Gen. Cook Explains Army Orientation

Timber Wolf Commander Says Courses Will Show How to Win

he Timber Wolf Division will exain and discuss the major events occurred since the war began in 939. Major General Gilbert R. look announced in a KOAC broadast, introducing the series.

"How the Axis powers have ruthessly over-run and destroyed freelom loving nations," will be decribed, he said. "How our allies have more than held their own waiting our arrival."

The commanding general of the livision added that the speakers in meertain terms what we are up against—the type and character of and defeat.

"Fighting means that we must know 'How to kill,' by shooting and stabbing and 'How not to be killed," by using cover and concealment and by more killing of the enemy. We fight as a team-with each other. We must be good individual fighters, but neither you nor I can win the war as an individual, no matter how good we are.

"The riflemen need the help of the automatic riflemen, the 60 and gunners and the artillerymen. All need the help of each other and of the engineers, medical, quartermaster, and ordnance men. They supply and maintain us, protect us and care for our wounded.

"The reconnaissance troop finds the enemy and protects us. While the signal company permits us to talk at all times with each other. You see we are a fighting team consisting of all arms and services with many different types of weapons, equipment and transportation. The best in the world.

"We are human beings, just like the people in the communities from which we came. We represent every state in the Union, every religion, every grade of education, and every trade, profession and business.

"Some of us want to fight,, som do not want to fight and others are, at present, indifferent. Many of us are married. Our age varies from 18 years to above 50 years. We are comparatively young. We are, in general, not used to the hardships of war. We are not hard mentally, physically or morally. "We are not accustomed to kill-
