Still East vs. West; Even Unto War Ideas

The people of the Atlantic and Pacific coasts differ strikingly in their attitudes on the war, according to 1st Lt. Byron C. Wright, now returned from the Provost Marshal Generals' school at Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga.

Himself a son of Oregon, Lt. Wright was amazed to hear so much talk about Germany and so little about Japan, for he has thought of Japan as the main enemy.

Lt. Wright was among the first to reach Camp Adair. He arrived when the headquarters were at the Elks Temple in Corvallis. Now he is assigned to the Internal Security and Intelligence Division here.

Of the 2,000 students in the Georgia school that Lt. Wright attended, about half were officers, ranging up to lieutenant colonel, and half were officers' candidates. He met officers that he had seen before at different camps, and in the course of his travel, amounting to 7,000 miles in all, he stopped off in Washington and found that some 42,000 government employees had been moved away from the capital, because of the congestion.

Lt. Wright has had twelve and one-half year's service. He was born at Moline, Ill., has his legal residence in Portland, is a graduate of Oregon State college, and was at Camp Lewis during World War No. 1, in the 1st Infantry of the 13th Division. He is 50, is married, and has three children.

SALEM HOSPITALITY

When in Salem look at the bulletin board of the Home Hospitality League, USO Club. Sign up there if you want a home-cooked meal. In addition, you may learn of families who will be glad to have you pass the night with them. And those attending church in Salem will be invited to the homes of church members.

Horseshoes of Kentucky Derby winners for the past 13 years have been contributed to scrap.

Do They Do The La Zonga?

Pvt. Leonard Green expressed much satisfaction Tuesday night after his Latin-American dancing class had completed its second lesson. About a dozen enlisted men and as many girls, who work either on the post or in the vicinity of camp attended and learned the fundamental steps of the rhumba, conga and tango. The class meets every Tuesday night from 7:30 until 9 in the "studio de la danse" in Service Club 1. Additional steps will be taught and practiced next week.

Soldiers Are Invited To Portland Exhibit

The Portland Art Association, one of the oldest art groups of the Pacific Coast, will observe its golden anniversary with the Fiftieth Anniversary Exhibition, open to the public starting Wednesday, December 2.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Art Institute of Chicago, the Albright Art Gallery of Buffalo, New York, the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, the Layton Art Gallery of Milwaukee and the famous W. W. Croker Art Collection are all contributing original masterpieces which will make the exhibition the most outstanding event of its kind on the west coast.

The museums are contributing famous paintings, predominately of the French 19th century school which delighted art lovers fifty years ago. In addition to the "1892 Gallery" there will be a large display of contemporary paintings. In this latter group are works of Renoir, Degas, Braque and Picasso with the "1892 Gallery" will feature the masterpieces of Rousseau, Daubigny, Israels, Monticelli and many other artists.

The Portland Art Association has issued a special invitation to soldiers and all servicemen to visit the Portland Art Museum while the exhibition is in progress.

DAY ROOM SUPPLIES

Ping-pong players (if not overly destructive) and letter writers at the service clubs and day rooms (if not too verbose), will have a complete supply of (1) ping pong balls and (2) writin' material, field office of the Red Cross reported yesterday.
