretty tough in this camp. You can't do this and you can't do that. New orders coming out all the time.

"Telegraph poles," reads a new order signed by Major Victor N. Miller, camp adjutant, "will not be removed from their present location by any organization."

Oh, well, there always are compensations. If that cramps your style, especially on Halloween, at least a soldier will know where to find a pole if he gets tired and wants to lean against one.

Medics Non-Com Club Opens in Farm House

Remodeled Building Meets Wide Approval

The non-coms of the Medics section and their invited guests turned out in force for the opening of their Non-Com club, Wednesday evening, Sept. 30.

The club is located in what was formerly a farm home and the basement of the home and the two floors above have been completely remodeled to the needs of the organization. The basement attracted the greatest amount of personal attention on opening night but the dance floor and its adjoining snack bar enjoyed a capacity business.

Management of the club, which showed its business ability by choosing payday night for the opening, is under the direction of a board of directors headed by M/Sgt. John E. Burks.
